THE AMERICAN 10 1902

BOOK TRADE JOURNAL

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED

The American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular.

[ESTABLISHED 1852.]

VOL. LXII., No. 7.

NEW YORK, August 16, 1902.

WHOLE No. 1594

Oddest among all odd books is THE STORY OF A STRANGE CAREER. Being the Autobiography of a Convict. It is an authentic document, edited by Stanley Waterloo. The author was a criminal, serving a term in a Western penitentiary. Although of good family and education, he was nevertheless a degenerate, swerving naturally into the downward path. He gives many graphic and interesting descriptions of his adventures on a whaler in South America; on a British man-of-war; in the American navy; at Fort Fisher; in Confederate prisons during the civil war; and in the New York draft riots. It is a strong and rugged picture of the life of a "soldier of fortune." (12mo, Cloth, $1.20 net; postage 12 cents additional.)

London critics have agreed that Gilbert Parker's place among living novelists is in the front rank; King Edward has recognized his genius by investing him with the honors of knighthood; the American press declares his popularity permanent; therefore his forthcoming work, DONOVAN PASHA, and Some People of Egypt, is the work of a master and bears the impress of a master's hand. Ready in September. (12mo, Cloth, Colored Frontispiece, $1.50.)

The Boston Transcript says the "TOWN AND COUNTRY LIBRARY" has come to be the hall mark of good reading, insomuch that any book which bears the now familiar label can be opened with a certainty of satisfaction." Nor need anything more than this unsolicited statement be said of the new volume (No. 315) entitled TALES ABOUT TEMPERAMENTS, by John Oliver Hobbes. Both the author and the publication are a guaranty of superior work. (Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.)

A Speckled Bird

By AUGUSTA EVANS WILSON

Author of "St. Elmo," "Infelice," "Vashti," "At the Mercy of Tiberius," etc.

The sixteen years that have elapsed since the publication of Mrs. Augusta Evans Wilson's last work, "At the Mercy of Tiberius," have made her retirement appear as final. The appearance, therefore, of "A Speckled Bird" comes in the nature of a surprise, and this surprise is sure to deepen, with the discovery that in this new novel the author's imagination blossoms forth with all the glow and glamour that took the public captive in "St Elmo" thirty odd years ago, and still works a spell as potent upon the generation of to-day.

There is in this new novel a gain in breadth of view which brings this remarkable woman quite into touch with the present time and the things that have occupied the thinking world since she last laid down her pen.

As with all her previous novels, the scenes of this story are laid mainly in the South, and in it Mrs. Wilson gives full reign to her genius as a born-story teller. It is rich in movement, local color, and contrast of sentiment, and some of the types presented are unlike any found in the author's previous books. Incidentally, the conditions of the South, and the state of Southern feeling during the Reconstruction are brought into effective play. The dramatic situations are strong, and the love complexities intense. It is the hatred of her father by her grandmother's neighbors, and the reflection of this in their attitude towards the heroine of the story, placing her in the parable light of the Scriptural Speckled Bird, that gives name to the story.

It stands in the highest rank of modern fiction, and will command the largest sale of any novel of the year.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Beginning with the issue of July 5, 1902, the titles of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The titles of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. Net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fs. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., mar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Andersen, Hans Christian. Fairy tales from Hans Christian Andersen; tr. by E. Lucas; il. by T. H. C., and W. H. Robinson. N. Y., Macmillan, 1902. 8+312 p. 16°, (Temple classics for young people.) cl., 50 c., leath., 80 c.

Atherton, E., ed. The adventures of Marco Polo, the great traveller. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [Jl.] c. 24+163 p. il. por. map, D. (Appleton's home reading books; ed. by W. T. Harris, division 3, history.) cl., 65 c. A supplementary reader in history intended principally for young people.

Balch, F. H. The bridge of the gods: a romance of Indian Oregon. 7th ed.; il. by L. Maynard Dixon. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1902. [Ag.] c. '90, 1902. 12+280 p. D. cl., $1.50.

See note, "Weekly Record," P. W., December 20, 1890 [86.] From the legends of the Columbia River and the mystical "bridge of the gods," the author has derived a realistic picture of the powerful tribes that inhabited the Oregon country two centuries ago. The tragic fate of the young minister who came from New England to convert the Indians is the climax of a story in which savage superstitions and Christian courage struggle for mastery.

Bateson, W. Mendel's principles of heredity: a defence; with a translation of Mendel's original papers on "Hybridization." N. Y., Macmillan, 1902. 14+212 p. 12°, (Cambridge University Press ser.) $1.30 net.

Browder, Jonathan Bayley. The time elements of the Oresteian trilogy: a thesis submitted for the degree of Doctor of philosophy, University of Wisconsin, 1897. Madison, Wis., University of Wisconsin, 1902. [Jl.] 76 p. O. (Bulletin of the University of Wisconsin, no. 62; Philology and literature ser., v. 2, no. 1.) pap., 35 c.

An inquiry into the length of time spanned by the action of the Oresteia. The author argues that Orestes did not proceed directly to Athens, but that he first wandered far and wide on what appears to have been a prolonged pilgrimage of self-purification and atonement.

Burdick, Francis Marion. The essentials of business law. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [Ag.]

c. 20+285 p. por. D. (Twentieth century text-books.) cl., $1.25.

For boys and girls in our secondary schools. The purpose is to show how the rules of law, governing ordinary business transactions, have been developed, and to tell what they are. Technical law terms have been discarded as far as possible. When they have been used, care has been taken to explain and illustrate their meaning, so as to render them easily intelligible to the young student.

 "This account of the feudal régime forms the first chapter in the second volume of the 'Histoire générale du iv. Siècle & nos Jours,' edited by M. M. Lavi-ssé and Rambaud. It is now done into English in the hope that it may be useful as a short description of the social organization prevailing in Europe, especially from the tenth to the thirteenth century. It seems particularly fitted for collateral reading in high school and college classes in history, and at the same time it may prove of interest outside the schools."—Preface.

In the following chapters the author has endeavored to answer these and kindred queries as a Jewish liberal."—Introduction.
- Wisser, J: P. The tactics of coast defense. Kansas City, Mo., Hudson-Kimberly Publishing Co., [1902.] c. 232 p. O. cl., $2.
 The present work is the outcome of lectures delivered by Major Wisser at the Naval War College and at Cornell University, Ithaca, and of five years of study on the tactics of coast defense, supplementary to nearly twenty years of study of tactics in general. The chapters treat of principles of strategy and tactics involved in coast defense, armament, sites for batteries and forts, coast artillery material, organization of coast artillery, instruction and training, battle tactics of coast defense, etc. List of books and articles consulted (2 p.).
- Whitaker, Jos. & Sons, comps. The reference catalogue of current literature; containing the full titles of books now in print and on sale; with the prices at which they may be obtained of all booksellers and an index containing nearly one hundred and forty thousand references, 1902. N. Y., Office of The Publishers' Weekly, [1902.] 2 v., no regular paging, index 798 p.+publishers' catalogues, O. hf. leath., $5 net.
 The present issue of the [English] Reference Catalogue of Current Literature is even bulkier than its immediate forerunner, and contains the complete or abridged lists of one hundred and seventy-nine publishers. A notable fact is the increase in colonial and foreign houses who have inserted their catalogues, thus further enhancing the utility of the publication. The Index now extends to seven hundred and ninety-eight pages, containing an aggregate of one hundred and thirty-five thousand entries, an increase on that of the last edition of two hundred and twenty-two pages, and comprising nearly thirty-eight thousand additional references. Every book contained in the "Reference Catalogue" will be found in the Index, under title, subject and author.

Wilson, Mrs. Augusta Jane Evans. A speckled bird. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham Co., [1902.] [Ag.] c. 5-526 p. D. cl., $1.50.

About reconstruction times a scheming New England judge eloped with a high bred Southern girl. The hatred which the Southern people thereafter felt for the judge, is reflected later in their attitude to his daughter, who is, according to the parable quoted in the story, "As a speckled bird, the birds round about are against her."

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE, Washington, D. C., has just published for the Library of Congress, (Division of Bibliography,) a "List of References on Reciprocity
[in] Books, Articles in Periodicals and Congressional Documents," compiled by A. P. C.
Griffin, Chief of Division of Bibliography. No effort has been made to cover the entire literature of the subject, but to present a suggestive list of authorities. The references are largely to discussions of the subject. (38 p.
8°, cl.)

THE SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., has just issued a "Catalogue of the Public Documents of the Fifty-fifth Congress and of other departments of the Government of the United States for the period from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1899." This is the fourth volume of the "Comprehensive Index," and contains in addition to the documents and reports submitted to Congress during the period named all publications of the executive departments, bureaus and offices of the government issued during the two fiscal years 1897-1899. The compilation was begun under the supervision of Miss Mary A. Hartwell and finished under that of Miss Alice C. Fichten-kam. (1070 p. 4°, cl.)

BULLETIN 26 of the Bureau of American Ethnology, which is about ready, is the first issued of a new series recently authorized by Congress. The initial number of the new series is 25, "Natick-English and English-Natick Dictionary," by James Hammond
Trumbull, which will be ready for distribution within a few weeks. Number 27, "Tsim-shian Texts," recorded and translated by Franz Boas, is in press; several others are in preparation, including a new edition of the "Introduction to the Study of Indian Languages," by J. W. Powell, and the "Diccionario de Motul," an extended dictionary of the Maya language, revised by the late Dr. Ber-endt and afterward by the late Dr. Brinton, and now undergoing final revision by Señor Andomaro Molina, of Merida, Yucatan. The "Cyclopedia of Indian Tribes" is well advanced. It has been arranged to send one or more volumes to press for publication in Bulletin form during the current year. The Nineteenth Annual Report for 1897-1898, in two parts, is now in the bindery and will be published shortly.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 16, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

AS TO "BOOK TRUSTS."

EVER since the formation of the two trade associations and the carrying into effect of their rules that are intended to recover for the book trade what it has been in danger of losing altogether—its honorable position as a commercial and educational element in the community—there has been much unconsidered and silly talk about the danger of the "book trust." Especially has this cry been raised lately by a Western daily and an Eastern trade paper over the enforcement by the American Booksellers' Association of Reform Resolution No. 1, which calls for the exclusion of the books of a publishing house that refuses to co-operate in maintaining prices. In this cry the standpoint of the American Publishers' Association and the standpoint of the American Booksellers' Association are confused, and the action of the Booksellers' Association is treated from a point of view that is, to say the least, based upon a misconception. As all who are interested and informed on the subject know, the objective point of both associations is the same; but the individual action of each must be judged by itself. The publishers may elect to obtain results by one course and the booksellers decide to gain their point by another; yet each would resist most emphatically were the action of one association judged by the action of the other.

As to the charge of "combination" or "trust," in the sense of a consolidation of certain large interests to exterminate competition, nothing could be more absurd than to apply the term to the present movement for reform in the book trade. It is certainly no "combination" to publish books at prices that can be trusted; it is no "combination" to make such retail prices as allow a living profit to those who earn it by their calling; it is no "combination" to deny the privilege of discount to one who abuses it to the detriment of that calling; it is no "combination" to abolish a system of inflated prices, calculated to inveigle weak-minded persons with imaginary deductions and bargains; it is no "combination" to decline being a party to the baiting game as practised by the underseller; it is no "combination" to decline giving the underseller free advertising in the bargain, for it is the very advertising of the publisher that forms the freshest bait; it is no "combination" to refuse to discredit one's legitimate agents by underselling them over their heads; it is no "combination" to protest against being discredited one's self by having one's own prices given the lie; it is no "combination" to put a stop to pernicious practices that have dragged down the book trade to the lowest level of cheap-John fakirs; it is, in brief, no "combination" to adhere to principles which alone can restore the confidence of the trade and public.

Let us for once have our say on this misapplied word "trust" ever flung at us when it is simply a question of fair dealing; let us say that this clamor against the so-called "book trust" is nothing but the baldest jingoism, intended to deceive people and to excuse crooked business. If simple adherence to sane business principles is a "trust" or "combination," then, on the same theory, the common practice invariably resorted to by ignorance or recklessness is a "trust," but a "combination" as corrupt and disreputable as the action of the book trade associations to reform its business methods is sound and honorable. For the "liberal art" of underselling—the lowest and cheapest trick of the trade—is as easy as sucking eggs; it needs no professional training, no tried business experience, no solid investment, no hard work and application, no devotion to a calling, no respect for the usages of the trade, no regard for the rights of others, no conscience, no pride, no principle. On the contrary; for the possession of any one positive quality would disqualify for successful underselling. The art of underselling, in short, is the art of living on the industry and enterprise of others. It was to correct these evils and to limit the depredations on honest trading, and not for restraint of trade in any sense of the word, that the book trade combined. To obfuscate its intentions by libelling this movement as a "trust" is not only malicious but silly.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER.

WILLIAM S. ROSSITER, expert special agent of the Census Bureau, according to the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, has prepared a report of unusual interest on printing and publishing in the United States in the last decade. The statistics he has gathered show that there has been no radical change in the gathering of news or in the management and scope of daily newspapers. One characteristic of the decade, however, was the great increase in the quantity of news published. "Partly because of the ambitious and progressive spirit of the period," says Mr. Rossiter, "and partly because of the lavish expenditures of capital made by reorganized or newly-established publications in order to break into the patronage of prosperous competitors and secure a foothold, the dailies of the great cities became the purveyors of the news of the world to an extent never before attempted. In many cases—especially in New York City—it was freely admitted that this expenditure was carried beyond the boundaries of business prudence."

On the subject of the principal sources of newspaper income and expenditures Mr. Rossiter says:

"By 1900 it had become customary for large advertisers to form combinations; it is said that the patronage of fewer than twenty advertisers forms more than half the total quantity of advertising appearing in the daily newspapers of New York City. The only new source of income in the field of advertising was found in newcomers—principally tobaccos, whiskeys, cereals and books. Of these interests the publisher, formerly the most conservative advertiser, became the most daring. The professional advertising agent might be termed another cause of loss to the daily papers to the amount of commissions exacted. Between the opposing perplexities of competition and combinations of the advertisers there has been a decline in the advertising earning power of leading newspapers."

"After passing 300,000 circulation the value of advertising becomes a race between the receipts from that source and the cost of white paper. The advertising in one of the New York evening papers, with circulation much exceeding 300,000, was recently declared to entail a cost of 21 cents per line for white paper. Evidently the publisher who secures a circulation of huge proportions confronts the necessity of securing from his advertising patrons a return of the cost of the paper space which they occupy, with a margin of profit. For reasons already noted, the profit is in many cases uncertain, and, as the decade drew to a close, for certain newspapers in the great cities a new problem arose. The population had become so vast, and means of communication with surrounding territory so easy, that systematic search for circulation had been rewarded by enormous sales, the penalty for which was reduction or complete wiping out of profits on advertising. The circulation ball, once in motion, is not easy to stop, and the serious nature of this problem appeared when the cost of white paper threatened to exceed the return from the advertiser. At the close of the decade such a possibility confronted several American daily newspapers. Overcirculation necessitated also an increase in capital invested in plant, with the added burden of interest which it represented.

"It may be said, therefore, that at the close of the decade from 1890 to 1900 the daily newspaper was more of a public institution than ever before, because it sacrificed an increased share of its revenue for the public benefit, obtaining no compensating financial return from either purchaser or advertiser. This was a condition very much to the advantage of the public, but one which tended to periods of reduced dividends in those establishments appearing to be most prosperous. Daily publications suffered from the rage for enlarged business and narrow profits so characteristic of all industries during the decade, but the relief which other callings found in combinations was not open to the publishers of daily newspapers, because the inequalities of circulation forever make combinations of newspapers impossible. Prosperity for the daily newspaper clearly lies in a middle course, if conditions permit, with respect to both news and circulation. The changes which occurred in weekly publications during the last decade were not such as to merit more than passing consideration."

SCOTTISH HISTORICAL PRINTING.

THE EDINBURGH BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY is at present engaged upon a work of importance to all interested in the history of printing. Six years ago, says a writer in the Glasgow Herald, the society resolved to begin the compilation of a bibliographical catalogue of books, etc., published in Scotland before 1700. The direction of the work was undertaken by H. G. Aldis, now of the University Library, Cambridge, in whose hands the material has accumulated to such an extent that the title-slips now number about 3500. In order to facilitate further progress, and to enable contributors to know what titles are still unrecorded or defective, it has been decided to issue a preliminary hand-list of one-line titles, which it is hoped will soon be in the hands of the printer. This hand-list will consist of about 150 quarto pages, and will contain the titles arranged in chronological order, followed by a list of the printers and booksellers and an index of authors, etc. The main object in printing the list is that copies may be distributed to bibliographers and others who have opportunities of furthering the completion of the bibliography, and who may be willing to send in additional information.

But beyond the particular purpose it is intended to serve, the list will form a useful record of Scottish printing of the period dealt with. At present there is no formal history of printing in Scotland during the seventeenth century. Dickson's and Edmond's admirable "Annals of Scotland Printing" comes down only to 1600, and a knowledge of what was being done by Scottish printers during the next hundred years can only be picked up, slowly and laboriously, from such books as Watson's preface or Mr. Edmond's volume on the Aberdeen printers, or a recondite work with the unpromising title of Lee's "Memorial for the Bible Societies of Scotland." Despite a few works printed at Stirling and St. Andrews, and possibly by John Scot, at Dundee, in the sixteenth century, it was only in the next century that printing was generally practiced outside Edinburgh.

COMMUNICATIONS.

TO DESIGNATE SIZES OF BOOKS BY THE METRIC SYSTEM.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: Your editorial of August 2 calling attention to the strong recommendation of the international congress of publishers that the size of books be given in cm. leads me to remind American publishers that in 1876 a strong committee of librarians was appointed to investigate this matter thoroughly. Their report was that the best method of giving size was to "give the size" in cm. Every few years from that time to this some committee or body has taken up the subject afresh, the last one being the special committee of the American Library Association in revising the rules in connection with the Library of Congress for the printed catalogue cards. It is significant that thorough investigation each time reaches exactly the same result. Is it not the part of wisdom to get rid of the present lack of system and adopt at once what is bound to be the international method? The other reports have sometimes given height without width and one proposition was to give the nearest half cm., a refinement quite unnecessary except for bibliographic rarities. It is enough to give the nearest height in cm. of the uncut page or of the squares of the bound book followed by the width if greater accuracy is desired, and always if the book is square or oblong, the height and width being separated preferably by x instead of by a dash as in your editorial. As I have served on several of these committees I know that the variation you comment on is not a real one. If we give exact measurements there can be no discrepancy in systems. The scheme made by our committee 25 years ago which THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has used was based on actual measurement of hundreds of volumes, but in drawing the dividing line between sizes some arbitrary point had to be chosen which would seem large for the smaller size and small for the larger. With the adoption of the cm. system, however, the whole world would be in harmony, there could be no mistake and it would be much easier for laymen to understand the kind of book they were getting to see the height in cm. than to see the conventional 8°, 12°, etc.

I take exception to your statement also that "the march of reform is delayed by the present unsettled status of the metric system." This was never so firmly established as now, and Congress recently passed a bill making it obligatory in this country and then reconsidered it, not from doubt as to the wisdom, but in order to give a little more time for consideration. Those most familiar with the subject have no doubt that this action will soon be taken. Nearly all the civilized world has long been using the metric system as its only measure, and the people who declaim against it have been silent many years. Even those who for some fanciful reason do not like it admit that it is inevitably to be universal. The book trade should co-operate with librarians in dropping one and forever the size letters O, D, S, etc., and the old fold symbols 8°, 12°, 16°, etc., and hereafter record size by giving size in the international measures.

MELVIL DEWEY.

POSTAL MATTERS.

THE REDEMPTION OF UNCANCELLED POSTAL CARDS.

THE postoffice department has called a halt and revoked the recent order which was to go in effect August 1, providing for the redemption of uncanceled postal cards, pending the decision of the attorney-general as to the legality of such a course. The order is held up because some one called the attention of the postmaster-general to that clause in the law which reads: "No postmaster shall sell or dispose of stamps in any manner except for cash, under penalty of a fine or imprisonment."

OBITUARY NOTES.

JAMES JOSEPH JACQUES TISSOT, the artist, and illustrator of "The Life of Christ," brought out in this country by the S. S. McClure Company and McClure, Phillips & Co., the originals of which are in the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, died in Paris, August 9. He was born at Nantes, France, on October 15, 1836.

DR. MARTIN LUTHER HOLBROOK, an old friend in the book trade, died at his home, No. 46 East Twenty-first Street, New York, August 12, after a lingering illness. Dr. Holbrook was born in Mantua, Portage Co., Ohio, February 3, 1831, of a New England family whose ancestors were among the first to settle in the Western Reserve. Brought up as a farmer, he studied in the Ohio Agricultural College, and was for three years editor of The Ohio Farmer. He began to take an interest in hygiene and medicine, and late in the fifties became a practicing physician. In 1861-'63 he was associated with Dr. Dio Lewis in Boston in his propaganda of physical culture and hygiene and the introduction of the Lewis system into the schools of various cities. In 1864 Dr. Holbrook came to New York City and became a member of the firm of Miller, Wood & Holbrook, publishers of medical books and The Herald of Health, of which paper Dr. Holbrook remained editor until 1898. During the war he had much to do with army sanitation. About that time, too, his firm established the first Turkish bath in New York City, in Laight Street, close to their place of business. The place was headquarters for writers and physicians interested in advocating what were then regarded as mere theories as to hygiene, but to-day are accepted and applied by most practitioners. He was one of the earliest advocates in the United States of the kindergarten system. As a writer of many medical treatises and as editor for twenty-four years Dr. Holbrook gained pre-eminence as a teacher of ways and means to prevent and protect against disease rather than merely to cure it. His published works include "Hygiene of the Brain and Cure of Nervousness," "Eating for Strength," "Parturition Without Pain," "Liver Complaint," "Mental Dyspepsia and Headache," "Chastity," "Marriage and Parentage," "Hygienic Treatment of Consumptives," "Stirpiculture," etc. Dr. Holbrook's wife, Lucy Lee Holbrook, an artist and conspicuous member of Sorosis, died several years ago.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The New York Times has acquired the triangle bounded by Broadway, West Forty-second Street and Seventh Avenue, in New York City, and will at once begin the erection thereon of a large modern steel construction building primarily for its own use. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy early in 1904. In the nearly fifty-one years of its existence the New York Times has thus far occupied four different buildings on three sites. The first of these, in 1851, was at 113 Nassau Street. The second was at the northeast corner of Nassau and Beekman Streets. The third was the one whereon the newspaper is now published. Two buildings in succession have been erected on the present site, the first in 1857 and the second in 1888.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BEEVILLE, TEX.—Miss Bobbitt Barclay has opened a book and news stand here.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—Walter R. Miller & Co. have rented the block at 170 Washington Street, and will change their quarters from 82 and 84 State Street to the new store early in October.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Federal Book Company has been incorporated, under the laws of New Jersey, to acquire the publishing business of the James H. Lamb Company, at 372 Boylston Street. The concern is capitalized at $100,000. The incorporators are Ernest H. Johnson, A. Moriarty, and Clarence B. Benedict.

COLUMBIA, S. C.—H. J. Shoemaker, a well-known insurance man, has bought the Palmetto Bookstore, which has been conducted by J. H. Carlisle, Jr., and J. W. Bishop. The store will be continued at the old location by Mr. Shoemaker.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—C. B. Huggins, bookseller, has sold out.

VALDOSTA, GA.—C. S. Bondurant will open a bookstore here.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HENRY A. DICKERMAN & SON, Boston, will publish a parody of "The Story of Mary MacLane," under the title of "The Story of Lizzie McGuire."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have in preparation a volume of verse taken from the pages of Life, to be entitled "Rhymes and Roundelays." The book will be liberally illustrated.

CLARKE CONWELL, (The Elston Press,) Pelham Road, New Rochelle, N. Y., has in preparation a special edition of Pope's "The Rape of the Lock," limited to 160 copies. The other eleven issues of this press are quite out of print.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish shortly Goldoni's "Il Vero Amico," one of the most entertaining easy Italian comedies, arranged with notes and vocabulary by Professor Geddes and Professor Josselyn, of Boston University.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have in preparation a prose work by Alfred Austin, the poet laureate, entitled "Haunts of Ancient Peace," in which the author describes several places of that "restful charm" which he has depicted in his poems.

HERBERT S. STONE & Co. have just published "Castle Cranecrow," a new story by George Barr McCutcheon, the author of "Graustark." The first edition of 50,000 was exhausted on the day of publication and another edition is being made ready.

CORYELL & Co., 61 Chambers Street, New York, call attention to their large line of standards, neatly printed on good paper, and attractively bound in cloth, half leather and half calf. There are upwards of forty-one different sets that may be offered as illustrated, library or popular editions.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS will publish shortly, in three small volumes for school use, "Graduated Lessons on the Old Testament," by the Rev. U. Z. Rule. The work has been edited by the Rev. L. J. M. Bebb, principal of St. David's College, Lampeter. Mr. Rule has followed the text of the Revised Version, and has called special attention to the moral and religious lessons which may be drawn from the history.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish next month "The Life of James Martineau," who was probably the most conspicuous metaphysician of his day, prepared by the Rev. James Drummond and Dr. Charles B. Upton, the former of whom succeeded Dr. Martineau as principal of Manchester New College. They will also publish next month "The Blood-Tax," a military romance of to-day, by Dorothea Gerard, author of "One Year." The scene is laid in Germany.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will publish shortly what they call an "unfictitious novel," entitled "A Chinese Quaker," by Nellie Blessing Eyster. It is really the story of a Chinaman who as a boy was brought up by a young Quaker woman and became a consistent Friend. He is now a high mandarin at the head of large enterprises in China and a Quaker still. Incidentally the story makes appalling revelations of woman slavery on our Pacific Coast.

JOHN LANE announces a new book by Constance Maud, author of "Wagner's Heroines," etc., entitled "Heroines of Poetry," "New Letters and Memorials of Jane Welch Carlyle," with illustrations, portraits and fac-similes; and an edition of Kenneth Grahame's "Dream Days," with ten full-page illustrations by Maxfield Parrish. Mr. Lane will bring out early in September a novel entitled "Love with Honor," by Charles Marriott, author of "The Column."

THE CENTURY COMPANY has in preparation a new nature book entitled "Caterpillars and Their Moths," by Ida Mitchell and Caroline Gray Soule, which represents the result of more than twenty years spent in studying and rearing moths. The illustrations are made from photographs and show the actual size. They have in preparation a new "Topsy and Turvy" book, made up of selections from Peter Newell's two previous books, published in 1893 and 1894, both of which are out of print.

THOMAS W. LAWSON, of Boston, the builder of Independence, a rejected aspirant to defend the America's cup, has published for private circulation a work entitled "The Lawson History of the America's Cup," which is characterized as "a preliminary to a long and expensive legal struggle to assert his right to defend the America's cup should other challenges come from foreign yachtsmen." In preparing this book Mr. Lawson was assisted by Winfield M. Thompson, who has written the history of the cup. The edition consists of 3000 copies, printed in sumptuous style.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in press a volume of essays by Captain A. T. Mahan, entitled "Retrospect and Prospect," which will contain articles on "The Development of Political Feeling and Outlook in the United States During the Last Decade," "Effect of the War in South Africa on the Prestige of the British Empire," "Motives to Imperial Federation," "Conditions Influencing the Distribution of Navies," "The Relation of the Persian Gulf to World Politics," and "The Military Rule of Obedience."

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation an important book of travel in Hesketh Pritchard's "Through Patagonia." It presents the results of an exhaustive tour of this still uncharted antarctic land, which Mr. Pritchard was led to make by his curiosity concerning an animal that was said to be extinct. He found its bones and its skin, but no living specimen. He did, however, discover many facts of scientific and popular interest about the country. The volume will be extensively illustrated in color by John G. Millais.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have in preparation a new book by Cyrus Townsend Brady, entitled "Woven with the Ship," with illustrations by Christy, Leyendecker, Glackens, Parkhurst and Crawford; a work on the "Home Life of the Borneo Head-Hunters," by Dr. W. H. Furness, 3d, who lived for a while among the Borneoese, which will be illustrated by almost 100 heliotypes reproduced from photographs; a work on the volcanic disturbances at Mt. Pelee, by Professor Angelo Heilprin, who descended the burning mountain soon after its outburst; also, a revised edition of the Variorum edition of "Macbeth," first published nearly thirty years ago.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio, will publish shortly a reprint of "Wolley's Journal: a two-years' Journal in New York and part of its territories in America." This is a reprint of the 1701 edition, originally issued in reprint as No. 2 of Gowan's "Bibliotheca Americana" during 1860. Wolley's has long been considered one of the rarest books in the English language which in any way relate to New York, and in this particular even surpasses Denton's "Brief Description," just published by this house as No. 1 of their "B. B." Reprints. Professor Edward Gaylord Bourne, of Yale, has written for this issue a delightfully lucid and valuable historical introduction.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish at once a critical study by Henry Vignaud, first secretary of the United States Embassy at Paris, of the letter and chart of Toscanelli on the route to the Indies by way of the West, sent in 1474 to the Portuguese, Furnham Martins, and later to Christopher Columbus. To many readers the subject of this book will suggest sensationalism, but to students the revelations made will help to solve the problem of how Columbus, who, according to the best information obtainable, was a man of no scientific learning, could possibly have conceived the ideas that eventually led to the discovery of America. Toscanelli was a learned Florentine, and Mr. Vignaud lays the facts in regard to Toscanelli before the student, who can draw his own conclusions.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish early in October "Our Lady of the Beeches," by Baroness von Hutten, a story of a romance growing out of a group of letters; "The Strongest Master," by Helen Choate Prince, the story of a young college man who falls a victim to socialistic heresies, but finally learns the folly of his ways; "Tracts Relating to the Currency of the Massachusetts Bay, 1682-1721," eighteen rare pamphlets bearing on the money question as it arose two hundred years ago, edited by Andrew McFarland Davis; "Daniel Ricketson and His Friends," a memorial of a citizen Quaker of New Bedford, a friend of Thoreau and other famous men; "Captain Craig," a book of verse, by Edwin A. Robinson; "Under Colonial Colors," a book for boys, by Everett T. Tomlinson; also, "Jesus's Way," by William De Witt Hyde, who presents the gist of Christ's teachings.

CHARLES E. GOODSPEED, Boston, Mass., will publish in October a reprint, in enlarged form, of W. E. Channing's life of "Thoreau, the Poet-Naturalist," the original edition of which was published by Roberts Brothers in 1873. Since Mr. Channing's death, his literary executor, F. B. Sanborn, has been desirous of bringing out a new and enlarged edition of the book, for which material was left by Mr. Channing. The forthcoming publication will contain about eighty pages of new material, including an introduction by Mr. Sanborn, notes, and a full index. There will be two editions—the ordinary edition, with a new etched portrait of the author, and a limited edition of 275 copies, 250 of which will be on toned French hand-made paper, with the etchings in two states. Besides the portrait of Mr. Channing, there will be five full-page etchings by Sidney L. Smith, namely, a portrait of Thoreau, after the crayon drawing by S. W. Rowse, a view of Thoreau's birthplace before the alterations, interior of Barrett's grist mill, Conantum pool, and dead leaves in the forest.

THE OFFICE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will publish August 16 the "Catalogues" volume of "The Publishers' Trade List Annual" for 1902. The "Index" volume will follow early in September. The index includes about 140,000 entries, greatly exceeding our original estimate and slightly delaying publication. Inasmuch as the index covers every book listed by the 250 publishers represented in the main volume, including the announcements sent up to August 1, we may claim that its publication a month after the volume to which it belongs will be among the rare instances of an index being published so close upon the conclusion of the final editorial work. We have just received the copies allotted for the American market of Whitaker's "Reference List of English Literature," the English counterpart of the "Publishers' Trade List Annual." Whitaker's this year contains the trade lists of 179 publishers and an index of about 800 pages, giving 135,000 references by author, title and subject. Intending subscribers are reminded that the number of copies is limited, and that after the supply is exhausted no more copies can be had.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co., Philadelphia, have in preparation a volume of travel by Jeremiah Zimmerman, entitled Spain and Her People; "Ann Arbor Tales," by Karl Edwin Harriman, to be brought out uniform with the Pennsylvania and Bryn Mawr stories already published; "The Revenge of Adnah: a Tale of the Christ;" also, "Some Early Printers and their Colophons," by Joseph Spencer Kennard, which will be gotten up in sumptuous style for book collectors. They also announce a work dealing with early Colonial social life, by Edward Robins, entitled "Romances of Early America," to which we have already made reference. There will be chapters giving an account of the famous Meschianza, given in Philadelphia in the days of the British occupancy of the city, and of the love affairs of Mistress Sally Wister. Other sketches included in the volume have for their heroines Dolly Madison, Agnes Surriage, of Massachusetts; Mary Vining, the Revolutionary belle of Delaware, and Flora MacDonald, the ardent North Carolina Tory. Mr. Robins has also something to say of the men who made history in those earlier days, telling of the love affairs of Washington and Thomas Jefferson, and adding a chapter which strikes a later note in "Edwin Forrest's First Love."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

SUCCESSFUL publisher is one who constantly seeks to get the best value for the least money. That's why I am a successful bookbinder. Also because I turn out the highest grade of work at from ten to twenty-five per cent. less than anyone else. How do I do it? That is the burning question amongst the trade to-day.

My answer is, "Don't ask the why and the wherefore," but send me your stamps and dummies and I will make up samples which will show the highest character of work and upon which I will give you estimates that cannot be met. My equipment and plant is the finest and one of the largest of its kind in the country. Large output and small profits are the keystones to my success. Don't take my word for these statements. Subscribers to the may be interested to know that the Catalogues volume will be ready about August 18. This volume contains the lists of 250 publishers, approximating 7000 pages. The price of this volume with an Index, in cloth binding, is $5, and without the Index $1.50, if subscribed and paid for before date of publication. After that the prices will be raised to $7 for the indexed volume, and $2 for the unindexed Catalogues volume.

The Index volume is expected to be ready about September 15. It will contain upwards of 140,000 references to books in print, by author, title, and subject catch-word.

The edition is printed from type and is limited to 1750 copies.

Whitaker's Reference Catalogue.

We are now prepared to supply the "Reference Catalogue of Current English Literature," better known, perhaps, as "Whitaker's Reference List."

The work is arranged on the plan of "The Publishers' Trade List Annual," and contains recent lists of 179 of the more important English publishers. An index is prefixed to the lists containing 35,000 references to the books catalogued. It thus forms one of the most complete records of current English books accessible to the bookseller and librarian.

The work is in two volumes of about 5,000 pages, strongly bound in half leather. The price has been fixed at $5.00 net.

As the copies received for the American market are limited, we need hardly remind intending subscribers of the wisdom of placing your order without delay.

CHARLES FELTON PIDGIN.

THE keynote to the theme of "The Climax" is found in the sub-title of the romance, "What might have been." The author intends it as a light, pleasing, fanciful, capering story of the climax in Aaron Burr's life as it might have been. Mr. Pidgin begs his readers to entirely disabuse their thoughts of any idea that it is to be an historical novel. He tells a rattling good story of what might have happened to this country, its people, and its institutions if Burr had been elected governor of New York at the time he aspired to that office. Burr is afterward elected to the presidential chair and becomes known throughout the world as the great President-General and a mighty conqueror—the Napoleon of the Western hemisphere.

C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY, : BOSTON

A NEW NOVEL BY
MARIE CORELLI

"Temporal Power"

A Study in Supremacy

By

MARIE CORELLI

Author of "The Master Christian,"

"The Sorrows of Satan," etc.

Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Company take pleasure in announcing that they have now in press, and will publish on August 30th, this important new story by Miss Corelli. The book is a singularly striking and powerful one, dealing with a subject which has never before been treated in fiction, and intimately touching upon certain topics which have for some time been uppermost in the minds of many people. While it is announced as a romance of the ruling passion, the author desires it to be known that it does not treat of the ruling passion of the Pope, but of a still more powerful potentate. This is the first story Miss Corelli has written since the publication of "The Master-Christian," and will probably be as widely discussed a book as that novel. The author, herself, says that "Temporal Power" is the strongest book she has ever written.

FOUR NOTABLE NOVELS

Ready August 25th

THE LAST WORD

By ALICE MacGOWAN

$1.50

An intense love story—the story of a woman's heart—and such a story of the heart as has not made its appearance since the days of "Jane Eyre." The sort of book which one friend hands to another with the recommendation, "You never read anything like it—because there never was anything like it before."

COUNCILS of CROESUS

By MARY KNIGHT POTTER

Author of "Love in Art," etc.

$1.25

The latest number in the "Commonwealth Series" vivaciously pictures life in wealthy and fashionable New York society. The author is already favorably known for her clever magazine work, and the readers of the amusing "Boston Experiences" and the entertaining "Russells in Chicago" will follow with interest the fortunes of the charming heroine of "The Councils of Croesus."

Ready September 15th

BARBARA LADD

By CHARLES G. D. ROBERTS

Author of "The Kindred of the Wild,"

"The Heart of the Ancient Wood," etc.

Illustrated in tints by FRANK VER BECK

$1.50

A story of the Revolution and the days that ushered it; yet the war theme is subordinate to the love story and the wayward, winsome heroine, fair Mistress Barbara, whose passion for nature recalls to the mind the enchanting Miranda in "The Heart of the Ancient Wood."

HOPE LORING

By LILIAN BELL

Author of "Abroad with the Jimmies,"

"The Expatriates," etc.

Illustrated by FRANK T. MERRILL

$1.50

Hope Loring—wilful, unconventional, lovable—is perhaps the most charming character ever drawn by Miss Bell. The love theme is beautifully developed, and the minor characters and episodes are drawn with convincing ability.

THE LEADING JUVENILE OF THE YEAR

Ready August 25th

BEAUTIFUL JOE'S PARADISE or, The Island of Brotherly Love

A Sequel to "Beautiful Joe"

By MARSHALL SAUNDERS, author of "Beautiful Joe,"

"Tilda Jane," etc.

Illustrated by CHARLES LIVINGSTON BULL

$1.20 net. Postage extra

One of the most original books for children of all growths that has appeared for years; bubbling over with spirits and the gayest, most fantastic humor, appealing to every lover of animals, it is a tale so genuine, so touching in its quality, that tears are almost ready to follow in the wake of laughter as one reads.

THE SPENDERS

15TH THOUSAND

By HARRY LEON WILSON. Six Illustrations by O'NEILL LATHAM.

Price, $1.50

LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL SAYS:

"If there is such a thing as the American novel of a new method, this is one. Absolutely to be enjoyed is it from the first page to the last, founded on the elemental truth that 'the man is strongest who, Antæan-like, stands with his feet upon the earth.' It is a good, stirring novel."

DOROTHY SOUTH

27TH THOUSAND

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON, Author of "A CAROLINA CAVALIER." Six Illustrations by C. D. WILLIAMS. Price, $1.50

BOOK NEWS FOR MAY SAYS:

"In 'Dorothy South' Mr. Eggleston has created a simple and beautiful romance, full of nobility and of all the finer emotions, wholesome, joyous, graceful, with just a slight scattering of sage but smiling philosophy intercepted by touches here and there of sparkling wit. None such woman character as Dorothy has appeared in fiction for many a long day."

JEZEBEL

A ROMANCE IN THE DAYS WHEN AHAB WAS KING. By LAFAYETTE MCLAWS, author of "When the Land was Young." Illustrated by CORWIN K. LINSON. Price, $1.50

LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL SAYS:

"Jezebel is a woman of steel, true to her faith, brave as a lioness, vulnerable in only one place, her surpassing love for her husband. To give him the vineyards he desires, she has stoned to death the old Jew, Naboth, and his two sons. This makes one of the most interesting and pathetic pictures in the book."

JUDITH'S GARDEN

By MARY E. STONE BASSETT. Illustrations in Four Colors by GEORGE WRIGHT. Price, $1.50

BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE SAYS:

"It is a beautiful, idyllic story, this romance of 'Judith's Garden,' fascinating to one who loves the smell of earth, and who finds Mother Nature and her children the most satisfying of friends."

CHANTICLEER

By VIOLETTE HALL. Eight Three-color Illustrations. Three by W. GRANVILLE SMITH. Price, $1.50

This is an idyll of modern life. Roger and Mary, happily mated, lose by fire their house with its belongings. They create a simple but adequate camping-place in the rural solitude. A love story of charming sweetness develops. The book will appeal to lovers of nature, and also to all men and women who like a good romance.

THE chief part of the novel deals with the career of an artist in New York, and so gives Mr. Smith the opportunity to picture the artistic and literary life of New York during the last thirty-five years, with the atmosphere and environment of which he has been so thoroughly familiar. To the telling of the story he brings the powers of humor and pathos that he has shown in his other well-known novels.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "An Elementary Commercial Geography," by Cyrus K. Adams, giving particular emphasis to improved transportation, the application of steam power, and the progress in chemical science as the main factors in the present development of progress and industry.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS are bringing out F. Hopkinson Smith's "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn," which has had such great success in its serial career. The chief part of the book deals with the career of an artist in New York, and this gives the artist-author the opportunity to picture the artistic and literary side of New York which he knows so well. Humor, pathos and a great knowledge of human nature are Mr. Smith's well-known gifts. The book is illustrated by Walter Appleton Clark.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING Co. announce two striking new novels in "Richard Gordon," a story of New York social and political life, by Alexander Black; and "Eagle Blood," by James Creelman, the veteran journalist, who tells the story of a young Englishman who becomes a journalist in the United States and later a war correspondent in the Philippines, and is involved in a chain of stirring adventures. It is stated that H. L. Wilson's novel, "The Spenders," published by this house in June, is now in its twentieth thousand.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish on August 25 "The Last Word," by Alice McGowan, the story of a woman's heart which challenges comparison with "Jane Eyre;" "Councils of Croesus," by Mary Knight Potter, a novel of fashionable New York society; "Barbara Ladd," by Charles G. D. Roberts, a story of the days of the Revolution; and "Hope Loring," by Lilian Bell, the story of a wilful, unconventional; lovable heroine. On the same day they will issue their leading juvenile for the coming holiday season, the sequel of "Beautiful Joe," by Marshall Saunders, which is entitled "Beautiful Joe's Paradise," and is said to bubble over with gay spirits and fantastic humor that will appeal especially to all lovers of animals. Dickens's "Child's Dream of a Star" takes its place in the Cosy Corner Series; and The Little Cousin Series for 1902 will instruct young minds about the Filipinos, the Cubans, the Eskimos, the Porto Ricans and African young people.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY have entered the autumn field with a captivating array of new juveniles. These include "Billy Whiskers," by Frances T. Montgomery, telling the amusing adventures of a pet goat; "A Redman of Quality," a stirring tale of Indian adventure, by Edward Everett Billings; "Animal Life in Rhyme and Jingles," by Elizabeth May; "The Mother Goose Paint Book," a novel painting book, with ready-to-use paint box attached; "The Little Woman in the Spout," by Mary Agnes Byrne, who writes of school-girl days; and "In a Car of Gold," an Alice-in-Wonderland tale of a trip to Mars. Other new juveniles include a variety of titles, by Harry Castlemon, Charles P. Chipman, Mary E. Ireland, Mary Denison and others. This house has a number of striking books for grown readers. There is Murat Halstead's "Life of Theodore Roosevelt," fully illustrated and brought closely up to date; and recent novels include Maurus Jokai's volume of weird tales; "Told by the Death's Head," "Poco a Poco," William Franklin Johnson's novel of American Life; "In the Days of St. Clair," a romance of pioneer Ohio, by Dr. James Ball Naylor; and "The Invisibles," a romance by E. Earl Christopher. "Seeds of April's Sowing" is a little volume of verse by Adah Louise Sutton.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Beginning with the issue of July 5, 1902, the titles of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The titles of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. Net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (2mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fz. (4mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Adams, Cyrus Cornelius, ed. An elementary commercial geography. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [Jl.] c. 12+351 p. il. maps, D. cl., $1.10.

The approval given to the author's "Text-book of commercial geography" has encouraged the preparation of this smaller book, which, it is hoped, will meet the needs of a large number of students who complete their school drill in the grammar grades. The author has attempted to give, simply and broadly, a view of the world in its relation to man as a producer and a trader. The natural laws of trade are made easily understandable.

"This book is an attempt to present the life of Thomas Cromwell as a statesman, and to estimate his work without religious bias. Though it would certainly be difficult to overrate his importance in the history of the Church of England, I, [the author] maintain that the motives that inspired his actions were invariably political, and that the many ecclesiastical changes carried through under his guidance were but incidents of his administration, not ends in themselves."—Preface.

Since Napier's "Peninsular war" was published some sixty years ago, an enormous bulk of valuable material has been accumulating in English, French, and Spanish, which has practically remained unutilized. Chiefly does the writer consider himself indebted to the papers of the diplomatist Sir Charles Vaughan. New matter and a new interpretation of many events are the principal qualities of this exhaustive work.

Consists of a series of experimental studies in the domain of abnormal mental life followed along the lines of pathological individual psychology. The facts of mental dissociation and degeneration are closely studied in interesting individual cases with important, theoretical, and practical results. The field of research is new and important in the domain of psychic life, normal or abnormal. The subject is of interest, not only to the psychiatrist and neurologist, but also to the psychologist and to the general reader who takes an interest in the phenomena of abnormal mental life.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 23, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CHANGING TRAVELLERS.

CHANGING travellers from season to season is a mistake, and so is transferring them to different sections after acquaintance has once been formed. It is a great mistake also—often made by the man himself—to change houses as frequently as some do, often for some trivial cause, more frequently for no other reason than to make a change. There are a few things to be learned sooner or later by every bumptious young man who considers himself just a shade better qualified to judge of business affairs and what is to the interest of the business than his employer, even if he has had the extended experience of a first trip. One of these things is that few men are discharged without some just cause. If he is discharged he may be able to persuade the friends that he has made to accept his side of the story; when he makes a second change his friends may begin to suspect that some of the fault may lie with him; while the third time, even if this time he may be entirely without blame, he is apt to be left out in the cold. Here the rule applies: Be sincere. Don't try to fool your constituents, because they will not be fooled—at least not all the time. An average collection of men can usually tell the difference between an honest man and a pretender. The test of a man in business is whether he is honest or not—conscientiously, broadly honest, we mean, not alone honest in the legal sense of the word. No dishonest man can pass through the world for any length of time undetected, nor will the honest man be long mistaken for a fakir.

Besides being honest a traveller must aim to be cheerful and optimistic. He has many hardships to put up with, many trials to undergo, many unpleasant duties to perform—all who have had experience on the road know that and are ready to admit it—but that is no reason why he should add to his misery and to the discomfort of his employers, his customers and his friends, by complaining and making himself disagreeable. Nor will it help him any to change his berth, if his relations with his employers are agreeable, because the conditions against which he has to contend remain unchanged no matter under which flag he elects to fight.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

156 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK, August 12, 1902.

To the Trade:

IN entering upon the second fall season since the establishment of protected prices we beg leave to call attention to the fact that with few exceptions prices are well maintained throughout the United States. The general satisfaction attending the working of the new system has been marked, and dealers everywhere are looking forward so hopefully to a business season under conditions which afford them reasonable return for their capital and labor, that little thought is given to the fact that there are still a few undersellers.

The only danger in this situation is that in some instances vigilance may be so far relaxed as to permit the chief underseller to secure stock where he has hitherto failed, and it is to prevent this that we are addressing the trade at this time. The fact should not be lost sight of that the underseller referred to is still active, and although it may appear that less importance attaches to his attitude as time passes, it is still necessary to prevent him so far as possible from securing stock.

While he has managed to secure many of the new books his general stock is practically nothing, and it is only by a stretch of the imagination that he can be called a dealer in books. His efforts to secure stock in bulk have been so frequently baffled that at present he is picking up books in lots of five and ten copies each of small dealers, and for this purpose has enlisted the services of one or two commission men who are well known in the book business.

These agents have appeared in the West as well as in New England and the Middle States, but dealers should have no difficulty in recognizing them, and if this Association is given proper support few books will be procured in this way. Should such an agent try to arrange for the purchase of books kindly send us his name and we will undertake to see that his future usefulness is seriously interfered with. In this we shall have the hearty support of the dealers of the country, as they will hardly be willing to purchase of a salesman, no matter what his line is, who is so regardless of their interest as to give assistance to the underseller.

It is possible also that during the fall the underseller may try to buy in quantity through "dummy" dealers as he has done before with more or less success, but we believe that the publishers and jobbers in the light of the experience of the past year and a half can be relied on to frustrate these attempts, and if the smaller dealer will do his part well the underseller's prospect for a fall stock is not considered bright.

With hearty congratulations on the success of the undertaking, we are

Yours very truly,
AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION,
GEORGE S. EMORY, Manager.

OBITUARY NOTES.

ORRIN S. COOK, who for fifteen years has held a responsible position with Silver, Burdett & Co., died at his home in Chicago on July 30. The publishers send us this word, and write very appreciatively of Mr. Cook's work for education and his personal characteristics, which had earned him many friends throughout the trade.

GEORGE DALZIEL, the founder of the firm of engravers known throughout the world as the "Dalziel Brothers," died in England, on Monday, August 4, at the advanced age of eighty-seven. George Dalziel, the son of Alexander Dalziel, an artist of Wooler, Northumberland, was born on December 1, 1815. For over half a century the Dalziel Brothers were in the first rank of London engravers, but the popular introduction of the various processes of reproducing illustrations by photographic means almost banished wood engraving, and in 1893 George Dalziel and his brother retired from the concern which by their skill and enterprise they had successfully created and maintained. Mr. George Dalziel possessed considerable literary gifts, and several volumes of poems and short stories by him have been published from time to time.

DR. LEOPOLD SCHENK, author of the epoch-making book "Determination of Sex," died at Vienna, on August 18. Dr. Schenk was born at Ilemen, Hungary, on August 23, 1840. He was for many years regarded as an authority in physiology and embryology, and for twenty-three years was director of the Embryological Institute in Vienna. In 1898 Dr. Schenk astonished the scientific world by announcing that he had discovered the secret of sex, and that it could be regulated by diet on the part of the mother. He was much opposed and finally forced to resign his position. He claimed to the last that his theory was proved by many cases trusted to his surveillance. Dr. Schenk was the author of "Handbook of Histology," "Handbook of Comparative Embryology of Vertebrate Animals," "A Contribution to the Theory of Artificial Trout Culture," "The Influence of Color on the Development of the Life of Animals," "On Micro-organism," and a two-volume work, "History of Evolution." Besides these Professor Schenk wrote a great number of scientific treatises on physiology and embryology.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HENRY DEMAREST LLOYD, well known as a champion of socialistic doctrines, has spent most of the summer in Europe, arranging for the translations into French, Italian and German of his books "Wealth against Commonwealth," "Newest England," and "A Country without Strikes."

EDMUND GOSSE is now engaged in writing a history of English literature, and in connection with that fact there is revived the story of Mr. Gosse's application for the place of Clark lectures, at Trinity College, Cambridge. There were many candidates and each handed in a host of testimonials from more or less famous men of letters. Gosse presented only three testimonials, but those three were written by Matthew Arnold, Alfred Tennyson and Robert Browning. He was appointed.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

J. F. TAYLOR & Co. have just ready a new volume of stories of Jewish life, by Herman Bernstein, entitled "In the Gates of Israel," and a novel of American life, called "The Heart of Woman," by Harry W. Desmond.

Collier's Weekly will make its issue of September 6 a "Labor Day number," of 28 pages, devoted mainly to a "Labor Review," covering the various fields of industry, and prepared by leading representatives of the great national labor bodies. It will have a striking special cover, designed by Leyendecker.

John Bull is a new English comic weekly, intended in a measure as a rival to Punch, which, however, has little cause to fear competition in its own historic field. Arthur a' Beckett, son of the comic historian of England, and for nearly thirty years on the staff of Punch, is the editor. The title John Bull has been used before in this connection, notably by Theodore Hook, who founded a paper of that name in 1820.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue this month a lower-priced and more compact edition of Lavignac's "Music and Musicians," edited by H. E. Krehbril, which they have already printed three times in their large-paper edition.

GRAPHOLOGY PUBLISHING Co., 503 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, call attention to Dr. Von Hagen's book, "Reading Character from Handwriting," which offers proof for the claim that handwriting is a reliable index to the most complex points of character.

GINN & Co. have added to their list of textbooks two new volumes—"The Advanced First Reader," by Ellen M. Cyr, and "Towards the Rising Sun," the fourth volume in the Youth's Companion Series of geographical readers. A special feature of the new Cyr reader is the series of excellent reproductions of famous paintings, engraved on wood by Henry Wolf.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have added to the popular series Little Pilgrimages "Literary Boston of To-day," by Helen M. Winslow, whose book "Concerning Cats" was received with marked favor; and "The Sandman: His Farm Stories," by William J. Hopkins, who puts before childish minds much valuable information on food products and all the endless detail that fills a farmer's life.

ELDER & SHEPARD, San Francisco, have in press an essay by Dr. David Storr Jordan on "The Philosophy of Despair." Dr. Jordan takes for his text certain quatrains from Omar Khayyam, among them the lines beginning "I come like water and like wind I go," and aims to give the reply of science to pessimism, striking a note of courage and common sense in his treatment of "the riddle of life."

HENRY ALTEMUS COMPANY announce a new book by Carolyn Wells, called "Folly in the Forest." This is a fantasia of mythology for children, abounding in humorous touches and at the same time giving acquaintance with some of the most famous characters of myth and legend. Pegasus, the Sphinx, the Geese that saved Rome, Poe's Raven, are some of the creatures that meet and desport themselves with "Folly" in the Forest of the Past.

THE JACOBSEN PUBLISHING COMPANY Chicago, have prepared an important volume devoted to "Modern American Tanning." It is made up of original articles describing modern methods first printed in Hide and Leather, and written by well-known tannery experts and chemists, and it is a thorough exposition of the new processes and developments that have so completely revolutionized the leather industry within recent years. The volume contains over two hundred and fifty pages and many illustrations.

THE YOUNG CHURCHMAN Co., Milwaukee, have issued the fourth thousand of "The Truth of Christianity," compiled by Major W. H. Turton, of the Royal Engineers; "Catholic Principles as illustrated in the doctrine, history and organization of the American Catholic Church in the United States commonly called the Protestant Episcopal Church," by Rev. Frank N. Westcott; and "Urbs Beata," a vision of the "Perfect Life," by Herbert Cushing Tolman, with a commendatory by the Bishop of Milwaukee.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have nearly ready an important contribution to the literature of African exploration. This is Dr. Carl Peters's account of his archæological expedition of 1899-01 to "The Eldorado of the Ancients," the Ophir of ancient days, which he believes he has now proved to be the country between Zambesi and Sabi. The ancient ruins and gold and copper mines discovered there, together with the many adventures of the explorers, are fully described in the volume, which will also contain many illustrations by Tennyson Cole, who accompanied the expedition.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish this fall a most entertaining volume in "Memoirs of a Contemporary." This is the narrative of the experiences of a French woman, who donned man's clothes and followed Marshal Ney in the French Army during the Napoleonic wars. It is translated and edited by Lionel Strachey, and is said to abound with vivid and intimate accounts of Napoleon and his generals and of many of the prominent figures of the First Empire. The illustrations will be reproduced from old prints. They have now in preparation "The Wooing of Judith," a romance of early Virginia, by Sara Beaumont Kennedy; and a little volume of poems, by Ellen Glasgow, to be luxuriously printed by De Vinne.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish in the early autumn two volumes of essays by the late John Fiske, hitherto unpublished, which were completed and made ready for the press before Mr. Fiske's death. Among the subjects dealt with in these essays are Thomas Hutchinson, the last royal governor of Massachusetts; Charles Lee, Alexander Hamilton, Andrew Jackson, Daniel Webster, John Milton and "Reminiscences of Huxley." The next volume to appear in the English Men of Letters Series will be Herbert Paul's study of Matthew Arnold. Owen Wister's brilliant story of the West, "The Virginians," is proving among the most popular of this season's books. A second edition was called for within three days of publication.

D. APPLETON & Co. have a most interesting number of books in hand for early fall publication. "The Letters of Charles Darwin," edited by his son, Francis Darwin, will be a notable addition to the biography and to the literature of science. Fiction will include Sir Gilbert Parker's new novel, "Donovan Pasha;" "The Sea Lady," an extravaganza with a matter-of-fact present-day setting, by H. G. Wells; "A Whaleman's Wife," by F. T. Bullen; and John Oliver Hobbes's new volume, "Tales About Temperaments." The latter, by the way, does not consist wholly of tales, but includes two one-act plays, both of which were successfully produced on the stage. They are "A Repentance," brought out at the St. James Theatre, in London, and "Journeys End in Lovers' Meetings," written for and acted by Ellen Terry.

BAKER & TAYLOR will publish this fall a compilation of coffee history, coffee anecdotes and coffee verse, including recipes for the making of coffee from the leading chefs of the country, by Arthur H. Gray, one of the collaborators of "Bath Robes and Bachelors" and a contributor to "Tobacco in Song and Story." There will be a trade edition neatly bound and with a striking cover, and a novel gift edition bound in heavy coffee-colored ooze leather, stamped in gold and done up in a coffee sack of rough bagging, tied at the corners and labelled. This firm has also in preparation an attractive edition of the Rolfe Shakespeare, issued through arrangement with the American Book Co. The volumes will be bound in olive green limp leather binding, with decorated title-pages in two colors, and will be suitable for class use or for the private library.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

☞ Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word (Cash).

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

☞ It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

NOW READY

The Publishers' Trade List Annual For 1902

The Catalogues volume is now being shipped. This volume contains the lists of 250 publishers, approximating 7000 pages. The price of this volume with an Index, in cloth binding, is $5, and without the Index, $1.50, if subscribed and paid for before date of publication. After that the prices will be raised to $7 for the indexed volume, and $2 for the unindexed Catalogues volume.

Remittances should be made by Check, Money Order on New York, or Registered Letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

The Index volume is expected to be ready about September 15. It will contain upwards of 140,000 references to books in print, by author, title, and subject catch-word.

The edition is printed from type and is limited to 1750 copies.

On the Top Wave of Popularity

An interesting compilation of reports from the present book stores in the United States, of the six best selling books of the month, was printed in The Bookman Magazine for August. "The Mississippi Bubble" is ranked above all others as the best selling novel.

"'The Mississippi Bubble' is one of the truly great romances. It is truth and art combined."—The Boston Journal.

MISS GILDER, editor of The Critic, says: "It is one of the best novels that has come out of America in many a day."

About Book Illustrating

THE half-tone illustrations in the popular fiction of the day cost from $5 to $10 a plate to engrave. The plates for the illustrations in MISS RIVES' novel, "HEARTS COURAGEOUS," were engraved by hand on wood by M Haider, whose price was $125 per plate for engraving them. The exhibit below of the elaborate work put upon the "HEARTS COURAGEOUS" pictures is shown by enlarging a part of the illustration, showing all the lines cut by hand.

FROM "HEARTS COURAGEOUS."

THE BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY, Publishers

HARPER'S SEPTEMBER BOOKS

1. THE VULTURES, by HENRY SETON MER- RIMAN, author of "The Sowers," "With Edged Tools," etc.

A thrilling novel of love, adventure, and intrigue in Russia and among the "vultures" of the foreign diplomatic service. Illustrated, $1.50.

2. OUT OF THE WEST, by ELIZABETH HIGGINS.

The dramatic career of a young Easterner out West, with a most vivid picture of life in a little Western town. $1.50.

3. OUTDOORLAND, by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS.

Nature stories, outdoor tales told to two charming little children by their outdoor friends, the butterfly, the trout, the robin, and so on. Delightfully, simply written, with colored pictures by Reginald Birch. $1.50 net (postage extra).

4. THE WOOING OF WISTARIA, by ONOTO WATANNA, author of "A Japanese Nightingale," etc.

A love story of Japan and of Japanese characters. It is a novel of great power, and it has besides all the charm that made such a popular success of "A Japanese Nightingale." $1.50.

5. POEMS AND VERSES, by E. S. MARTIN, author of "Lucid Intervals," etc.

About thirty poems written in the humorous, genial style that readers have come to look for and enjoy in all of Mr. Martin's works. $1.25 net (postage extra).

6. THE MAID-AT-ARMS, by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS, author of "Cardigan," "Lorraine," "The Conspirators," etc.

A stirring romance of American life during the Revolution. It is a story with a fascinating love interest, alive with exciting incident and adventure. Illustrated, $1.50.

7. THE SHIP OF DREAMS, by LOUISE FORSSLUND, author of "The Story of Sarah," etc.

A novel in which the chief characters are the aristocrats—the early settlers—of Long Island. The consequence of a curse upon one of these families is one of the motives of this dramatic, fascinating story. $1.50.

8. ISTAR OF BABYLON, by MARGARET HORTON POTTER, author of "The House of de Mailly," etc.

A remarkable novel of the time just before the fall of Babylon, up to and including the great feast of Belshazzar. The chief character is Istar, the Egyptian Aphrodite. It is an original novel that will be widely read and talked of. $1.50.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready "The Treasure of Shag Rock," telling the adventures of several young men in their search for treasure buried on an island in the South Pacific. The book promises to please wideawake young people.

J. F. LEHMAN, publisher, Heustrasse 20, Munich, Bavaria, will issue in October the German edition of "Memoirs of President Paul Kruger," related by himself. The publication rights for all languages are controlled by J. F. Lehmann, and he announces that the translation rights for all English-speaking countries, (including Great Britain and her colonies,) are for sale. Full information concerning details may be obtained upon application to the publisher.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY call special attention to "The Mississippi Bubble," now on the top wave of popularity, and according to August and September Bookman first among the six best-selling books of two months. They also show specimens of the fine illustrations in Miss Rives's novel, "Hearts Courageous," which have been engraved on wood by hand by Mr. Harder, who has proved himself proficient in an almost lost art.

FUNK & WAGNALLS will publish September 20 "Love and the Soul Hunters," by John Oliver Hobbes, in which this artistic author claims to have made the effort of her life; "The Needle's Eye," by Florence Morse Kingsley, a story of modern American life; "The Insane Root," by Mrs. Campbell Praed, a story on the order of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde; "The Searchers," by Margareta Byrde; and "The Herr Doktor," by Robert McDonald, telling of an American girl's experiences in aiming for a titled husband. The last will be an addition to the Hour-glass Stories.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS published yesterday "The Wings of the Dove," by Henry James, a story in two volumes of a peculiarly insidious temptation which assails the hero and enables the author to show some of his finest work in analysis of character; "The Shadow of the Rope," by E. W. Hornung, the creator of "Raffles," which deals with the solving of the mystery of a murder; and a second series of "Views and Reviews," by W. E. Henley, a volume of comment on the art and artists of the last century, so arranged as to make a valuable handbook of reference. They have also ready a cheaper edition of twenty copyrighted Henty books, printed from the same plates as the original edition and sold in quantities at prices which admit of their being handled in competition with the unauthorized reprints.

HARPER & BROTHERS will issue during September "The Vultures," by Henry Seton Merriman, a novel of love and adventure in Russia, the "vultures" being members of the foreign diplomatic service; "Istar of Babylon," by Margaret Horton Potter, a fascinating novel of the time just before the fall of Babylon, which describes the great feast of Belshazzar, in which the chief character is Istar, the Egyptian Aphrodite; "The Wooing of Wistaria," by Onoto Watanna, a story of Japan and Japanese characters; and three novels with American setting; "The Maid at Arms," by Robert Chambers, treating of Revolutionary times; "The Ship of Dreams," a story of the early settlers of Long Island, by Louise Forsslund; and "Out of the West," by Elizabeth Higgins, giving a vivid picture of a typical little Western town in which an Easterner had quite a dramatic career.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Beginning with the issue of July 5, 1902, the titles of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The titles of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. Net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ☞

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.: translations, c. tr.: n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

†Terhune, Everit Bogert. Michel Gulpe; il. by Sidney Marsh Chase. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham Co., [1902.] [Ag.] c. 3-182 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The scene is a little town in France, not far from Poitiers. Michel Gulpe, the character around whom the story is woven, is a tobacconist. His little shop is avoided by the superstitious folk of the village, to whom he has become a "bogey man." The author wins his confidence, and writes out his story. Michel is a staunch follower of the old Eastern religions, and a devoted worshipper of Brahma. He believes in the transmigration of the soul, and relates the various lives through which he has passed.

Toward the rising sun: sketches of life in Eastern lands. Bost., Ginn, 1902. c. 2+138 p. il. S. (Youth's Companion ser.) cl., 30 c.

Descriptions by well-known authors of life in India, China, Japan, Korea, and the islands of the eastern seas. The volume is designed as a reader for either home or school.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 30, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BOOK REVIEWING.

PERIODICALLY the question is raised whether book reviews, favorable or otherwise, help the sale of books. Much has been written on the subject, and the con has been as strongly defended as the pro. Nevertheless, the fact remains that the publisher the world over has faith enough in the book review to send out to the press every year a more or less large percentage of his output in the hope that somewhere the printed word of the reviewer may excite either the interest or the curiosity of some reader enough to induce him to buy the book commended or condemned. And, as a rule, his trust is not altogether misplaced. This seems to be confirmed by George S. Goodwin, who contributes to The Critic for August the result of inquiries among publishers on the subject of book reviewing. Nine of the more important firms in New York and Boston—D. Appleton & Co., the Century Company, McClure, Phillips & Co., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Harper & Brothers, Henry Holt & Co., Little, Brown & Co., and Doubleday, Page & Co.—who answered the questions propounded were in favor of having their books reviewed. Only one house, Dodd, Mead & Co., thought it would be a disadvantage to continue the custom of reviewing books, though, strangely enough, in a closing paragraph, they believe "a review in The Bookman to be a very desirable asset for a book." A great many other publishers believe this to be true also of other media; hence, the custom of sending books for review to reputable newspapers and periodicals will very likely not be honored in the breach so long as publishing is conducted as it is conducted at present, and as it has been conducted for several hundred years.

We are pleased to note that the predominating views expressed also agree that the critics of to-day are not so degenerate a race as some pessimists describe them, and that, taking into consideration the change in the conditions generally, the criticism of our time is scarcely at all inferior to what it was in those palmy days when Keats reviewed Reynolds and Reynolds Keats, "when Johnson thundered and Dennis swore, and when Hazlitt penned his inimitable critiques of men and books." There is undoubtedly a great deal of perfunctoriness in the writing of reviews; but this is due principally to lack of time during the season when books are rushed upon the tables of the reviewers in a veritable avalanche. To do the work thoroughly and promptly under such pressure it would be necessary for a literary journal to command a staff during five or six months of the year that would make the publishing of such a journal most unprofitable. Under these circumstances it may happen frequently that errors of judgment are committed; but very likely no oftener than they are committed by the literary advisers of the publishing houses. As a rule we believe the more important books receive at the hands of the average reviewer all the consideration that they deserve.

PUBLISHERS ON BOOK REVIEWING.

GEORGE SANDS GOODWIN, in The Critic for August, submits the result of an inquiry among a number of publishers in New York and Boston as to the value of book reviewing. The following questions were submitted:

1. Do you think it would be an advantage or disadvantage to discontinue the custom of reviewing books and have them submitted to the public without the intermediary opinions of critics—as most other manufactured commodities are? In other words, would you rather have your publications reviewed or not?
2. Do you observe anywhere a lack of conscientiousness in the reviewing of your books? If so, what remedy have you to suggest?
3. Are the reviews of your books by English critics fairer than those written by American reviewers?
4. Do you think the custom of sending prepared notices with editorial copies of books intended for review a good one?
5. Which do you think is better: that the publisher should be free to send all of his publications, or those he may choose, to the reviewer for criticism, or that the reviewer should himself select the publications he may desire to examine?
6. A recent writer declared that most reviews written nowadays are prepared with a strict eye to the obtaining of advertisements from the publishers. Have you found this to be a fact, and does it appear that the character of the reviews you receive is affected either way by your decision to advertise or not?

Ten publishing houses, eight in New York and two in Boston, answered, nine being in favor of book reviewing and one dissenting. As a fair representative of the views expressed by those in favor of book reviews we quote the letter sent in by W. W. Ellsworth, of the Century Company, who wrote as follows:

1. We prefer to have our publications reviewed. We do not issue any books that we do not believe in, and we feel that public opinion is very considerably helped by critics, especially in publications devoted entirely to book reviews, such as The Bookman, The Critic, and the Saturday Review of The New York Times.

2. We observe no lack of conscientiousness in the reviewing of our books by papers whose reviews are worth while. Of course, papers of a lower grade are not apt to give the attention to books that a strict conscientiousness would lead them to give. They frequently use the prepared notice sent by the publishers.

3. We do not think the reviews of English critics are any fairer than those written in America. In fact, the work of American reviewers seems to us much the better of the two.

4. We can see no objection to sending prepared notices with editorial copies of books intended to be reviewed, especially if these notices are simply an account of the book and not an expression of opinion containing many compliments. We try to keep exuberant adjectives out of our prepared notices and to make them simply a fair statement of what we believe the book to be.

5. If the reviewer should himself select only the publications he might desire to examine, he would be apt to miss many books that he would find worth his attention. If, however, he made his own selection, he would of course limit his reviews to the important books, and his columns might be the more interesting on this account; nevertheless, he would not be apt to ask for a new book by a new author, and he might miss some of the greatest successes.

6. We do not think that "most reviews written nowadays" are "prepared with an eye to the obtaining of advertisements." We are sure that the reviews of the best class of publications, and the only class in which reviews do the publishers much good, are not prepared for such a purpose. Nevertheless, during the past two or three years, a great number of papers in all parts of the country have started book departments, and it is not unlikely that the publishers of these papers have had in mind the possibility of book advertising to help pay the expenses of such departments and to bring in a fair return. We have never, however, known of a case where the character of reviews of our books was affected by our advertising or not advertising in a paper. Certainly if we knew of such a case we would put the paper on the blacklist and it would have neither books nor advertising.

Dodd, Mead & Co., the one dissenting house, wrote as follows:

We think it would be a disadvantage to continue the custom of reviewing books. This, it seems to us, is self-evident.

Taking your other questions in order: Second. We certainly do find a lack of conscientiousness in the reviewing of books. As the public seems to be satisfied with what they get, however (in many instances where the reviewing is most execrable), we suppose the only remedy is to educate the public.

Third. We do not think English reviews are any fairer than American reviews, though the average as far as scholarship goes is certainly higher abroad than it is with us.

Fourth. We do not think the custom of sending prepared notices with editorial copies of books is a very good one aesthetically, but practically we suppose it brings results.

Fifth. We suppose it would be far better if the reviewer selected his books to review rather than that the publisher did it.

Sixth. There is, of course, in a few mediocre journals always a tendency to over-praise a book if the publisher of the paper thinks he can get advertising by it; but in the long run this over-praise always nullifies itself, and eventually it even drives some advertisers out of the paper.

As a broad proposition, we should say that the book reviews in the Nation are the most scholarly; that those in the New York Sun are the most interesting, and those in the New York Times are probably the most (commercially) valuable, though we believe a review in The Bookman to be a very desirable asset for a book. We are rather gloomy about the whole matter of book reviews, and are afraid we shall have to wait for the public to grow a little more discreet, and a little more cultivated; but we also believe that if we give them time, the public in America are going to demand a much higher standard of book reviewing.

SAMUEL WOOD AND WILLIAM WOOD & COMPANY—A CENTURY OF PUBLISHING.

NEW YORKERS of the present day are usually so deeply engrossed in the occupation of money-getting that they pay but little attention to the past history of their city. Few of the descendants of the old merchants immortalized by "Walter Barrett, Clerk," are actively engaged in business at the present time. In the publishing trade, especially, many of the traditions as well as memories of the past are giving way to what are broadly known as "modern methods," not always, perhaps, to the real advantage of the calling. A very notable example of the continuance of an important establishment through several generations has suggested that a sketch of the life of Samuel Wood, with a brief history of the firm of William Wood & Company, founded by him, might be of interest, as that firm represents the oldest publishing house, with the single exception of the Methodist Book Concern, now doing business in New York.

Samuel Wood was born at Oyster Bay, L. I., on July 17, 1760. He was the only son of Samuel and Freelove Wood, (née Wright.) Originally christened William, his name was changed to Samuel on the death of his father in 1762. His father's early death made it necessary for him to rely entirely upon his own resources for the acquirement of an education. He must have had a natural thirst for knowledge and love of books, as his first occupation, school teaching, and his final choice, bookselling and publishing, testify. At the age of twenty-two he married Mary Searing, of Huntington, L. I., and finding the profits of a country school inadequate to his needs, he is known to have tried several occupations, living successively at Hibernia Mills, N. Y., (1794,) New Rochelle (1796,) and, finally, moving to New York City in December, 1803.

In 1804 he opened a bookstore in a small two-story brick building at 362 Pearl Street. At first his business consisted of the sale of miscellaneous books, many of them second-hand. These were largely purchased at the auction sales of Robert McMenomy, held at that time at the corner of Wall and Water Streets, opposite the Tontine Coffee House. He also sold paper, and, for a short time, cotton goods on commission, consigned by Almy & Brown, of Providence, R. I. These two lines were soon discarded, being unprofitable. A small printing plant was added after awhile, and the publication of books was commenced.

Samuel Wood's first publication is said to have been "The Young Child's A B C, or, First Book," a little affair of sixteen pages about three inches square, dated 1806, compiled by himself, and printed by J. C. Totten, 155 Chatham Street. Observing that the limited literature produced for children at that time was uninteresting, if not even in some cases improper, from a strict religious standpoint, he began the preparation and reprinting of juvenile books and leaflets. The earlier ones are very crude, although some are illustrated by copper plates colored by hand. Before long, however, they begin to show woodcuts by Alexander Anderson, the first engraver on wood in America, whose work appeared constantly in the publications of the house until his death in 1870. Many of the little booklets seem to have been made for free distribution, as Mr. Wood is known to have been in the habit of going about with his pocket full of them, and distributing them among the children whom he met. His purpose in this was evidently philanthropic, as the little books are full of moral verses and maxims, although in some cases humor is not wanting.

In 1810 Samuel Wood moved to a larger store at 357 Pearl Street, nearly opposite his original place of business. In 1815 he took into partnership two of his sons, Samuel S. and John, the firm name becoming Samuel Wood & Sons. About this time he published a periodical called The Friend of Peace. Among other booksellers then doing business in New York were Thomas A. Ronalds, McDermott & Arden, Wm. B. Gillie, T. & J. Swords, James Oram, Smith & Forman, Richard Scott, Samuel A. Burtis, James Eastburn and Van Winkle & Wiley. These are all unknown at the present day, the last only being represented by an existing house in John Wiley & Sons.

A branch of Samuel Wood & Sons was opened in Baltimore, Md., at 212 Market Street, in charge of Samuel S. Wood, in 1818. It was moderately successful, but was discontinued after a few years, S. S. Wood being required by the business in New York.

Samuel Wood & Sons moved again, in 1817, to 261 Pearl Street, a property owned by Samuel Wood, and another son, William Wood, was admitted to partnership, John Wood retiring. The business had increased considerably, and had become to a large extent wholesale, books of all sorts, as well as stationery, being handled. These quarters soon proved too small, and the business was temporarily removed to a store in Fulton Street, while a substantial five-story brick building was erected at 261 Pearl Street. It was then considered a large building to be devoted entirely to the book business. It is still standing, and is occupied by S. M. Aikman & Co., dealers in lanterns.

The junior partner, William Wood, was from the first especially interested in medical books, and results soon justified his interest in this line of stock, a third of the first floor of the new building being entirely devoted to it. The store became the resort of the noted physicians of that day, such as Drs. Francis, Hosack, Mitchell, Mott and Stevens.

The "New York Readers," a series of primers, spellers and readers, (many of them originally compiled by Samuel Wood himself,) were for many years favorite textbooks; and, as recently as twenty-five years ago, were still published in Philadelphia by Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger, to whom the plates had been sold.

In 1836 Samuel S. and William Wood bought out the interest of their father, Samuel Wood, who retired from business and devoted himself almost entirely to public matters. He had been christened in the Church of England, but early in life had joined the Society of Friends, or Quakers, of which body he was an active and influential member until his death. He took part in founding the House of Refuge, the Bank for Savings, and the Society for the Prevention of Pauperism. He was also an active member of the Manumission Society, the Society of the New York Hospital, and other benevolent institutions. For many years he served as a trustee of the public schools, and in this connection observing the extreme prevalence of ophthalmia among the pupils of the school at Bellevue, total blindness resulting in some cases, he addressed the public through the newspapers, urging the inauguration of measures for the relief of these unfortunates. To his efforts, joined with those of Dr. Samuel L. Ackerly, is due the credit for the foundation of the "New York Institution for the Blind." (See 10th Annual Report of the Managers.)

Samuel Wood, as already mentioned, married, on August 8, 1782, Mary, daughter of John and Mary Searing, (née Prior,) by whom he had seven sons and six daughters. He died on May 5, 1844, having been partially paralyzed since 1839. In the cyclopædias Samuel Wood figures as a publisher and bookseller, but he was better known in his own times as a philanthropist.

On the retirement of Samuel Wood the business was continued under the name of S. S. & W. Wood. In 1823 were first published Brown's series of English grammars, which, for nearly two generations, held the field as the almost universal textbook. In 1856 the firm removed to 389 Broadway, occupying the entire building. Medical publications continued more and more to form the chief part of the business.

Samuel S. Wood died in 1861. He was unmarried.

For a little over a year William Wood conducted the business under his own name, removing to 61 Walker Street. In 1863 he associated with him his son, Wm. H. S. Wood, the present head of the house, the firm becoming William Wood & Company, the style it has retained ever since. To the energy, sound judgment, and unusual business sagacity of this gentleman is due the development of the business to its present proportions.

In 1866 the publication of the Medical Record was commenced. The American Journal of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children was begun in 1868. In 1872 the publication of New Remedies was commenced. The name of this periodical was changed to The American Druggist in 1884. The journal was sold to its present publisher in 1892. Several other medical journals have also been published at various times.

William Wood retired from active business in 1868. He died in April, 1877.

On the retirement of William Wood, William H. S. Wood associated with himself Isaac F. Wood, also a grandson of Samuel Wood, and Alfred S. Griffiths, who had been head clerk for some years. At the end of three years Isaac F. Wood's interest was bought out by his partners, and, until 1884, the firm was composed of William H. S. Wood and A. S. Griffiths. In 1884 Mr. Griffiths' interest was bought out, and the sole member of the firm was William H. S. Wood until 1890, when his oldest son, William C. Wood, was admitted to partnership. In 1892 Gilbert C. Wood, and in 1896 Arnold Wood, respectively second and third sons of William H. S. Wood, were also admitted. The firm is to-day composed of these four. It is unusual in this country to see a business continued uninterruptedly for nearly one hundred years, entirely in the hands of one family.

From about 1861 the publication of general books began to be discontinued, and with but one or two exceptions the house has published medical works only for the past twenty years. Mr. J. H. Vail, who had served in the capacity of chief clerk in the retail department since 1859, purchased in 1881 the good will and stock of this department, and has done business until the present year under the firm style of J. H. Vail & Co. Since that time William Wood & Company have confined themselves almost entirely to the publication, in the usually accepted sense, of medical books and periodicals.

Among the most important publications of the house in recent years may be mentioned Ziemssen's "Cyclopædia of the Practice of Medicine," in twenty royal octavo volumes, begun in 1874. The publication of this great collection of treatises formed the most important advance in the history of medicine at that time, and the American edition was especially remarkable as being the first medical work to be sold by subscription. Through a systematic organization of canvassing, the work was offered to the profession not only in the United States, but as well to the English-speaking physicians throughout the world. But more than any previous enterprise, Wood's Library of Standard Medical Authors marked decisively the inauguration of subscription methods of bookselling as applied to medical publications. That series was begun January 1, 1879, and included the monthly issue of important cloth bound octavo medical books, in yearly sets of twelve volumes. The sale of the various series was enormous, and the idea was at once adapted by other publishers to various lines of popular and professional literature with equal success.

The "International Encyclopedia of Surgery," in seven royal octavo volumes, was first published in 1888, and marked the commencement of international co-operation by American writers in the preparation of medical and surgical literature, doing much to place America on a plane with the great European countries in scientific advancement as related to medicine and surgery. The "Twentieth Century Practice of Medicine," in twenty large octavo volumes, was begun in 1895 and completed in 1900. The "Reference Handbook of the Medical Sciences," one of the most widely appreciated medical works ever published, was first issued in nine imperial octavo volumes, in 1885 to 1889, and a revised edition is half completed at the present time.

In 1871 the firm moved to 27 Great Jones Street. In 1882 they removed to 56 and 58 Lafayette Place. In 1892 to 43-47 East Tenth Street, and in 1899 to 51 Fifth Avenue, their present quarters.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PETER S. HOE, the last surviving member of the original firm of R. Hoe & Co., the world-renowned manufacturers of printing presses, died at his home in Montclair, N. J., on Saturday, August 23, of heart failure, brought on by pneumonia. Mr. Hoe was 81 years old. He retired from the firm in 1890.

CHARLES WILDERMANN, the publisher and dealer in Catholic church goods, at 18 Barclay Street, died last week. A meeting of Catholic publishers was held on August 27, at which resolutions of regret and appreciation were unanimously adopted. These resolutions appeared in the New York Herald of August 27.

GEORGE M. HOPKINS, associate editor of the Scientific American, was stricken by uræmic poisoning while on an electric car between Cheshire and Pittsfield, Mass. He was the author of "Experimental Science," a well-known textbook, was prominent as a patent attorney and conspicuous in scientific research work. He had charge of the electricity department of the Scientific American, and also conducted the department of "Questions and Answers."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

FREDERICK MISTRAL, the greatest living troubadour, is translating Carnegie's "Gospel of Wealth" into Provencal.

DR. W. H. DRUMMOND, of Montreal, the author of "The Habitant," is arranging for a tour next winter through the Northern States. He will recite from his poems. His powers as an entertainer are irresistible.

It is stated that Jean A. Jusserand, author of several works on English literature, has been selected to succeed Jules Cambon as French ambassador at Washington. M. Jusserand is now French minister at Copenhagen. His wife is an American woman.

GEORGE ILES, author of "Flame, Electricity and the Camera," has edited for Doubleday, Page & Co. a series of six Little Masterpieces of Science, to follow the Little Masterpieces of Literature issued by that firm. Publication will take place early in September.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE current Quarterly Review contains a remarkable tribute to Dickens by Swinburne, who places Dickens in the direct line of Shakespeare and Fielding, and ranks him not only as the greatest writer, but as the greatest Englishman of his age.

The Century Magazine has secured the first contribution to an American magazine of the author of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden." It is an essay "On the Giving of Books," and delightfully hits off the peculiarities of people who give books to friends and their reasons for choosing them.

The Atlantic for September contains "A Bit of Unpublished Correspondence Between Henry Thoreau and Isaac Hecker;" "What Public Libraries are Doing for Children;" "William Black," by Edward Fuller; and "A Walk with Mr. Warner," in the Contributor's Club Department.

OLD BOOK NOTES.

THERE is, perhaps, nothing more certain to turn up than a second copy of a book that has been considered "unique." For over four centuries the now famous 1493 edition of the Malermi Bible, (Venice,) was as completely lost as if it had never existed. Within about a month of each other two copies were discovered—one in Italy by Mr. Voynich, the London bookseller, and the other in Vienna, by the Duc de Rivoli. Quite recently a third copy has been unearthed by a continental bookseller, and doubtless other examples will be found in due course. A fine copy is worth at least $1500. The peculiarity of the 1493 issue is that many of the woodcuts are quite different from those in the 1490, 1492 and 1494 editions. Four of these beautiful illustrations are reproduced in facsimile in Mr. Voynich's "Second List of Books."

THERE was recently sold at Sotheby's a copy of the first edition of "Robinson Crusoe" for the record price of $1225. A decade ago it would have been difficult to obtain $200 for the book. The first volume of "Robinson Crusoe" was published April 25, 1719, by William Taylor. The second part was published five months later—August 20, 1719. In 1720 a sequel was published, not by Defoe, however, that was entitled "Serious Reflections During the Life of Robinson Crusoe." The prices for copies of the first edition of "Robinson Crusoe," from 1887 to 1897, have varied from $230 to $395. In April of this year Quaritch bought the Hibbert copy for £206, and last month Pickering & Chatto bought the set referred to above for £245. It was made up of the two volumes of "Robinson Crusoe," the second volume being the second edition, and the sequel.

PERSONAL NOTE.

ERNEST DRESSEL NORTH, of Charles Scribner's Sons, has resigned his position and starts in business for himself on September 1, at 18 East Twentieth Street, New York. Mr. North has been connected with the Scribner house for twenty-five years, and during much of that time has made a specialty of choice and rare books. For the last nineteen years he has made the Scribner catalogues of choice and rare books, and has displayed excellent taste and reliable knowledge in their preparation. He has also been a constant contributor to The Bookbuyer, and has conducted its department of "Notes on Rare Books." Mr. North has taken the store formerly occupied by Vail & Co., and he expects to make a specialty of choice, rare and second-hand books. The store has been entirely refitted and decorated, and presents a most attractive appearance. Mr. North's long record in the trade has made for him many friends, as well as customers, and we wish him every possible success in his new enterprise.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY have ready Zschokke's "Der Zerbrochene Krug," edited for school use by R. O. Berkefeld.

ORANGE JUDD Co. have ready "Poultry Architecture," compiled by George B. Fiske, a practical guide for the construction of poultry houses, coops and yards.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just issued an illustrated edition of Ellen Glasgow's "The Voice of the People," and a volume of poems by the same author, entitled "The Freeman, and Other Poems."

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish within a few days "The Blood Tax," by Dorothea Gerard, in which in the form of fiction the author has summed up the arguments for and against compulsory military service.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY report the great success of Owen Wister's "The Virginian." The story has gone into its seventy-fifth thousand, and at the moment the orders average 1000 a day, one day bringing orders for 4000 copies.

THE chaplain of the Boer prisoners on the Island of St. Helena has written the Vir Publishing Company, Philadelphia, requesting right to translate into Cape Dutch "What a Young Boy Ought to Know" and "What a Young Man Ought to Know."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have taken quarters in the Presbyterian Building, 156 Fifth avenue, New York City, and this autumn will display in Room 420 a full line of their new and standard publications. Their representative will be Mr. Horace S. Ridings.

WM. J. C. DULANY COMPANY take pleasure in announcing that they have engaged Mr. E. R. F. Blogg, (formerly chief clerk for B. G. Eichelberger,) as manager of their retail department. The reputation of Mr. Blogg as a bookman is too well known to the book lovers of Baltimore to need further comment.

A SUPPLEMENT for 1900 and 1901 to "The Literature of American History" will be published toward the close of October by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., for the American Library Association. The parent work has met with so satisfactory a sale that it will soon have a second printing.

DAVID WILLIAMS COMPANY, New York City, have issued "Estimating Frame and Brick Houses," a practical treatise on estimating the cost of labor and the quantities of materials for the construction of frame, brick and stone houses, stables, barns, etc., by Fred. T. Hodgson, architect.

OPEN COURT PUBLISHING COMPANY, Chicago, have issued "Nirvana," by Paul Carus; "Babel and Bible," by Friedrich Delitzsch; "Creation Story of Genesis," by Hugo Radan; "Biblical Love Ditties," by Paul Haupt; and "Foundations of Geometry," by David Hilbert.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have put thirty or more of their best books for the young into a series called the Boys' and Girls' Bookshelf, and will issue these books at $1 each. This offers a rare chance to pick up the best-known books of Miss Alcott, Mrs. Ewing, A. G. Plympton, Lily F. Wesselhoeft, etc., in attractive shape to tempt the Christmas buyer.

THE INDUSTRIAL PUBLICATION COMPANY, New York, have in preparation "The Shakespearean Cyclopædia and New Glossary," giving the meaning of all the archaic words found in Shakespeare's works and of the ordinary words used in unusual senses and in unusual forms of construction, which is intended as a supplement to all the ordinary editions of Shakespeare's works, by John Phin, author of "Shakespearean Notes and New Readings," etc.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in press for early issue Henry Norman's long-looked-for work, "All the Russias." This volume was to have been published a year ago, but was held back for further enlargement. As its sub-title indicates, it deals with "travels and studies in contemporary European Russia, Finland, Siberia, the Caucasus and Central Asia," and it is full of Mr. Norman's keen insight into political affairs and graphic literary skill. There is also in preparation a new edition of the Blashfield book on "Italian Cities," first published in the autumn of 1900. It was originally issued without illustrations, but the new edition will contain forty-eight pictures in tint, drawn by Mr. Blashfield.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY have among their newest announcements the names of some of the authors for whom the publishers always contend. Louis Albert Banks, Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, Andrew Murray, Julia McNair Wright, and last, as place of honor, Dr. James Paton, are always names that attract all readers, and the publishers are to be congratulated that they have in their concern a man who could procure for them the latest works of these widely read authors. Dr. Paton has written "The Glory and Joy of the Resurrection;" Julia McNair Wright's book is "Studies in Hearts;" Dr. Cuyler will furnish "Recollections of a Long Life;" and Louis Albert Banks a choice collection of sermons under the head of "The King's Stewards."

A. C. McCLURG & Co. are preparing a popular edition, in two volumes, of "Lewis and Clark's Travels," edited by Dr. James K. Hosmer; "The Birds of the Rockies," by Dr. Leander S. Keyser, with full-page plates in colors by Fuertes and text illustrations; a new edition of Max Müller's "Memories," illustrated by Blanche Ostertag; "Musical Pastels," by George P. Upton; "Various Views," being further essays by William Morton Payne; and "In Argolis," a personal account of family life in Greece, by George Horton. Fiction will include "On Fortune's Road," a collection of short stories dealing with business and political life in Chicago, by Will Payne; "The Holland Wolves," a novel of the Spanish subjugation of the Netherlands, illustrated by the Kinneys; "A Captive of the Roman Eagles," by Felix Dahn. For younger readers there is Carolyn Wells's "The Pete and Polly Stories;" "Little Mistress Good Hope," by Mary Imlay Taylor; "Mayken," a historical story of Holland, by Jessie A. Chase; "Coquo and the King's Children," by Cornelia Baker; and "Prince Silver Wings," by Edith O. Harrison.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has in preparation for the fall season a volume entitled "Makers of Modern Fiction," by W. J. Dawson, which is the third in the series of studies on the Makers of Modern English; "Cameos from Nature," by Mrs. J. T. Gumersall, with numerous illustrations; "The Church and Its Social Mission," by Dr. J. Marshall Lang, the principal of Aberdeen University; "The Book of Psalms," by Professor T. K. Cheyne, an entirely new edition enlarged to three times the bulk of the first edition; "Ourselves and the Universe," by J. Brierly, author of "Studies of the Soul;" an entirely new edition, revised and enlarged, of Professor Beet's well-known commentary on St. Paul's Epistles to the Corinthians; new editions of the late Dr. Dale's work on "The Ten Commandments;" Dr. Dod on the "Parables of Our Lord;" and the Rev. G. V. Reichel's "What Shall I Tell the Children?;" a "Robert Browning Birthday Book;" "The Story of Catharine of Sienna," by Florence Wiggs; and "Up and Down the Pantiles," by Emma Marshall. Mr. Whittaker has just added to his series of anatomical models a "Popular Mannikin," the price of which is $1.50 list, not $1 net, as given in our "Weekly Record" for August 9.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation "The Writings of James Madison," edited by Gaillard Hunt; also, "The Writings of James Monroe," edited by S. M. Hamilton. Both of these works are to be complete in seven volumes, and will be published uniform with "The Writings of Jefferson," etc., in editions of 750 copies. They also announce "American Constitutional History," by Alexander Johnson, edited by Professor James A. Woodburn; "American Politics," also by Professor Woodburn; "The Administration of Dependencies," a historical study of American and European theory and practice, together with suggestions, based on this study, concerning future American policy, by Alpheus H. Snow; "Government and the State," a consideration of elementary principles and their practical application, by Frederic Wood; "Industrial Conciliation," a report of the proceedings of the conference held under the auspices of the National Civic Federation, at the rooms of the Board of Trade and Transportation in New York, December 16-17, 1901; a King Edward edition of H. D. Traill's and J. S. Mann's "Social England," to be completed in six octavo volumes; "Studies of a Biographer," Parts III, and IV, by Leslie Stephen; "Italian Life in Town and Country," by Luigi Villari, in Our European Neighbors series, edited by William Harbutt Dawson; "In City Tents," how to find, furnish and keep a small home on slender means, by Christine Terhune Herrick; also, "Fame for a Woman, or, Splendid Mourning," by Cranstown Metcalfe, with frontispiece by Adolfe Thiede.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

[B] In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

[B] Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

IMPORTANT NEW NOVELS

To be published September 20th

By FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY

LOVE AND THE SOUL HUNTERS

By JOHN OLIVER HOBBS

Author of "The Gods, Some Mortals, and Lord Wickenham," "The Herb Moon," "School for Saints," "Robert Orange," etc., etc.

In this new novel Mrs. Craigie (John Oliver Hobbs) has made, according to her own statement, the great effort of her life. It is the most brilliant creation of an author whose talent and versatility have surprised readers and critics in both Europe and America for several years.

"More than any other woman who is now writing, Mrs. Craigie is, in the true manly sense, a woman of letters. She is not a woman with a few personal emotions to express; she is what a woman so rarely is—an artist."—The Star, London.

12mo, Cloth. Price, $1.50

THE NEEDLE'S EYE

By FLORENCE MORSE KINGSLEY

Author of "Titus," "The Transfiguration of Miss Philura," "Prisoners of the Sea," "Stephen," etc.

"The Needle's Eye" is a remarkable story of modern American life,—not of one phase, but of many phases, widely different and in startling contrast. The scenes alternate between country and city. Many of the situations in the novel are exceedingly dramatic. Others sparkle with genuine humor. This is a story to make people laugh, and cry, and think.

Illustrations by F. E. Mears. 12mo, Cloth. Price, $1.50

A Romance of a Strange Country.

The Insane Root

By Mrs. CAMPBELL PRAED

Author of "Nadine; The Scourge Stick": "As a Watch in the Night," etc.

This story has a similar motif to Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and a weird treatment resembling that of Bulwer's "Strange Story." Isadas Pacha, Ambassador at the Court of St. James's, from Abdullulah Zobeir, Emperor of Abaria, dying, leaves to his physician, Dr. Marillier, "the insane root," a mandragora root, enclosed in a small box. Marillier, a suitor of Rachel, the beautiful ward of the Pacha, envies Ruel Bey, his favored rival. Learning from the papers left by the Pacha that the mandrake root has marvellous powers, Marillier succeeds in assuming the body of Ruel, who has been accidentally killed. On this change of identities the strange and fascinating story turns.

12mo, Cloth, 380 Pages. $1.50.

The Searchers

By MARGARETTA BYRDE

A delightful novel bearing the impress of a fervent belief that the secret of life is a noble one, and of a fervent desire to pursue it. The character delineation is full of blended humor and seriousness, and the plot is managed boldly and triumphantly.

12mo, Cloth, 452 Pages. $1.50.

Vol. IV. of "The Hour Glass Stories."

THE HERR DOKTOR

By ROBERT McDONALD

A novelette of artistic literary merit, narrating the varied experiences of an American girl in her effort toward capturing a titled husband.

THE FORTUNES OF OLIVER HORN

(For which see the first page)

We published yesterday, August 29:

A New Novel

By HENRY JAMES

THE WINGS OF THE DOVE

His ripest work, in which he returns to the interest of plot and character that distinguishes his most important productions. It is the story of a peculiarly insidious temptation which assails the hero, who is, nevertheless, innately superior to it; and the narrative of the moral drama in which many characters, strong and weak, are involved, is one of great variety and imaginative suggestiveness. Mr. James has done nothing of similar scope and range since the days of "The Tragic Muse." In two volumes, $2.50.

By the Creator of "Raffles."

THE SHADOW OF THE ROPE

By E. W. HORNUNG

The hero of Mr. Hornung's new novel, the scene of which is laid in England, has many of the traits which endeared the arch rascal, Raffles, to a multitude of readers. Mr. Steele, however, shows his nerve in a different way, namely, by marrying out of hand a widow suspected of murdering her husband. The causes and consequences of this extraordinary act, with their relation to the solving of the mystery of the murder, form an absorbing story into which Mr. Hornung has put his best work. $1.50.

Views and Reviews, Second Series. Essays in Appreciation—Art

By W. E. HENLEY

A volume of crisp, penetrating, and illuminating comment on the art and the artists of the last century, and in particular of the Romantic School, so arranged as to become, also, an invaluable hand-book of reference; containing also an essay on Romanticism which leaves little to be said on the general subject. $1.00.

A Cheap Edition of twenty Copyrighted Henty Books

Printed from the same plates as the original editions, with all the illustrations, with olive edges and attractive binding. These books to be sold in quantities at prices to admit of being handled on the same basis as the best of the unauthorized reprints of the uncopyrighted volumes. These titles:—

RATAPLAN: A ROGUE ELEPHANT

AND OTHER STORIES

By ELLEN VELVIN, F.Z.S.

"Not the slightest apology for the book is needed. It belongs with the classics for young people of whatever age."

—Boston Transcript.

"The stories of the adventures of the elephant, giraffe, hippopotamus, jackal, and other beasts are told in a simple way, and with that personation and humanizing of animals which always seem so much to arouse children's imaginations."

—The Outlook, New York.

"There is plenty of out-of-door feeling in all the tales and plenty of action, and they should be read with pleasure by the children for whom they are intended."

—New York Sun.

"Only a person who knows animals intimately could weave such delightful romances around the inhabitants of the forests."

—Milwaukee Sentinel.

"The book is true to life and scientifically accurate. No more beautiful or proper present can be made to a child."

—Cleveland Recorder.

"The range of the tales is that of the habitable globe and the navigable seas. One of the best features of these stories is that there is no maudlin sentimentality about them, while, at the same time, the young reader is made to feel how much cruelty is often involved in the treatment of living toys."—The Churchman, New York.

STILLMAN GOTT

FARMER AND FISHERMAN

By EDWIN DAY SIBLEY

THERE'S a good story told in its pages; a story of true folk living on land and on sea, close to nature and unspoiled by contact with convention's artificial laws. The hero is a bright, manly fellow, a scion of the best blood of Maine; he goes out into the world and wins out in splendid course and finish, aided by the love he has for the sweetest girl in all Maine; in fact their love story is the motive of the book. But Stillman Gott is the dominating and pervading element of the story, an element that carries with it the entire sympathy of the reader, who cannot help loving Stillman Gott for his quaint philosophy, business sense, kind heartedness and sturdy independence.

THE STORY of a STRANGE CAREER

Being the Autobiography of a Convict. An Authentic Document. Edited by STANLEY WATERLOO. 12mo, cloth, $1.20 net ; postage, 12 cents additional.

This distinctly original work is the life story of a criminal, written by him while serving a term in a Western penitentiary. Originally of good birth and education, the man seems to have been a born degenerate, swerving naturally into the downward path. He gives many graphic and interesting descriptions of his adventures on a whaler in South America ; on a British man-of-war ; in the American navy ; at Fort Fisher ; in Confederate prisons during the civil war ; in the New York draft riots ; and finally of his life in the penitentiary. It is a strong and rugged picture of the seamy side of the life of a "soldier of fortune."

TALES ABOUT TEMPERAMENTS

By JOHN OLIVER HOBBS, author of "The Gods, Some Mortals, and Lord Wickenham." (No. 315, Appletons' Town and Country Library.) 12mo, cloth, $1.00 ; paper, 50 cents.

A new volume by Mrs. Craigie should at once gain its place with the reading public. Her visit to this country last winter is still remembered with pleasure. Her books had already assured her of an interested welcome, and now the visit has left such pleasant recollections that a new interest must be felt in her future books.

Important Announcement

THE undersigned announces to the trade that he has acquired by purchase from WILLIAM DOXEY the plates of all the titles heretofore published at THE SIGN OF THE LARK, together with the goodwill, sign, etc., of that business.

Desirable additions are being made to the well-known Lark Classics, and a new series entitled The Lark Wisdom Series is now one of the features of the line.

The work on all these charming books is done at the University Press, of Cambridge, Mass., and every care is expended on the manufacturing details. The leather bindings, which have made the Lark Classics such favorites, are the work of L'Enfant, and cannot be surpassed in flexibility and durability and general finish.

The line has been well received by the trade for the past eight years, and it is confidently asserted that with the aid of advertising contemplated by the present publisher, and by reason of new additions, that an even greater demand will be created for the books in this line on the part of discriminating purchasers.

In making up your holiday orders, please remember this announcement. The new line will be shown early in October. Catalogues and Order Lists are now being printed.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have in preparation a volume on "Title-pages," by Theodore L. De Vinne, which is designed to be an aid to printers and publishers, and also interesting to those who care for the making of good books. They also announce "A Cook's Picture Book," a guide to the preparing of dainty dishes for dainty meals, by May Ronald, the author of "The Century Cook Book."

GODFREY A. S. WIENERS, 662 Sixth Avenue, New York, has purchased from William Doxey the plates of all the titles heretofore published at "The Sign of the Lark." He will shortly bring out new editions of the well-known Lark Classics, together with desirable additions; also, a new series, The Lark Wisdom Series.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish on the 13th inst. "The Pharaoh and the Priest," the long-promised historical novel, by Alexander Glovatski, translated by Jeremiah Curtin. The story is said to be one of great interest and power, and depicts vividly the desperate conflict between the secular and ecclesiastical powers in the eleventh century before Christ during the career of Ramesis XIII. The first edition was taken up before day of publication, and a second edition is now ready. They will publish at the same time "The Queen of Quelparte," a romance of the Far East, by Archer B. Hulbert.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready Richard Harding Davis's new novel, "Captain Macklin," that deals with a kind of life with which Mr. Davis has become very familiar in the course of his own experiences. Captain Macklin's career carries him through a South American revolution and through various military adventures, and Macklin himself is one of the author's most fascinating heroes. They will publish shortly "Doctor Bryson," by Frank H. Spearman, whose theme is the career of an eminent surgeon, the hero of the modern drama that the warfare of science with death and disease constitutes, with which is interwoven a love story of unusual intensity and charm. They announce the immediate publication of George Meredith's "The Shaving of Shagpat," "The Tragic Comedians," and "Short Stories," completing, with these three volumes, the Uniform Pocket Edition of Meredith's fiction, the first twelve volumes of which were published in the spring and early summer.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "The Story of a Strange Career, being the autobiography of a convict; an authentic document," edited by Stanley Waterloo. This work is the authentic life story of a criminal, who was of good birth and education, but he went downward naturally, it seems, from his birth. He gives interesting descriptions of his adventures on a British man-of-war, in the American navy, in Confederate prisons during the Civil War, in the riots in New York, and finally of his life in the Western Penitentiary. They have also just ready in the Town and Country Library "Tales About Temperaments," by John Oliver Hobbes," described in a former issue. The following new textbooks have also just been added to their list: "A First Spanish Book and Reader," by William F. Giese, professor of Romance languages in the University of Wisconsin, and Beaumarchais' "Le Barbier de Séville," edited by Antoine Muzarelli, two new volumes in their Twentieth Century Textbooks; also, "Harold's Discussions," by John W. Troeger and Edna Beatrice Troeger, in the Nature Study Readers.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Beginning with the issue of July 5, 1902, the titles of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The titles of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. Net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

†Hornung, Ernest W. The shadow of the rope. N. Y., Scribner, 1902. [S.] c. 7+328 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of a woman suspected of murdering her husband. She is tried and acquitted, but the world refuses to believe in her innocence. She marries a second time a man who has been present at her trial and who believes her guilty. He also has a history. Why he desires her for a wife is one of the mysteries of the story. Who murdered the woman's first husband is another. They are both ingeniously elucidated, the interest held to the end.

†Smith, Francis Hopkinson. The fortunes of Oliver Horn; il. by Walter Appleton Clark. N. Y., Scribner, 1902. [Ag.] c. 7+551 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Oliver Horn is a young Southerner who comes to

New York, just before the Civil War, to seek his fortune. After many vicissitudes, he is able to follow his inclination to study art, and becomes an artist of note. Bohemian and artistic life of thirty years ago, when social New York did not extend far above Union Square, are vividly sketched with both pathos and humor. A Southern gentleman of the old-fashioned type is presented in Oliver's father—a dreamy, impractical inventor, whose fortune is only realized when on his death-bed. Northern and Southern characters are well contrasted.

*Waterloo, Stanley, ed. The story of a strange career: being the autobiography of a convict; an authentic document. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [Ag.] c. 12+363 p. D. cl., $1.20 net.

The life story of a criminal, written by him while serving a term in a western penitentiary. Originally of good birth and education, the man seems to have been a born degenerate, swerving naturally into the downward path. He gives many graphic descriptions of his adventures on a whaler in South America; on a British man-of-war; in the American navy; at Fort Fisher; in Confederate prisons during the Civil War; in the New York draft riots; and finally of his life in the penitentiary.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 6, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE DECLINE OF THE NOVEL.

"I do not think there will be any novels or romances, at all events in volume form, in fifty or a hundred years from now. . . . They are not necessary, and even now their merit and their interest are fast declining. As historic records, the world will file its newspapers. Newspaper writers have learned to color everyday events so well that to read them will give posterity a truer picture than the historic or descriptive novel could do, and as for the novel psychological, that will soon cease to be and will die of inanition in your own lifetime."—Jules Verne.

M. VERNE's prophecy has on it the musty smell of the silurian age; indeed it became a standing joke in Nineveh, in Shalmaneser's time, and has been resurrected as a new thought once every century since then. M. Verne has been clever enough to foresee much that has come to pass; but in this matter his perspective is blurred as his comments on the psychological novel show:

"The real psychology of life is in its news, and more truth—truth with a big T—can be gathered from the police court story, the railway accident, from the everyday doings of the crowd and from the battles of the future than can be obtained if an attempt is made to clothe the psychological moral in a garb of fiction."

This sounds plausible enough, and is a view that more than one pessimistic professor of English literature has seriously defended. But it is an error nevertheless, because, as the New York Sun puts it, "it confounds the raw material employed by the artist with art itself." The artist, to quote the Sun further, "is he who makes use of and reduces to order the material supplied by everyday experience, and M. Verne's prediction will hardly be realized until we are all artists or have all lost the taste for art." M. Verne's prophecy is about as reasonable as that of the wiseacres who said that photography would put an end to the art of painting.

Now that the war in South Africa is over some one will probably undertake to arrange its bibliography. Though it looked at one time as if everybody who had ever been in South Africa must write a book about it, the number of books produced on the subject in England during the past three years does not seem to have exceeded 250, including general histories of the campaign, personal narratives of particular operations, fiction, poetry and politics. In Germany, according to a bibliography prepared by S. Perschmann for the Börsenblatt, 61 separate books on South Africa and on the Boer question were published before the war began, and 198 since then. In the United States the number of original works by American writers published since 1898 does not seem to have gone beyond the hundred mark—about 96 at a rough estimate. Frederick A. Cleveland, in his monograph, "The South African Conflict—its legal and political aspects," published by the American Academy of Political and Social Science, gives a two-page bibliography, and A. Ireland, in his work on "The Anglo-Boer Conflict," published by Small, Maynard & Co., gives a five-page bibliography. A number of libraries also printed reference lists on the subject from 1898 to the beginning of the present year. These bibliographies, of course, included American as well as foreign publications on the subject.

TO PROTECT CORPORATIONS DOING BUSINESS IN RHODE ISLAND.

THE attention of the trade is called to chapter 980 of the Public Laws of Rhode Island, passed April 3, 1902, providing that no foreign corporation, (except banking or United States corporations,) "shall carry on within this State the business for which it was incorporated, or enforce in the courts of this State any contract made within this State, unless it shall have complied with the following sections of this chapter." These "following sections" provide for the appointment of an agent to accept service and file the power of attorney with the Secretary of State.

The new law does not apply to interstate commerce, but it shuts out a foreign corporation from recovery on all contracts made in Rhode Island, unless it appoints such an agent to accept service. This law would prevent recovery on a contract, if an agent of a foreign corporation went into the State, particularly as book agents do, and secured contracts in Rhode Island, such contracts ordinarily being completed on the spot by the agent.

Book purchases being proverbially hard to enforce, and being often contested, the failure to make the proper appointment of agents would defeat a good many actions.

Of course this recent Rhode Island law cannot properly be held to interfere with subjects of interstate commerce, and in many instances a foreign corporation could get along without appointing an agent. Instances, however, would arise where it would be absolutely necessary, or may be held by the court to be absolutely necessary, and in any event the statute might often be invoked for delay in legal proceedings. It is accordingly preferable to file the power.

The Stationers' Board of Trade of New York has made arrangements to protect its clients by filing a power of attorney and representation in the State at a nominal fee, and we advise all interested to apply for the proper form of document to be executed and other information to Mr. E. H. Loveless, the secretary of the Board.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF NEWSDEALERS, BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS.

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF NEWSDEALERS, BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS held its annual meeting in Brooklyn, August 27 and 28. After an eight-hour session the convention in executive session ratified the following resolution:

Resolved, That the National Association of the Newsdealers', Booksellers' and Stationers' Executive Board, in conjunction with the delegates of the following local associations, New York, Brooklyn, Staten Island, Newark, Paterson and Hudson County, shall constitute a committee for the purpose of forming a newsdealers' co-operative news company.

At an adjourned meeting, held on August 27, the committee decided to attempt the organization of a co-operative company to distribute the periodicals which they handle. The new enterprise will be called the Co-operative News Company, and H. Russin, of New York City, is chairman of the committee having the matter in charge. No details respecting the new company have been given out, but it is understood that arrangements will be completed as soon as possible. The company is to have agents in all the large cities, and every effort will be made to limit the stockholdings exclusively to newsdealers.

The following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year: Thomas F. Martin, president; William H. Skinner, of Newark, N. J., first vice-president; Samuel L. Stratton, of Paterson, N. J., second vice-president; Daniel Brophy, of New York City, treasurer; Morris E. Golde, of New York City, secretary; John Y. Collins, of Brooklyn, custodian. The executive committee was made up as follows: H. Russin, of New York City, chairman; J. H. Nolan, of Providence, R. I.; A. Dixon, of Brooklyn; C. A. Schuldt, of Newark, N. J.; J. O'Rourke, of Bridgeport, Conn.

A NEW WAY TO BUILD MAPS.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM G. RIPLEY, of the economics department at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, according to the Philadelphia Record, has devised a simple and interesting method of building up statistical maps that is likely to make popular a good deal of curious information which has been neglected in the past because there was no inexpensive way of putting it on paper intelligently and entertainingly.

The old-fashioned method of making graphic maps, as they are called, was to print them in different colors or in different shades of the same color by the lithographic process—which involves a separate printing for each shade and is altogether a costly thing to do. A modification of the principle of the lithographic map was Professor Ripley's idea. Instead of printing this map in outline first and then printing each shade or color upon it separately, he pasted the various tints represented by shadings in black and white upon his outline foundation and then made plates of the resulting patchwork.

The idea is so interesting and is capable of so many applications which are both entertaining and instructive that it is worth describing. The necessary equipment for building the maps is simple—a good map to use as a model, a sheet of tracing paper, a carbon copying sheet and some "stippleboard," which is a kind of paper ruled in fine parallel black lines on a sort of corduroy surface so that it has a grayish tint. Scraping the stippleboard gently with a sharp knife changes the black lines to dots, so that the shade of gray appears lighter, and rubbing it lightly with carbon or crayon brings out cross lines on the whole sheet. By sufficient scraping or carbon rubbing stippleboard can be made pure white or dead black.

Suppose, for example, a student wishes to depict in such a way that the meaning shall be evident at a glance how public health is dependent upon the quality of the water supply, and how important a factor a good system of waterworks is. Having settled on the range of percentages which his shades of color must represent, and having divided the statistical figures—which are so meaningless to many people—in accordance with this plan, he first traces from an atlas the outline of the United States with its various subdivisions on his transparent paper and then by means of a carbon sheet transfers it to a piece of stiff cardboard, which is the basis of his final map. Beginning up in one corner of the country, with the State of Washington, he would transfer the outlines of the State to stippleboard and shade it by erasures or by blacking so as to express his statistics of the Washington water supply in accordance with a scheme of tint gradations, each State having its special tint.

Then he would cut out its northern and western boundaries with the scissors, letting the south and east sides go untrimmed, and paste it down in its proper place on the cardboard backing. Proceeding the same way with Idaho and Oregon—except that they must each be of a different shade, of course, in accordance with their special figures—he would stick them down so that they overlapped the untrimmed edges of Washington, just as shingles overlie one another on a roof, and thus keep on in the same way until he has shingled the entire map down to Florida, which, being the last piece to take its place, must be cut out on all sides. Rivers and the coast line are drawn in with ink, and wherever the “shingles” overlap into the ocean they are scraped white with a penknife.

If the range of figures is very wide it may be necessary to supplement the four or five shades which it is possible to produce by means of the stippleboard with the intermediate tints, and for this purpose paper is specially printed in the required gradations. The interest that can be got out of this simple paste-and-scissors process of graphical statistics by the amateur, the student, the scientist or author is almost without limit, for there is hardly any series of facts that cannot be thus pictured. A great advantage of the process—apart from its simplicity—is its inexpensiveness for reproduction.

GREAT WRITERS.

FEW adjectives are so abused in criticism as “great.” Writers, booksellers and others who handle books speak of a great book, a great author, forgetting that the word implies a scale of merit—implies it often to destroy it. Professor William P. Trent, of Columbia University, has been endeavoring to make a scale which such persons might keep in mind, and his remarks are not uninteresting. From his article in the International Monthly the following table is made up:

GREAT WRITERS.

Homer.	Virgil.	Dante.
Sophocles.	Goethe.	Shakespeare.
Milton.	Molière.	Cervantes, etc.

To this class Professor Trent is inclined to add Balzac and Hugo.

WRITERS OF GREAT POWER, BUT NOT UNIVERSAL IN THEIR GENIUS.

Pindar.	Aristo.	Schiller.
Lucretius.	Montaigne.	Heine.
Petrarch.	Spenser.	Rabelais.
Tasso.	Chaucer.	Gibbon, etc.

WRITERS WHOM ONE CANNOT CALL SUPREME, ALTHOUGH ONE WOULD AS LITTLE THINK OF CALLING THEM MINOR.

Catullus.	Lamb.	Burns.
Horace.	Byron.	Coleridge.
Leopardi.	Browning.	Tennyson.
Marlowe.	Dryden.	Wordsworth.
Ben Jonson.	Pope.	Shelley.
Keats.	Gray.	Lander.
	Hawthorne, etc.

Professor Trent adds that if his classification has been made on correct lines it needs filling out and requires many qualifications. “And we must always remember that any scheme of classification is bad if it tends to make our judgments hard and fast, if it induces us to think that we can stick a pin through a writer and ticket him as an entomologist does an insect. But if we use such a scheme intelligently it may prove useful, if only by stimulating us to candid objections, for candid objections imply honest thought, and honest thought on such a noble subject as literature cannot but be beneficial.”

COMMUNICATIONS.

PERTINENT CRITICISM OF PUBLISHERS' TRADE LISTS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: On looking over the “Publishers' Trade List Annual” for 1902 I find one thing that has always been troublesome, namely, that some publishers do not have their name at the top of all the pages of their list, making it necessary, sometimes, to look through their entire list to find out whose it is. Of course, in many instances I find the type so familiar that I do not have to do this; but that is not always the case. When one is in a hurry to find what one wants—and who is not in a hurry?—it is very annoying to turn over so much matter to get what he wants. May I also ask, Why cannot publishers confine themselves to their lists and leave out “ads”? To illustrate, I refer you to Albert Brandt's. I have all your lists from the first, and have often thought that as time goes on we can never afford to have so much room taken up with matter not pertaining to the actual title and price of the book. This is more “kicking” than I have ever done, but I think not all without reason, vide American Baptist Publication Society.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

CLARENCE F. BIRDSEYE vs. C. W. LITTLE.

SUIT has been brought in the United States Circuit Court, before Commissioner Shields, in an action for infringement of copyright by Clarence F. Birdseye against Charles W. Little, publisher of “Cumming and Gilbert's General Laws and Other General Statutes of New York State.” The book in question is credited as being compiled by Robert C. Cumming and Frank B. Gilbert, who were for several years on the Statutory Revision Commission.

In his complaint Mr. Birdseye states that in 1879 he began work on the first edition of his “Revised Statutes, Codes and General Laws of the State of New York,” a work to which he devoted evenings and holidays for eleven years, and which cost $40,000 to bring out. This book, Mr. Birdseye alleges, was palpably used by Cumming and Gilbert as the basis for their work, and he asks the court to enjoin the publishers from further infringement, and to order the defendants to pay over all profits from the sale of the disputed book.

TO DECIDE THE VALIDITY OF AN ASSIGNMENT OF AMERICAN COPYRIGHT IN CANADA.

THE question whether an assignment of an American copyright would hold good in Canada was brought before Justice Falconbridge in Toronto August 26. McLeod and Allan, who claim to have the copyright for "When Knighthood Was in Flower," brought suit against the Poole Publishing Company and the Musson Book Company for issuing of the book, and to restrain them from further publishing. It seems that the American publishers assigned the copyright to the Canadian houses, and the defendants disputed the legality of the transaction. The judge decided that the case should go to trial, and gave no opinion on it.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PROFESSOR JOSEPH KÜRSCHNER, the author of the "Deutsche Literatur-Kalender," and other handbooks, died suddenly July 29, en route to Venice. He was born at Gotha, Saxony, September 20, 1853, and was graduated from the Leipzig University. He compiled a dramatic necrology, (1873;) the "Staats-Hof-und Kommunal-Handbuch," published annually, and the "Literatur-Kalender." He was for a time editor of Vom Fels zum Meer, Ueber Land und Meer, Deutsche Romanbibliothek, and Aus Fremden Zungen. He also edited the Collection Speemann and the Deutsche National-Literatur, comprising 220 volumes.

MARCELLUS BETZ, a blind newsdealer of Williamsburg, New York, died August 29 in the Eastern District Hospital, Williamsburg, in his seventy-first year, from injuries received two weeks before in a fall. He was born in New York, and at the age of seven began to sell papers. In 1850 he moved to Williamsburg. Ten years later, while a member of the Volunteer Fire Department, he went to a fire and some sparks flew into his eyes. He rubbed the eyelids with his fingers, which caused irritation and subsequently paralysis. He became totally blind. He continued his vocation with the aid of one of his children.

WILLIAM H. ASH, for many years a faithful and trusted employee of G. P. Putnam's Sons, was drowned August 30, at Lake Sunapee, N. H., where he was spending his vacation. His body was found within four feet of the dock. Messrs. Putnam were notified and they arranged for a burial at Newport, N. H. Ash was something of a celebrity among book buyers. He was an unusually bright negro, and spent so many years in the employ of the Putnams that he came to be known for his acquaintance with rare volumes and editions. His mother, with whom he lived at Winfield, L. I., died a few months ago. Ash was twenty-nine years old.

THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN SEWARD, musical composer and president of the Brotherhood of Christian Unity, died August 30, at Orange, N. J., aged sixty-seven. He began life as a music teacher. Some of his compilations were very successful, the sale of one book, called "The Temple Choir," going beyond 100,000 copies. He introduced the tonic sol-fa system of teaching music, and was for many years editor of various musical periodicals published in New York City. But what he regarded as his most distinctive and interesting musical work was recording and thus preserving many of the religious melodies of the Southern slaves, known as "spirituals," or "slave songs," of which "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "Turn Back, Pharaoh's Army" are types. This work was done in connection with the famous Fisk Jubilee Singers, who raised several hundred thousand dollars by their concerts in America and Europe for their university at Nashville, Tenn.

GEORGE DOUGLAS BROWN, the promising author of "The House With the Green Shutters," died in London, August 28. He was born in 1869 in the west of Scotland in a farming and mining country. He studied at Glasgow University, where he won a scholarship on which he went to Oxford. When he was graduated there he tramped to London with a total capital of £17, with the purpose of becoming a man of letters. His first work was as a reporter on a newspaper. Later he became literary adviser to one of the London publishing houses, and was said to be at work on a new novel at the time of his death. "The House With the Green Shutters" is a story of Scotch country life, written in an uncompromisingly realistic vein. It attracted the attention of critics and the public, and was widely read. It was published under the name of George Douglas. That work enabled him to retire from the daily grind, and he went to live at Haslemere, where Tyndall and Grant Allen lived, and where Dr. Conan Doyle lives now. The young author had been for a year in a jubilant state of mind, and had planned a trip to the Continent, a tramp through Scotland and several pleasure jaunts, when death suddenly struck him down.

DR. EDWARD EGGLESTON, novelist and historian, died September 3, at his home, Owl's Nest, on Dunham Bay, Lake George, N. Y. He would have been sixty-six years old had he lived until December 13, having been born in Vevay, Ind., in 1836. Dr. Eggleston's first work to bring him reputation was "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," published in Hearth and Home in 1871. The book had an immediate success, for, in addition to delicate humor, it was marked by a sympathy with the subject which won all who read it. Prior to making this hit Dr. Eggleston had been a Methodist preacher. His father died when he was nine years old, and handicapped by ill health from boyhood, he was thrown upon his own resources for such education as he got. It was in 1856 that he became a Methodist preacher, riding a four weeks' circuit in Indiana and working always up to the limit of his strength. His health gave way and he went to Minnesota, where he held several pastorates and was general agent for the Bible Society. His first literary work began in 1866 with sketches for the Little Corporal, a children's paper published at Evanston, Ill., of which he afterward became associate editor. Subsequently he became editor of the Sunday School Teacher, published in Chicago, and he gained a reputation as a speaker at Sunday-school conventions. In 1870 he succeeded Theodore Tilton as editor of the Independent and came to New York to live. He afterward was editor of Hearth and Home, and from 1874 to 1879 held the pastorate of the Church of Christian Endeavor in Brooklyn, N. Y. Later he retired to his picturesque home, Owl's Nest, on Lake George, and from that time until his death devoted himself exclusively to literary work. In addition to a number of novels, Mr. Eggleston wrote much on American historical topics. Among his books may be mentioned "The Beginners of a Nation," "The Faith Doctor," "Duffels," "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," "Mr. Blake's Walking-Stick," "The Mystery of Metropolisville," "Roxy," "The Circuit Rider," "Book of Queer Stories," "The End of the World," "The Schoolmaster's Stories for Boys and Girls," "Queer Stories for Boys and Girls," "The Graysons," "A History of the United States and Its People, for the Use of Schools," "The Household History of the United States and Its People," "A First Book in American History," four volumes of the Famous American Indian Series, and his latest work, "The Transit of Civilization," an admirable study of American colonial conditions, in which his qualities as a careful and sympathetic historian appears at their best.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM P. TRENT, of Columbia University, is putting the finishing touches to "A History of American Literature."

SARAH GRAND, author of "Babs the Impossible," is at work on a play in collaboration with Mr. George R. Sims. The play was begun by Mme. Grand in joint authorship with Robert Buchanan, whose death materially postponed the completion of the work.

ACCORDING to a correspondent of the New York Sun, Owen Wister is a grandson of Fanny Kemble. The great actress seventy years ago married Mr. Pierce Butler, of Philadelphia. Of their two daughters one married Mr. Wister, of Philadelphia, the father of the distinguished novelist.

MISS ALICE MACGOWAN, whose first novel, "The Last Word," is offered by L. C. Page & Company on their fall list, would seem to be well prepared to write a thoroughly American story without sectional bias. She was born in Ohio, brought up in Tennessee, has lived a good portion of her life in the East, and got her literary impetus in Texas. If such preparation as this does not obliterate provincialism, it would seem that nothing could.

FREDERIC L. KNOWLES writes that he had nothing to do with the compiling of the Third Series of "Cap and Gown" which a few weeks ago was credited to him in our "Weekly Record" under the pseudonym of "R. L. Paget," a name under which we understood he produced literary work some time ago. The pseudonym, however, Mr. Knowles claims, is the office property of the publishers, and may cover the work of any one employed by them to compile other issues of this excellent series of college verse.

KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN has recently established a prize at Bowdoin College, to be known as the "Hawthorne Prize," for creative work in English, that will be awarded each year at Commencement to the member of the Junior or Senior class presenting the best poem or short story. Mrs. Wiggins's home, Quillcote-on-Saco, at Hollis, Maine, is not far from Brunswick, where Bowdoin is situated. She has been engaged this summer as for the past two years, on an anthology of verse for children, entitled "Golden Numbers," which will be published by McClure, Phillips & Co., this month.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALAMEDA, CAL.—Theodore Altona has been succeeded by T. F. Baird.

ALVIN, TEX.—Abrams & Ashley, booksellers, were burnt out August 13.

BATH, N. Y.—Spencer F. Lang, bookseller, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Bookseller, of Chicago, has been acquired by C. A. Huling, who has removed its business and editorial offices to 91 Dearborn Street. R. P. Hayes, the former publisher, will assist Mr. Huling as associate editor, and Chesley R. Perry, secretary of the Chicago Library Club, will conduct a department of Library Affairs. The Bookseller is an independent journal that has no axe to grind, and improves steadily in literary quality and typographical appearance.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce "The Life of Mozart" and "The Life of Brahms," in the Master Musician Series.

THE publishing firms of Germany have agreed not to supply books to those retailers who grant discounts to cash customers.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just brought out the first volume of their Variorum edition of Fitzgerald's works. The remaining six volumes are to appear this fall.

CURTIS & CAMERON, Boston, have taken over the book on Edwin A. Abbey's "Quest of the Holy Grail," announced by Noyes, Platt & Co. They will have it ready about October 1.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish shortly Bemont and Monod's "Middle Ages in Europe, 395 to 1270," in an English version made under the editorship of Professor George B. Adams of Yale.

J. F. TAYLOR & COMPANY have just ready "The Prophet of the Real," a dramatic story of to-day, by Esther Miller; also, "The Heart of Woman," a romance dealing with the problem of a dual love, by Harry W. Desmond.

ROBERT WATERS, West Hoboken, N. J., will bring out shortly a memorial of John Swinton entitled "The Career and Conversation of John Swinton," with a portrait. Charles H. Kerr & Co., Chicago, will also handle the book.

W. L. MASON, 35 W. Twenty-first Street, New York, has published "How to Become a Law Stenographer," a helpful handbook for stenographers whose ambitions lead them to seek employment as court of law stenographers.

MARCUS WARD & Co., New York, have published in an attractive little pamphlet "The Essentials of Polite Correspondence," giving accepted forms of address and salutation, etc., prepared by Helen E. Gavit, author of "The Etiquette of Correspondence."

A. WESSELS COMPANY have ready a very seasonable book by Edwin L. Sabin, called "The Magic Moshie, and Other Goldfish Stories," in which are collected the author's contributions to Lippincott's, Harper's, Outing, and other periodicals and books.

THE ABBEY PRESS have just ready "Haps and Mishaps of Jack Haselton," by W. H. Morten; "For Bush or Bonnet," by M. E. Hoogstraet; "Sea Breezes and Sand Dunes," by Rebecca Van Dusen; and "Justa Hamlin's Vocation," by Janette Hill Knox.

C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish on the 10th inst. "The Climax," by Charles Felton Pidgin, which the publishers tersely characterize as "a capering romance of some things that never happened to Aaron Burr, Alexander Hamilton and others."

THE ALWIL SHOP, Ridgewood, N. J., has just published a special edition of "The Essay on Nature," by Ralph Waldo Emerson. The work is printed in three colors and is bound in birch-wood boards. Fifty copies have been printed on Dutch hand-made paper and colored by hand throughout.

EDWIN S. CRAWLEY, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, will publish on the 10th inst. "A Short Course in Plane and Spherical Trigonometry," by Edwin S. Crawley and Professor Thomas A. Scott. The book is published with and without logarithmic tables (four place.)

JAMES POTT & Co. have in preparation a work on "The Mediterranean," a pictorial survey supplemented by a mine of information; also, a romance of exceptional merit by Virna Sheard, entitled "A Maid of Many Moods," which deals with the Avon district, midway between Stratford and Shotton.

THE BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY, (Smithsonian Institution,) of which J. W. Powell is director, has published an interesting collection of Chinook stories, entitled "Kathlamet Texts." The originals were told by three natives acquainted with the Kathlamet dialect, and were recorded and translated by Franz Boas.

ELKIN MATTHEW, London, is to publish an interesting "find," which consists of a diary kept by Edward Williams, the friend of Shelley who was drowned with him. Any new and intimate light upon Shelley, such as this diary is likely to supply, cannot fail to be of extreme interest. Dr. Garnett is to write an introduction to the volume.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish shortly a work on "Social New York Under the First Georges," prepared from authentic records—old wills, inventories, letters, etc.—by Esther Singleton, author of "The Furniture of Our Forefathers," etc.; also, "Sir William Pepperell," the hero of Louisburg in 1745, by Noah Brooks, a volume in the Life Histories Series.

GEORGE F. KELLY, (The Kensington Press,) 435 Broadway, New York, will publish this month a volume entitled "American Designers of Book Plates," which will contain articles, by experts, on the ex-libris designs of fifteen of the younger American makers of book plates, and upwards of one hundred plates in the text and a number of extra-inserted plates in colors.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY announce a volume for early fall publication, entitled "The Whirlwind." It is a story of the Civil War by Rupert Hughes, and the striking title of the book is spoken of as a good description of the sweeping career of the hero who is the centre of a novel which seeks to depict the American life, political and social, in a most impressive way.

THE METHODIST BOOK CONCERN (Eaton & Mains,) will publish on the 15th inst., "The Drillmaster of Methodism," principles and methods for the class leader and pastor, by Charles L. Goodell, D.D. They will publish shortly "William Xavier Ninde," a memorial, by his daughter, and "Minutes of the Annual Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church; Spring Conferences, 1902."

WHITE & WARNER, Hartford, Conn., have published a new issue of their useful hand-book, "Trolley Trips Through Southern New England." The illustrations are numerous, and there are nine maps, four showing the trolley lines between New York and Boston, the other five showing in detail lines around Bridgeport, New Haven, Hartford, Springfield and Worcester. The tables give the running times, distances and fare.

THE OUTLOOK COMPANY will shortly publish in book form George Kennan's brilliant first hand narrative of "The Tragedy of Pelee," which has been appearing in serial form in the Outlook. Mr. Kennan's ascent of Pelee was made in company with Professor Angelo Heilprin, just previous to the greatest volcanic eruption of those that followed the catastrophe of May 8. His story of his experiences and explorations forms a thrilling narrative, and a contribution of importance to the history of the Martinique disaster. The book will be fully illustrated with photographs taken by Mr. Kennan and others.

RICHARD G. BADGER, (Gorham Press,) Boston, has just issued "The Cult of the Purple Rose," by Shirley Everton Johnson, describing a phase of Harvard undergraduate life of 1890; "Maximilian," a play by Edgar Lee Masters, dealing with the ill-fated Emperor of Mexico; "Moses," a drama by Charles Hovey Brown; and four volumes of poetry: "The Great Procession," verses for and about children, by Harriet Prescott Spofford; "The Air Voyage," by William E. Ingersoll; "Thoughts Adrift," poems by Hattie Horner Louthan; and "English Lyrics of a Finnish Harp," by Herman Montague Donner.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co., 323 Wentworth Building, Summer Street and Atlantic Avenue, Boston, have just ready attractive editions of "A Tale of a Tub," with numerous notes; "Virginius Puerisque," and "Familiar Studies of Men and Books," both by Robert Louis Stevenson; also, "Commodore Truncheon's Courtship" and "The Cruise of H. M. S. Thunder," from the works of Smollett. Each volume is printed from 12-point Cadmus type, on a high-grade paper, with a photogravure frontispiece and a vignette photogravure decorative title-page. Mr. H. B. Turner may be remembered by the trade through his connection with the firm of Lothrop Publishing Company.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just published in a separate volume entitled "Glimpses of California and the Missions," Helen Hunt Jackson's delightful California articles, hitherto printed in her European travel sketches, with 37 pictures by Henry Sandham, who illustrated "Romona," also, a new edition of Fannie Merritt Farmer's "Boston Cooking School Cook Book," with an appendix containing 300 additional recipes. They have in preparation "The Speeches and Other Writings of Daniel Webster, Hitherto Uncollected," in three volumes, which will contain material much of which has until now been inaccessible; also, "American Literature in its Colonial and National Period," by Dr. Lorenzo Sears of Brown University.

W. A. WILDE Co. announce several works for young people which they will have ready shortly. There will be a new volume by Everett T. Tomlinson, entitled "In the Camp of Cornwallis;" "Sweetbrier and Thistle-down," a story by James Newton Baskett; "A Loyal Lass," a story of the Niagara campaign of 1814, by Amy E. Blanchard; "Mr. Pat's Little Girl," by Mary F. Leonard, author of the "Spectacle Man;" "The Baluster Boys," which Blanche M. Channing completed just before her sad and sudden death; "What Gladys Saw," a story of farm and forest, by Francis M. Fox; and "On the Frontier with St. Clair," a story of the opening up of the Ohio country, by Charles M. Wood. All these books are fully illustrated.

THE CATHEDRAL LIBRARY ASSOCIATION, New York, have in preparation a "Memorial Volume of the Most Rev. Augustine Corrigan, D.D., Archbishop of New York," which will contain a sketch of the life of Mgr. Corrigan, a description of the obsequies and Month's Mind held in the Cathedral, with the sermons preached by the Most Rev. Archbishop of Philadelphia, and the Right Rev. Bishop of Rochester, and a full account of the proceedings at the memorial meeting held by the Catholic societies of New York in Carnegie Hall, June 8, and an extended report of the addresses made on that occasion. There will be photographs of the Archbishop at different periods of his life, and other illustrations. The work will be published by subscription only, and the copies will be numbered.

THE CENTURY COMPANY is bringing out a "Bible for Children," printed in two colors, with full page illustrations from the old masters. Rev. Dr. Francis Brown, of the Union Theological Seminary, has arranged the text, and Bishop Potter has furnished the introduction. A book of Bishop Potter's will also shortly appear entitled "The East of Today and Tomorrow," the result of the bishop's recent visit to Japan, China, India and the Hawaiian Islands. The "Essays of Elia," and "The Sentimental Journey" will be added to The Century Classics; James H. Stoddart's "Recollections of a Player" will soon appear and this autumn the publication will begin of a new series of books for boys and girls to be called The St. Nicholas Series, and to be made up of the long Stories that have appeared in the St. Nicholas Magazine.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish this month "The Ship of Dreams," a story of Long Island life along the Great South Bay, by Louise Forslund, author of "The Story of Sarah;" "The Maid-at-Arms," a romance of life in New York State during 1778, by Robert W. Chambers; also, "The Vultures," Henry Seton Merriman's new story, in which he describes some of the attachés of diplomatic foreign offices who are expected "to be found where the carcass is." They have in preparation "The Christmas Kalends of Provence," by Thomas A. Janvier, which deals with that region of France which the author knows and loves so well; a new volume of poems by Will Carleton; "Poems and Verses," by Edward Sandford Martin; also, a new and revised edition of William Agnew Paton's "Picturesque Sicily."

NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK Co. have ready an excellent reprint of the "History of the Expedition under the Command of Captains Lewis and Clark to the Sources of the Missouri, etc." It is reprinted from the 1814 edition of the "Journals," and is issued in three volumes, well printed and attractively bound, appearing in the Commonwealth Series. This house also announces "Three Men on Wheels," a sequel to "Three Men in a Boat," by Jerome K. Jerome; "Joan of the Sword Hand," a novel of stirring adventure, by S. R. Crockett; "The Shadow of Hilton Fernbrook," a tale of love versus hypnotism, by Atha Westbury; "Captain Fanny," by W. Clark Russell; and "With Sword and Crucifix," an historical story of the time of La Salle, by Edward S. Van Zile. The foregoing novels all appear in the Red Letter Series.

THE GRAFTON PRESS, of New York, have just ready "By the Stage Door," a collection of stage stories by Miss Ada Patterson and Miss Victory Bateman; also "The Imperial Republic," an anti-imperialistic drama, by Miss Elizabeth G. Crane, who is already known as the author of "Berquin." They have in preparation a limited edition of Chaucer's "Wife of Bath's Tale," uniform with the Grafton edition of the "Cok and Hen;" "The Worth of Words," by Dr. Ralcy Husted Bell, with an introduction by Dr. William Colby Cooper; "Some By-ways of California," by Charles Franklin Carter; "The Senator's Sweetheart," by Rosseter Willard, with an introduction by Mrs. Cushman K. Davis; "The Song of the Wedding Bells: Poems," by William Bonnie Ockhame; also, "Love Songs and Other Poems," by Owen Innslly.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just brought out an attractive uniform edition of the novels of Sidney C. Grier, in seven volumes, including "The Warden of the Marches," "Like Another Helen," "Peace with Honor," "His Excellency's English Governess," "Kings of the East," "A Crowned Queen," and "In Furthest Ind;" "Beautiful Joe's Paradise, or, the Island of Brotherly Love," a sequel to "Beautiful Joe," by Marshall Saunders, with illustrations by Charles Livingston Bull; "Councils of Croesus," by May Knight Potter, illustrated by W. H. Dunton; "A Puritan Knight Errant," by Edith Robinson, illustrated by L. J. Bridgman; and two new volumes in the Cosy Corner Series—"Jerry's Reward," by Evelyn Snead Barnett, illustrated by Etheldred B. Barry, and "The Flight of Rosy Dawn," by Pauline Bradford Mackie (Mrs. H. Müller Hopkins,) illustrated by Josephine Bruce.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY have in preparation "The Loom of Life," a new story by Charles Frederic Goss, author of "The Redemption of David Corson," and "Little Saint Sunshine," a Christmas story, by the same author, with illustrations by Virginia

Keep; "The Long Straight Road," a novel of to-day, by George Horton, author of "Like Another Helen," illustrated by the Kinneys; "The Master of Appleby," a romance of the Carolinas, by Francis Lynde, with illustrations by T. de Thulstrup; "Francezka," a story of youth, splendor and tragedy, by Molly Elliott Seawell, author of "The Sprightly Romance of Marsac," with illustrations by Harrison Fisher; also, "Edges," a story filled with bright talk, with clever bits of philosophy, with fresh and far-seeing observations, by Alice Woods, who also illustrates her work.

HENRY T. COATES & Co. have ready "Japan and Her People," by Anna C. Hartshorne, in two volumes and well illustrated; "Vienna and the Viennese," by Maria H. Lansdale; "European and Japanese Gardens," edited by Glenn Brown and illustrated with pictures of representative gardens; "Brevities: Being More Crankisms," by L. de V. Matthewman; "Whimlets," by S. Scott Stinson and C. V. Dwiggin; "Songs and Stories of Tennessee," by John T. Moore; and several works on coffee and tea, their history, culture and blending, by Joseph M. Walsh. The fiction list of this house includes "The Embarrassing Orphan," by W. E. Norris; "Sawdust: a Romance," by Dorothea Gerard; "Kent Fort Manor," by William Henry Babcock; "Last Words," by Stephen Crane; "The Archierey of Samara: a Russian Novel," by Henry Iliowizi; and for younger readers new stories by Alger, Ellis and Castlemon.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just issued "Matthew Arnold," by Herbert W. Paul, in the English Men of Letters; "Lux Christi: an outline study of India," by Caroline Atwater Mason; the Temple edition of Henry Fielding in twelve volumes, edited by George Saintsbury; and several new text-books, among which are "English History Told by English Poets," a reader compiled by Katherine Lee Bates and Katherine Coman; "A Teacher's Manual of Geography," by Charles McMurry, and several volumes of annotated Latin and Greek classics. They have in preparation Dr. Edward Everett Hale's "Memories of a Hundred Years," which is appearing serially in The Outlook; a new book by Jacob A. Riis, entitled "The Battle with the Slum," which includes the material in Mr. Riis's "A Ten Year's War," which he has rewritten and greatly enlarged; also, Marion Crawford's latest novel, "Cecilia, the Last of the Vestals," a story of young women of modern Rome.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just ready "Tom Moore," an unhistorical romance, founded on certain happenings in the life of Ireland's greatest poet, by Theodore Burt Sayre, author of "Two Summer Girls and I," etc., illustrated; also, "Son! or the Wisdom of 'Uncle Eph,' the Modern Yutzo," by Lord Gilhooly, (Frederick Henri Seymour,) a volume of homely advice and wisdom cleverly conveyed. They will publish shortly "The Mishaps of an Automobilist," by De Witt C. Falls, with colored illustrations; "Wolfville Nights," by Alfred Henry Lewis; "Love, Laurels and Laughter," a volume of verse, by Miss Beatrice Hanscom; "A Woman's Venture," a new story, by David Graham Phillips, author of "The Great God Success," who gives an interesting picture of social life in Washington; "Mary Had a Little Lamb, the true story of the real Mary and the real lamb," with numerous illustrations; "Cats and All About Them," a practical handbook for the cat lover and the cat fancier; also, a new edition of "A Whirl Asunder," by Gertrude Atherton.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just ready "Under Calvin's Spell," by Deborah Alcock, a historical novel of the time of Calvin and the Huguenots, the scene centering in Geneva, but shifting at times into Savoy and France. As a story the plot is vigorous with action, suspense, surprise and critical situations; moreover, its tone is wholesome and its heroism inspiring. They have in press a work entitled "Down in Water Street," a record of sixteen years of labors in what was once the worst section of lower New York, by Samuel H. Hadley, superintendent of the Water Street Mission. In a measure the book is a sequel to "The Life of Jerry McAuley," and naturally enough the latter's name figures prominently in its pages. They will publish shortly "A Maker of the New Orient, Samuel Rollins Brown," by William Elliot Griffis. Brown held an important place in the history of missions and of general progress. He was among the first to instruct the deaf and dumb. He translated the New Testament into Japanese, and brought to America the first Chinese students to be educated abroad.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish on the 15th inst. the initial volume of a First Novel Series, entitled "The Ragged Edge," by John T. McIntyre. It is a study of ward politics and social life. This will be followed by "The Taskmasters," by George Kibbe Turner, the scene of which is laid in a New England factory town, and the central interest of the plot is the social and political dominance of the great industrial barons. At the same time they will publish "The Hole in the Wall," a story of a public house and its frequenters in Wapping, England, by Arthur Morrison, author of "Tales of Mean Streets;" "Ivan Ilyitch," one of Tolstoi's most powerful short stories, translated by Mrs. Garnett; and a new volume of the Dent edition of the complete works of William Hazlitt. They will publish later in the month "Gabriel Tolliver," by Joel Chandler Harris, a story of Georgia during the "reconstruction" period, in which the author points out the evils and injustice caused by the efforts of the carpet-baggers to organize the negroes and influence them against the Southern whites. In October they will bring out Booth Tarkington's latest novel, "The Two Vanrevels."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will have ready on Saturday, September 13, a varied list of books, among which fine editions of standard works take an important place. Among such are the Riverside edition of Bret Harte's works, in 16 volumes, sold only in sets; a new one volume Holiday edition of Thoreau's "Walden," in dark cloth binding, showing a design in gold of the hut by the Pond; a Cambridge edition in five volumes of Lockhart's "Life of Sir Walter Scott"; and new editions of "Robinson Crusoe" and "The Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin." The first volume will also then be ready of "The Argive Heraeum," edited by Charles Waldstein, which will give the results of the excavations made from 1891-95 at the famous shrine of Hera in Argolis in behalf of the Archaeological Institute of America and the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. This work will be in two volumes, with 75 full-page plates and 400 other illustrations. "The Champion," by Charles Egbert Craddock, a book for boys of which the hero is a printer's "devil" in Tennessee, and "The Mosque of Judgment," by William Vaughn Moody, a dramatic poem of greater length than he has yet attempted, will also be ready next Saturday.

MANZI, JOYANT & Co. successors to Goupil & Co., have in preparation "Goupil's Paris 'Salons,' 1902," which will contain a review of the most remarkable paintings and sculptures exhibited by the Société des Artistes Français and the Société Nationale des Beaux-Arts, by Maurice Hamel, the well-known art critic. The English translation has been made by Paul Villars. The illustrations consist of one hundred full-page plates. The work is issued in a strictly limited edition. They also announce a work, in French, by Pierre de Nolhac, entitled "Louis xv. et Mme. de Pompadour," with fifty photogravures, eight head and tail pieces and two hand-finished water-color facsimiles, limited to 100 copies on Japan paper and 800 copies on handmade paper. The binding for this work is a reproduction of the most magnificent design executed by Padeloup for Louis xv. and will be ornamented on the second cover with the ex-libris of Mme. de Pompadour drawn by Cochin. They have also in preparation a sumptuous work on "Henry VIII," by A. F. Pollard, with forty-three photogravures and one hand-finished water-color frontispiece, the American market for which has been sold to Charles Scribner's Sons. They are preparing a superb work on the Wallace Collection at Hartford House, London, with text by A. G. Temple, director of the Guildhall Gallery, London. This will be in ten parts, each to contain ten full-page plates, including two water-color facsimiles, also a duplicate set of the plates. The edition will be limited to 100 copies on Japan paper at $300 the copy.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in preparation a work of importance by Dr. C. A. Briggs, of Union Seminary, entitled "The Incarnation of the Lord," ten discourses which give the entire New Testament teaching upon the subject of the title; a work entitled "Human Nature and the Social Order," by Professor Charles Horton Cooley, of Ann Arbor, which is considered by Professor Giddings to be "the best treatment of the human nature problem that we have had since the social point of view began to receive attention;"

"The Essence of Christianity, a Study in the History of Definition," by Professor William Adams Brown, of Union Theological Seminary, which, as the title indicates, is essentially a discussion, in the light of modern research, of the old question, "What is Christianity?" "The Citizen and the Industrial Situation," a new book by Bishop Potter upon a phase of the capital and labor problem with which he has been so prominently engaged of late as an arbitrator; "The Christian Point of View," containing papers by three professors of Union Theological Seminary—"The Problem for the Church," by Professor George W. Knox, "Theological Reconstruction," by Professor A. C. McGiffert, and "The Religious Value of the Old Testament," by Professor Francis Brown—whose purpose it is to show the effect on Christian doctrine of a consistent belief in Jesus Christ; "The Messages of Israel's Law Givers," a new volume in their series of The Messages of the Bible, by Professor Charles Foster Kent, whose basis is the scientific codification and interpretative paraphrase of the laws found in the Old Testament; also, a new volume in their Historical Series for Bible Students, on the "History of the Babylonians and Assyrians," by Professor George S. Goodspeed, of the University of Chicago. In the department of Literature they announce a volume of unusual interest in "Shakespeare and Voltaire," by Professor T. R. Lounsbury, of Yale, which is devoted entirely to the part played by Voltaire in Shakespearian controversy, and follows the author's "Shakespeare as a Dramatic Artist." To the series of Periods of European Literature, edited by Professor George Saintsbury, they will add a volume entitled "The Mid-Eighteenth Century," by J. H. Millar. They will publish during the fall "John Gayther's Garden and the Stories Told Therein," a posthumous volume of stories by the late Frank R. Stockton; also a new and cheap edition of the historical novels of Bulwer Lytton in six volumes, including "Rienzi," one volume; "The Last Days of Pompeii," one volume; "The Last of the Barons," two volumes; and "Harold, the last of the Saxon Kings," two volumes. Among their books for young people we note a volume of new verse by James Whitcomb Riley with the felicitous title of "The Book of Joyous Children;" "A Captured Santa Claus," by Thomas Nelson Page, with colored illustrations; "In the Wasp's Nest," a story of the war of 1812, by Cyrus Townsend Brady, dealing with stirring times aboard two American warships successively bearing the name of Wasp; "King Mombo," a story of the great African forest by Paul Du Chaillu; "What a Girl Can Make and Do, New Ideas for Work and Play," by Lina and Adelia B. Beard, a book that cannot fail to please as well as instruct those for whom it is written; "Sea Fighters, from Drake to Farragut," by Jessie Peabody Frothingham; "Bob and His Gun," by William Alexander Linn, whose aim is to teach boys the difference between mere shooting and true sportsmanship; and three new Henty books, "The Treasure of the Incas," "With Kitchener in the Soudan," and "With the British Legion."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. Whitaker's Reference Catalogue.

We are now prepared to supply the "Reference Catalogue of Current English Literature," better known, perhaps, as "Whitaker's Reference List."

The work is arranged on the plan of "The Publishers' Trade List Annual," and contains recent lists of 179 of the more important English publishers. An index is prefixed to the lists containing 35,000 references to the books catalogued. It thus forms one of the most complete records of current English books accessible to the bookseller and librarian.

The work is in two volumes of about 5,000 pages, strongly bound in half leather. The price has been fixed at $5.00 net.

As the copies received for the American market are limited, we need hardly remind intending subscribers of the wisdom of placing your order without delay.

A Daughter of the Snows

A strong and extremely dramatic story. Its plot is unique, its characters boldly drawn, and the love interest intense. The first full length novel from a writer whose tales "The Son of the Wolf," and "The God of His Fathers," etc., have won him much popularity as well as recognition from the first critics. The book is beautifully illustrated in colors from drawings by F. C. Yohn, and is handsomely bound.

Woven with the Ship

Mr. Brady's thousands of readers will derive fresh pleasure from this his new book. It has an intensely interesting plot and something happens on every page. In addition to the novel, which is the most sympathetic love story he has yet written, there are a number of tales in his best manner. The book has stunning drawings by Christy, Leyendecker, Glackens, Parkhurst, and Crawford, and has a striking design in colors.

MISS RIVES' TRIUMPH
HEARTS COURAGEOUS
A LOVE STORY OF THE SIGNING of the DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

The Chicago Tribune thinks:
"From the first page to the last there is not a dull moment in the book. Those readers who like in their stories a whirlwind of passion and a swiftly moving plot, will be well pleased with 'Hearts Courageous.'"

The New York Times thinks:
"The power to bring down among us living, breathing men of the past, while preserving their vital relations to their own time—is far rarer than those other gifts of imagination of which Miss Rives has no lack. Louis Armand and Anne Tilloson cannot fail to reach and hold the hearts of the public; a public that will follow their perilous adventures with undagging interest."

The Loom of Life

By CHARLES FREDERIC GOSS

AUTHOR OF

"The Redemption of David Corson," Etc.

CHARLES FREDERIC GOSS.

In "The Loom of Life" Dr. Goss has written a powerful book, filled with the poetry and tragedy of life. It tells a novel and impressive story in a style marked by a charming felicity of expression.

The story, which has an epic broadness and strength, is of a young girl, taught to believe in the old Greek myths, who revenges a wrong done to her with life-long persecution. Finally, however, she comes to believe that retribution for wrong-doing belongs to God, and is forced to realize that on earth peace and happiness can be obtained only by forgiving one another's sins. The book shows the same love and sympathy for the many moods of nature which characterizes "The Redemption of David Corson." 12mo, $1.50.

The Long Straight Road

By GEORGE HORTON

Author of "Like Another Helen"

GEORGE HORTON.

In "The Long Straight Road" Mr. Horton has told a story of the lights and shades of life in a great American city, with relentless accuracy, and with an understanding of the motives, ambitions and impulses of typical men and women which stamps the book indelibly with the impress of truth. As a vivid transcript from life, the book makes a strong appeal both to the critic and to "the man in the street." 12mo, $1.50.

THE SPENDERS

20th THOUSAND

By HARRY LEON WILSON. Six Illustrations by O'NEILL LATHAM.

Price, $1.50

A clear, strong, quick-moving novel. A genuine American story of a family that comes out of the West, with all the West's breeziness, independence, humor, and sturdy democracy,—the cardinal native traits. A really great piece of contemporaneous fiction.

DOROTHY SOUTH

32d THOUSAND

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON, Author of "A CAROLINA CAVALIER." Six Illustrations by C. D. WILLIAMS. Price, $1.50.

BOOK NEWS FOR MAY says:

"In 'Dorothy South' Mr. Eggleston has created a simple and beautiful romance, full of nobility and of all the finer emotions, with just a slight scattering of sage but smiling philosophy, intercepted by touches here and there of sparkling wit. No such woman character as Dorothy has appeared in fiction for many a long day."

EAGLE BLOOD

By JAMES CREELMAN, Author of "ON THE GREAT HIGHWAY." Illustrated by ROSE CECIL O'NEILL. Price, $1.50.

This is Mr. Creelman's great novel, although as a brilliant writer he is well known throughout the world. His story introduces an Englishman of noble family, who comes to America for the purpose of making his way, not by a marriage for money, but by commercial opportunities. The work is one of great psychological intensity, full of action, tender in its love motif, and world-interesting in its popular discussion of commercialism.

RICHARD GORDON

By ALEXANDER BLACK. Six Illustrations by ERNEST FUHR.

Price, $1.50

This is one of the strongest novels of the day. The scenes are laid in upper New York society, with a dash into Bohemia that is refreshing and vivid. The hero is manly and virile. The heroine is charming, lovable, thoroughly womanly, and essentially feminine. It sparkles with delicious humor and fetching repartee.

THE MILLIONAIRESS

By JULIAN RALPH. Six Illustrations by C. F. UNDERWOOD.

Price, $1.50

A striking story of New York social life among carriage people. It has a charming heroine, who occupies the centre of the stage in some brilliant scenes. It shows that a woman of fashion and an heiress can keep unspoiled her sweetness and sincerity of nature.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE OFFICE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has just ready the Index volume of "The Publishers' Trade List Annual" for 1902. It is an octavo volume of 1114 double column pages and contains 140,000 references to the catalogues of 247 publishers represented in the main volume.

Dodd, MEAD & Co. have just ready "Temporal Power," a study in supremacy, albeit not that of the Pope, by Marie Corelli; "The Blood-Tax," a military romance of the present day, with the scene laid in Germany, by Dorothea Gerard; "Tom Tad," tracing Tom's development as a boy and man in the Middle West, including a dramatic incident of the Ohio River flood of '84, by William Henry Venable; "The Defendant," wherein the author, G. K. Chesterton, has a good word to say for latter-day evils, such as penny dreadfuls, publicity, slang, baby-worship, etc.; and "The Founder of Mormonism," a psychological study of Joseph Smith, Junior, his elusive mental conditions and extraordinary life, by I. Woodbridge Riley.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY will publish on the 15th inst. "The Long Straight Road," a story of the lights and shades of life in a great American city, by George Horton, author of "Like Another Helen." They will publish on the 20th inst. "The Loom of Life," a new novel, by Charles Frederic Goss, author of "The Redemption of David Corson," etc. The story is of a young girl, taught to believe in the old Greek myths, who revenges a wrong done to her with life-long persecution. Finally, however, she comes to believe that retribution for wrongdoing belongs to God, and is forced to realize that on earth peace and happiness can be obtained only by forgiving one another's sins. The book shows the same love and sympathy for the many moods of nature which characterizes "The Redemption of David Corson."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 20th inst. a revised and illustrated edition of Alice M. Bacon's "Japanese Girls and Women," with such additions to each chapter as the conditions of this rapidly-changing country have made necessary; "The Right Princess," a story founded on Christian Science, by Clara Louise Burnham; "A Down-renter's Son," by Ruth Hall, the story of an attempt made in New York City sixty years ago to abolish reunts; "The Flag on the Hill-top," a story, for boys, of a Southern boy who is placed under the care of a Northern uncle during the Civil War; "Eternalism, a theory of infinite justice," a stimulating argument for the pre-existence of the soul, by Orlando J. Smith; also, "Nathaniel Hawthorne," by Professor George E. Woodberry, a new volume in the American Men of Letters series.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day Henry Norman's important work on "All the Russias," with over 100 illustrations; "King Mombo," by Paul du Chaillu, a graphic story for young readers of the author's personal adventures in the romantic region of Equatorial Africa, with illustrations by Victor Perard; "Jeb Hutton," a story for young people of the adventures of a Georgia boy, by James B. Connolly, with illustrations by M. J. Burns; "Shakespeare and Voltaire," by Professor T. R. Lounsbury, who treats of the part played by Voltaire in Shakespearean controversy; "The Incarnation of the Lord," by the Rev. Charles A. Briggs; also, "Human Nature and the Social Order," by Charles Horton Cooley, all of which were fully described by us last week. They have postponed the publication of Richard Harding Davis's new book, "Captain Macklin," until September 20.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Beginning with the issue of July 5, 1902, the titles of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The titles of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. Net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

The results of a woman's desire for fame are pictured in this story. Both Edith Glanville and her husband were entirely happy until she became inspired with literary ambition, and wrote a successful book. The argument of the story is, not that a woman should have no interests outside her home, but that she should not pursue a career at the expense of family life. The scene is in London.

A novel of modern life in London, containing much psychological analysis. Alice Durand was the daughter of a woman who had met a tragic and shameful death. The daughter, thrown upon her own resources, becomes the secretary of Anthony Versechoyle, a literary man, who later marries her in order that he may watch the effect of marriage upon her inherited temperament. The interest of the story lies in the development of these two natures worked upon by love and jealousy, and their subsequent happiness.

These volumes represent a series of lectures prepared to give, in a simple and condensed form, the development of architectural styles in France, and a history of her great monuments. The subject of French architecture naturally divides itself into two parts: one devoted to the Gothic, and the other to the Renaissance style. Under the first are grouped the great cathedrals, and under the second the palaces and chateaux of France. The later history which associated itself with the great monuments of France is given, and also some account of the peoples whose early migrations founded and moulded the nations. The volumes are profusely illustrated with full-page pictures.

Investigates the elusive mental conditions of a strangely complex character. From materials gathered at Salt Lake City and elsewhere during eight years, there is now presented both Smith's checkered career and his pedigree for five generations. Here certain suppressed sources disclose the transmission of erratic tendencies, while his environment and bodily conditions account for the young prophet's visions. The Book of Mormon, as a "Record of the American Indians," is traced to the boy's imaginative gifts and his life on the Western Frontier.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 13, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

"AN AMERICAN RAID ON ENGLISH RARE BOOKS."

THERE is much unreasonable talk, it seems to us, in the English press over the so-called "American raid on English rare books." Anent the recent acquisition by John Pierpont Morgan, of the library partly formed by Morris, a writer in the London Times querulously cries out, "Can nothing be done to stem the continuous and wholesale exportations of rare, early printed and other books and illuminated manuscripts to the United States?" "The drain," he continues, "has been going on for over half a century; within recent years it has reached huge proportions; and now we have the mournful privilege of chronicling the most important single transaction which has occurred, or, perhaps, is likely to occur in connection with this subject." Other writers, in other English journals, rant in much the same fretful spirit, regarding it as a "national calamity" that Americans are beginning to buy more freely than hitherto what the Englishman has been buying for ages from other nations. In some cases it is ungenerously hinted that the vulgar American gains his advantage over his more modest and erudite European competitor by virtue of money, rather than brains, an assertion that is too preposterous to deserve categorical refutation.

The fact is, the European, particularly the Englishman, seems to have lost interest in a matter that is becoming daily of greater importance to the American—namely, the sources of literature as found in original texts and editions. Time was when the Englishman fought for these in the auction market against all comers. Time is when the American holds his own in the market against the whole world—being favored in all things as no nation in modern times has been known to be favored.

Nor is this a victory of a coarse and blatant plutocracy; it is due, rather, to the desire of an aristocracy of intellect and means combined to acquire their share of the literary treasures of the world for their edification and instruction, and for the profit of their fellow men—a fact to which the munificence of Lenox, Brown, Ticknor, Duyckinck, Astor, Ford, Tilden—but why extend the list—amply testify.

The rivalry between the American and his European competitor in most instances is antagonized rather than favored by the foreign bookseller. The victory must therefore be gained through quick and clear perception of the value of what is offered. In many cases literary treasures go begging among English collectors, sometimes for years, before the American collector is permitted to bid for them. Quaritch, to name but one instance, held the Thorold "Psalter" of 1459 for eighteen years before he sold it to Morgan. Dozens of similar instances might be cited.

We do not think that anything can be done to stem the exportation of rare books and manuscripts to the United States, unless a love for rare books is re-awakened in so-called English bibliophiles. We cannot believe that it is lack of money among the English collectors that permits this exportation, but rather apathy towards things that should evoke enthusiastic interest. When this is overcome there may be another story to tell. But even in that case all the American collector asks for is "a fair field and no favor."

THE RELATION OF THE BOOK-SELLER TO THE LIBRARIAN.*

BY CHARLES M. ROE.

IN looking over the announcement of this meeting I noticed that I was put down as a "bookdealer." As that term is not in common use among the members of the trade to which I have the honor of belonging, my curiosity prompted a trip to the dictionary, where I failed to find the word given. The words "deal" and "dealers," however, were there, and from the definitions I received the impression that they referred to transactions and transactors in very ordinary merchandise, and in matters much worse than orinary merchandising. I do not wish you to think of the man who sells books as one who fixes up deals or as the ordinary merchant who gives slight heed to the goods which pass through his hands, but rather as one who appreciates with fine discrimination the intrinsic values each volume possesses which he handles with such care and even affection. I desire, therefore, to enter a gentle protest and to ask that you substitute in your minds the word "seller" for "dealer," as it has a much more satisfactory meaning, being defined as one who disposes of his property to another for a valuable consideration. Now, do not misunderstand this as meaning that the bookseller is getting rich by his transactions. Far from it! It will require many years yet under the new net system to reimburse him for his losses of the past ten years. However, more of this later. But I do wish it understood that the property he disposes of is worth a valuable consideration. I maintain that bookselling is one of the most dignified of the trades, and as engaging in such a business the bookseller is entitled to respect and consideration from the book-reading world. But I wish to protest again at being catalogued even as a bookseller without an explanatory clause such as "some sentiment still left" or "books known by their contents as well as by their size, binding, type, etc." In other words, I wish to be known as a bookman rather than only as a bookdealer or bookseller. For as a bookman I am one of you; for surely there are no more enthusiastic bookmen and bookwomen than librarians and those interested in libraries. As such we meet on common ground and grow enthusiastic over topics of common interest, discussing as brothers and sisters our needs and requirements. On this common ground I meet you to-day as one whose interests are broader than a certain branch of trade. I remember with gratitude the influence of the smallest of small town libraries, administered by the editor of the little weekly sheet, who combined with his editorial duties many another vocation, but who took time with all his cares to direct a small boy to the helpful and entertaining books in the pitifully small collection which served as a public library twenty-five years ago. All honor and praise to those pioneer librarians. But what wonderful developments since! What a glorious present is evidenced by this magnificent historical library building, which is a constant delight to the eye, and which is only one of many erected in the United States in the last few years. What an inspiring outlook for the years to come! I fully concur with Mr. Melvil Dewey in his plea for a wider and heartier recognition of the equal necessity of the public library with the public school.

The world of letters, and I suppose librarians and booksellers may claim residence in at least the outskirts of that favored realm, is an interesting place in which to live, for various reasons, among which may be reckoned the various controversies which arise from time to time.

The spice of variety is with us in the tilts between critic and author, author and publisher, publisher and bookseller, and now between bookseller and librarian. As a bookseller for fifteen years and a friend and acquaintance of librarians for over twenty, I stand to-day as a mediator between the belligerents, clasping the hands of both parties and striving to bring them if possible to a better understanding. By these words I do not wish to be understood as admitting that there is a serious breach between these members of the book trade. Oh, no! It is only a small family jar, which, when the heat of the occasion has passed away, will be satisfactorily settled. The cause of the controversy, like that of many another, is a "haggling over prices," to use plain words. The pocketbook is more sensitive than any part of the actual anatomy.

Our great unselfish promoters of public welfare, the daily papers, understand this fully, and so constantly bid for public favor by pointing out periodically some commercial octopus which is plotting to despoil the nation. The "Book Trust" is one of the latest of these dread animals discovered by enterprising Chicago journalism, and, horrible to relate, it is one of the worst of its kind, for it has two heads. Under date of August 6 the Chicago Tribune presents six columns of sensational sentences under the heading "The Book Trade has Duplicate Trust." The reading of this article by one acquainted with the conditions which have existed in the publishing and bookselling business for the past twenty years, reveals an utter lack of the knowledge necessary to intelligently present the subject. The reporter who concocted it was, of course, a professional builder of sensational articles, and knew how to meet the wishes of the editor and the desires of his readers. While he raved and ranted about the public having to pay more for its books he gave no inkling of how much more nor why it was necessary to come to some agreement about prices. A full and fair discussion of the subject would not have served the ends of this champion of the people's pocketbook. It may be noted in passing that publishers and booksellers are wondering why the Tribune should present only one side of the subject in a way that is apt to do harm to the book trade generally, when its advertising columns are patronized so generously by bookmakers and sellers of books. It may also be asked why it chooses to call the American Publishers' Association and the American Booksellers' Association a "trust," when it is a well-known fact that these associations are not combinations for monopoly, but formed solely for conserving legitimate profits in a business which has been well-nigh ruined by indiscriminate price cutting. The generally accepted definition of a trust is "a combination in restraint of trade." No such purpose has been in the minds of either publisher or bookseller. On the contrary, this form of combination or co-operation is beneficent, inasmuch as it seeks to create and foster bookstores everywhere. It does not purpose to crush out new organizations in its line of business, but only seeks to rectify palpably unfair and unreasonable business methods. Every one must admit that this is altogether different from what is commonly known as a "trust" or monopoly which is organized for the express purpose of crushing all competitors and securing all the business in its line for itself. On the contrary, the booksellers' and publishers' associations exist not for their own corporate aggrandizement, but in order that each individual member, be he never so small, may have an equal chance to secure a reasonable profit. This is a true community of interest, and should be welcomed and encouraged by every fair-minded person. The fact that it is a double combination, as the Tribune says, is wholly in its favor, for one body will act as a check upon the other, should either evince a desire to dip into the public pocketbook for more than a suitable profit. If the Tribune had discussed the subject fairly something like the following would have appeared: "A time-honored trade profession more carefully organized." The public will have to pay somewhat more for its books, but can well afford to do so in consideration of the valuable public service rendered by bookstores and booksellers as well as by book publishers in printing and selling annually thousands of informing and entertaining books. For many years this service has been rendered by the bookseller without sufficient remuneration. Three reasons contributed to this state of affairs:

First: The unfortunate custom of giving discounts to certain classes was gradually extended until it included the entire bookbuying public, and increased from 10 per cent. to 25 per cent., and even 30 per cent., leaving the bookseller scarce enough to pay expenses.

Second: The department store seized upon the popular books for advertising purposes, selling them for a few cents above cost, and often for cost or less, giving the public the impression that the regular bookseller was charging exorbitant prices and making enormous profits, and so alienating the public from him.

Third: Libraries were securing their books at about cost, in some instances at cost, the bookseller losing his expenses.

To save the trade from complete disintegration from these causes the publishers have joined hands with the booksellers in a double organization for the proper protection of their combined interests, in order that the business of selling books may be placed on a profitable basis. This does not mean that books will be published at exorbitant prices, nor that the public will pay much above 10 per cent. more for its books. Books which under the old system sold for $1.12 and $1.18 will now cost $1.20 or $1.25. The bookbuying public, which for the most part is either engaged in varying commercial enterprises that return a good profit or receiving good fees for professional services, will be glad, we are sure, to pay this small extra amount for its literary entertainment with the knowledge that the extra 10 per cent. or so makes it possible for the man who pursues a trade which is acknowledged to be a difficult one to secure a fair profit and have the satisfaction of making something more than a mere living.

Such a statement as this would have caused much more of a sensation than the attack on the book trade to which we have referred, and would have reflected much more credit on the management of a paper to whose prosperity both publishers and booksellers have contributed so generously.

We have gone somewhat afield, however, and must return to a discussion of the effect on librarians and libraries of the new system of net prices. Every one present may not be fully acquainted with the history of this controversy. In a nutshell the situation is this: Until May, 1901, librarians were accustomed to buy books for their libraries, themselves and their friends at one-third off publishers' prices, and very often at even better rates. On the date above named the rule of the American Publishers' Association that booksellers should allow librarians only 10 per cent. from the prices of all new net books went into effect. As soon as librarians saw that under this rule they would pay more for books protests began to be made from all parts of the country. The publishers were urged to increase the discount to 25 per cent. The booksellers protested at this, as it would make the library trade as unprofitable as it was before. To date the Publishers' Association has taken no action in the matter.

In presenting the booksellers' side first, I have not forgotten the librarian's way of looking at the question, and do not blame him for being somewhat disturbed and anxious and inclined to resent the new order of things which cuts down the number of books possible for him to purchase with a given sum of money. He is very naturally thinking of his own beloved library with still some empty shelves and wall space which he longs to see filled, and an ever increasing number of readers whose demands for certain classes of books he cannot meet. He is rightly jealous of the interests of his library, and puts forth every effort to make his appropriation, all too small as it is, buy as many books as it possibly can. I honor him in his fine enthusiasm and in his faithful discharge of a public duty; but I am here to-day to remind him that there are other citizens whose interests should be considered as well as those of his dear library patrons—citizens who have just as much right to the happiness which comes through the securing a reasonable profit as the architect or the contractor of the library building and even the librarian himself with his salary. [I'm sure the librarian would wish to be counted among those who would be glad to know that the bookseller was making a reasonable profit instead of conducting a losing and disheartening business, and knowing the facts as we have presented them he would be the last to continue to petition the publishers to supply him with books at a discount which would allow no profit whatever to the worthy fellow citizen and fellow-bookman who is risking his capital in, and giving his time to, a business which is not greatly profitable at the best, and which, like the library itself, is of a distinct public benefit.] It may very properly be asked why the most necessary part of the entire library outfit should be supplied at no profit to the seller. The architect and contractor of the library building make a profit, and rightly, too. The Library Bureau, or some other supply house, makes a profit on the fittings supplied, and the librarian receives a reasonable salary as he should. Then why not include the bookseller among those who are getting a reasonable profit for the expenditure of public funds. The new system of net prices will make it possible for him to make a small profit—not by any means what it should be, but vastly better than none at all, as formerly; but it would not be possible to increase the 10 per cent. discount to 25 per cent., as the librarians petition, and make anything above bare expenses, if that.

I well remember a conversation of several years ago with a gentleman whom many of you know and esteem highly. He had been a librarian, and had purchased books for an entire state system of libraries. At that time he possessed the idea that much money was made in selling books to libraries. Unfortunately for him this impression led him to embark in the business of retailing books and supplying libraries. My conversation was after his failure in this business. He was telling me his surprise, on receiving his bills from the publisher and deducting their amount from the price he was compelled to allow libraries, at the ridiculously small margin left to pay rent, insurance, losses on dead stock, interest on capital invested, light, clerk hire, incidental expenses, and last but not least, his own profit. He is now engaged in farming, which he finds a much more remunerative employment and much less harrowing to the nerves.

During the past year, even with the help of the net price system, one of the largest houses supplying libraries with books, I am told on good authority, declared a dividend of only 2 per cent. By this it would hardly appear that the public pocketbook had been mulcted very badly. And in startling contrast to this poor showing we again call attention to that watchdog of the people's pocketbook, the Chicago Tribune, which has been charging $20 per inch for advertising space in the number celebrating the completion of its magnificent new building. The Tribune may say their space is well worth this price to the advertiser, and there is a bare possibility of its being so; but the immense profits that paper has always made would indicate that it was taxing the public pretty heavily. Consistency is a word evidently unknown to its management. Instead of being a true watchdog it would appear to be more of a dog in the manger. Declaring, as it does, each year enormous dividends on its capital stock it could well afford to be generous, and lend its influence for the building up of a business somewhat allied to its own rather than misrepresenting it as a "double-headed monster" stealthily plotting to rob the public purse. I have made the foregoing statements in regard to the unprofitableness of the library business advisedly and with deliberation, not for commercial effect, but from honest conviction and from facts gained by long experience in bookselling, and they would not be changed in any particular if given under oath.

'Tis well said that excessive devotion to the material is the evil of our epoch, and some may be inclined to think that the plea which I have just made for a larger profit for the bookseller is in keeping with the spirit of the times. No one, however, who is acquainted with the history of bookselling for the past decade will think of accusing me of mercenary motives. It is well known that clever merchandisers have been wont to sneer at the sentiment of the bookseller who through sheer love of books has been irresistibly tied to a business which only just pays expenses and allows him a mere pittance upon which to live. I do not, however, ask for a reasonable profit for the profit alone, but largely on account of the principle involved. I believe that it is morally wrong to sell goods without profit. The influence on men in such a business is serious, and no one with the common weal at heart would wish to profit by the disheartenment of another in this way. I wish to know that the various tradesmen with whom I deal are making a reasonable profit on what I buy of them, and it would disturb me seriously to learn that they were losing money or only making expenses on merchandise sold me. The old and bad method of heartless competition must give way to the new and better method of proper combination and co-operation.

I do not agree with Mr. Melvil Dewey in his contention that as the public school has supplanted the private school, so the public library will supplant the circulating library and the small bookstore as well. In the first place, the public school has not supplanted the private school. Changing conditions made it appear to do so; but in the end there was room for both, and to-day the private school thrives as well as ever. So with libraries. The great increase of wealth and of general knowledge assures a steadily increasing body of readers who will make it possible and profitable for the private circulating library and the bookseller to exist along with the greatest possible number of public libraries. No one need be pessimistic. Changes will happen continually, that will jostle us somewhat but not overthrow us. A little readjustment is necessary—a seeking of new methods of cultivating our own special field rather than a loss of temper or a resort to frantic appeals and extreme statements.

The bookseller always has been and always should be the most logical and natural channel through which publishers distribute books to libraries. He has a training and facilities which make it advantageous to both publisher and librarian to have him act as intermediary. He is willing to spend time and money to look up books which he alone knows how to secure, and to advise about the best of the many editions and bindings, and to risk a goodly sum of money in carrying a large stock of books that publishers may be represented and that librarians may have opportunity for selection near at hand; but for all this he very naturally and justly wishes a fair compensation. This the old method would not give, and the new will give only in scant measure. In view of these facts, then, would it not be well for the librarian to desist from presenting further resolutions to the publishers asking for larger discounts and turn their attention rather to securing larger appropriations for the purchase of books? Of money there is a plenty, and there should be little difficulty in securing enough to give an ample stock of books to every library in the land, unless, indeed, public benefactors are more anxious to be represented by beautiful and striking library buildings which stand all day in the eyes of the people rather than by the more obscure, but in the end more powerful witnesses to their generosity which stand silent on the shelves within. I have faith enough in the good nature and the common sense of librarians and booksellers generally to look forward to the day when both will be working harmoniously, each for the good of the other and for the benefit of the greatest book-reading and bookbuying public the world has ever known—the American people, which they have the extreme good fortune and exalted privilege of serving.

OBITUARY NOTES.

SIR FREDERICK AUGUSTUS ABEL, a well-known chemist and writer on scientific subjects, died September 8, in London; where he was born in 1826. His published works are: "The Modern History of Gunpowder," "Gun Cotton," "On Explosive Agents," "Researches in Explosives," and "Electricity Applied to Explosive Purposes." He was joint author, with Colonel Bloxam, of a "Hand-book of Chemistry."

FRANK TOUSEY, the publisher, of No. 24 Union Square, East, New York, died at his apartments in the Van Corlear, No. 201 West Fifty-fifth Street. He had been ill from pleurisy for about three weeks. Mr. Tousey, who was a nephew of the late Sinclair Tousey, president of the American News Company, was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 24, 1853. He started in business when he was nineteen with the late Norman L. Munro. He left Munro after about ten years, and began a publishing business of his own, with which his brother Sinclair later became associated. He had a varied experience. He founded Judge, and was a publisher of many children's periodicals and books. Of late years his company published many popular songs.

PHILIP JAMES BAILEY, chiefly known to fame as the author of "Festus," died at Nottingham, Eng., September 6. He was the son of Thomas Bailey, author of "Annals of Notts," and was born at Nottingham in 1816. He studied at the University of Glasgow, and in 1833 began the study of law, being admitted to the bar in 1840. "Festus" was planned in 1836, and published in 1839. It passed through eleven editions in England and upward of thirty in America. Since the original work was published there have been incorporated with it "The Angel World" (1850), "The Mystic" (1855) and "The Universal Hymn" (1867). He also wrote "The Age," a satire, which was published in 1858, and a prose work on the international policy of the great powers.

WILLIAM ALLEN BUTLER, known to the present generation as the greatest living authority on maritime law and to former generations as the author of "Nothing to Wear," and other poems, died suddenly at his home, Round Oak, Yonkers, N. Y., September 9. He was born in Albany, N. Y., February 20, 1825, and was graduated from the University of New York in 1843. In November, 1857, "Nothing to Wear" appeared anonymously in Harper's Monthly Magazine. An impostor claimed it for his work, and Mr. Butler in self-defense revealed himself as its author. It was published in book form by G. W. Carleton and had a wide sale here and in England. He also wrote "The Colonel's Club," "Cities of Art and Early Artists," "The Future," "Barnum's Parnassus," "General Average," "Two Millions," "The Bible by Itself," "Mrs. Limber's Raffle," "Domesticus," "Out of the Way Places in Europe," and a history of the revision of the statutes of New York, with biographical sketches of the revisers.

PROFESSOR RUDOLF VIRCHOW, the world-renowned pathologist, died in Berlin, September 5. Professor Virchow was born at Schivelbein, in Pomerania, Prussia, October 13, 1821. He obtained his degree as doctor in Berlin. From 1849 to 1856 he held a professorship in the Pathological Academy at Würzburg. In 1856 he returned to Berlin, where he continued to live until the end. Fully half a century ago Professor Virchow started scientific medicine on new courses by his investigations and discoveries in cellular pathology, and the researches and teachings in his laboratory were kept up until two months ago, when he was disabled by an accident that was the indirect cause of his death. Though indefatigable in his scientific and university labors, he devoted forty years of his life to parliamentary labors as a member of the Berlin Municipal Council, and representative in the Prussian Landtag and in the German Reichsrath. In 1852 Virchow founded his "Archives for Pathological Anatomy and Physiology and for Clinical Medicine," and after hesitating five years published in the fourth volume his introduction to or preparation for his "Cellular Pathology," the work which was to make him famous for all time. Three years later in the eighth volume he presented a further contribution to this subject, and the completed work was published in 1858. He wrote a "Handbook of Special Pathology and Therapeutics," instituted "Annual Reports of Advances in Medicine Throughout the World," wrote three volumes on "Morbid Tumors," and published among other things "Collection of Contributions to Scientific Medicine," "The Movement in Favor of Unity in Scientific Medicine," "The Physical and Chemical Properties," "The Metamorphosis," "Origin and the Coagulation of Fibrine," "White Blood Corpuscles," "Inflammation of Blood Vessels," "Contributions to the Pathology of the Skull and Brain," "Granular Appearance of the Walls of Cerebral Ventricles," "Cretinism," "Development of Cretinism," "Cranial Deformities," and "New Formation of Gray Cerebral Substance." Besides these he wrote a number of works on archæological and other subjects.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS. THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE membership of the American Publishers' Association is growing steadily. Recently The Jamieson-Higgins Co., of Chicago; Clinton S. Zimmerman, The Baker & Taylor Co., John Wiley & Sons, D. Van Nostrand Co. and Thomas Whittaker, all of New York; also, W. A. Wilde Co. and Herbert B. Turner & Co., of Boston, were admitted. A number of other applications are on file, among the number one from Laird & Lee, of Chicago, and several from Bible publishing houses. Presently it will be unpopular for a publisher to remain outside of the Association—if not unhealthy.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE Booksellers' League will resume its monthly dinners at the rooms of the Aldine Association, New York City, on the evening of October 8. It has not seemed desirable to begin this month, because the vacation terms of quite a number of the members extend into the second and third weeks of September.

The committee has promises of addresses from Francis H. Nichols, author of "Through Hidden Shensi," who will speak on "Shensi, the Hidden Province of China." Robert Pitcher Woodward, author of "On a Donkey's Hurricane Deck," will tell of the experiences gathered on a "Four Thousand Mile Donkey Trip."

The beginning of the fall season would seem a favorable one for intending candidates to apply for membership. As we have often pointed out, the League is doing splendid work, and gives in material and intellectual entertainment full measure for every dollar received in dues.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

AFTER his retirement Mr. Andrew D. White will settle in Ithaca, N. Y. He is now at work on a book of reminiscences, describing his experiences as Minister at Berlin in 1879-81, as Minister at St. Petersburg in 1892-94, and as Ambassador to Germany from 1897 to his retirement in November next. He is also at work on a volume describing the new Germany of the last decade.

HOWARD PYLE is just finishing work on a book, "The Story of King Arthur," which is a companion volume to the author's popular "Robin Hood." It will appear first as a serial in St. Nicholas magazine very fully illustrated by the artist-author. It is said to be no mere recounting of old stories, but an entirely new series of picturesque, romantic tales woven about the old legend of King Arthur.

M. LÉON DAUDET emphatically denies that M. Hugues Le Roux wrote, or even collaborated with his father in the writing of "La Belle Nivernaise." He says that when M. Le Roux first made his claim it brought down upon him "a stern rebuke from my father," whereupon M. Le Roux apologized and promised to be good. M. Le Roux has doubtless told the story so often that he has actually come to believe it.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CHARLES R. STENGER, formerly with the Emery Bird Thayer Co., is now in charge of the book department of the Simpson Crawford Co.

JOHN LANE has secured the American rights to Zola's forthcoming novel, "Truth," translated by Ernest Vizetelly. It will not be published, however, until after Christmas.

THE WRIGHT PUBLISHING CO., Akron, O., have brought out a Beautiful Gem Series, consisting of biographical and historical cards, each bearing a portrait or picture of the subject, a facsimile autograph, if of a person, and a biographical or historical sketch.

THE INDUSTRIAL PUBLICATION COMPANY, New York City, publish "The Shakespeare Cyclopædia and New Glossary," by John Phinn, intended as a supplement to all the ordinary editions of Shakespeare's works. Edward Dowden furnishes the introduction.

WILLIAM S. LORD, Evanston, Ill., has in press "The Romance of an Old Fool," by Roswell Field, which will continue to the many who have a liking for the work of the genial satirist the happy impression made by his grave drolleries in "The Passing of Mother's Portrait."

THE BLUE SKY PRESS, 4732 Kenwood Avenue, Chicago, announce a special edition of Robert Browning's "In a Balcony," with an introduction by Laura McAdoo Triggs, and a title-page, headings and other designs by W. A. Dwiggins and F. W. Goudy. There will be 400 copies on Van Gelder paper and 15 copies on imperial Japan paper.

A. WESSSELS COMPANY will publish shortly in the "Story of" Series "The Story of Fish Life," by W. P. Pycraft, and "The Story of Euclid," by W. B. Frankland; also, a life of "Captain John Brown," by John Newton, who describes the stirring scenes of 1855 and 1859, in which the hero of Harper's Ferry so prominently figures in his contest against the pro-slavery party.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just brought a new book by J. Brierly, entitled "Ourselves and the Universe," studies in life and religion. It may not be generally known that Mr. Brierly is a retired clergyman who frequently contributes to the London Christian World over the initials "J. B." Mr. Whittaker has also just published a volume by Dr. John Marshall Lang, entitled "The Church and its Social Mission."

GODFREY A. S. WIENERS, who has succeeded to the publishing business of William Doxey, has in preparation "The Wisdom of a Kempis," "The Wisdom of Schopenhauer," Rossetti's "The House of Life," Lang's "Ballads in Blue China," and a limited edition of the "Rubāiyāt," with decorative borders, by Louis B. Coler. The first three books mentioned above contain introductions by Howard V. Sutherland.

J. C. L. CLARK, Lancaster, Mass., has just published a neatly-printed monograph by Mrs. Annie M. L. Clark, entitled "The Alcotts in Harvard." Mrs. Clark gives an interesting account of A. Bronson Alcott's vegetarian community at Harvard, and reminiscences of Louise Alcott and her sisters during the residence of the family at Still River after the collapse of the community. The book contains seven views and four reproductions.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish next week a treatise upon the "Law of Copyright," by E. J. MacGillivray. This work is upon the law of copyright in Great Britain and in the British Possessions and in the United States. It contains a full appendix of all acts of parliament, international conventions, orders in council, treasury minutes and acts of congress in full. They will also bring out with the above "The Roadmender," by Michael Fairless, author of "The Gathering of Brother Hilarious."

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have ready this week a romance of the Northwest, entitled "Two Wilderness Voyagers," a true story of Indian life, by Franklin Welles Calkins. In this book Mr. Calkins writes from his own rich experiences, than which there are none more thrilling, and adding the rare gift of the art of the telling, has produced a realistic, thrilling tale of Indian life. He graphically depicts the exciting adventures of escape and wandering, the drama of the great wilderness.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. publish to-day "On Fortune's Road," a collection of realistic stories of Chicago business life, by Will Payne, with a number of illustrations; "A Captive of the Roman Eagles," a historical novel by Felix Dahn, dealing with the conflicts between Germany and Rome, translated by Mary J. Safford; also, two new books on music by George P. Upton—"Musical Pastels," essays on quaint and curious musical subjects, and "The Standard Light Operas, their plots and their music."

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY will publish on September 20 "Love and the Soul Hunters," by John Oliver Hobbes (Mrs. Craigie), which this artistic author considers the effort of her life; and "The Needle's Eye," by Mrs. Florence Morse Kingsley, a story of modern American life with scenes alternating between vine covered cottages, humble farm-houses, city palaces and the poorest tenements of the slums. The author is always dramatic and humorous, and it is said the latest story will make people laugh, cry and think.

THE Ellwanger family will be represented in Doubleday, Page & Co.'s list this fall by books from George H. and W. D. Ellwanger, both well known in the literary world. George H. Ellwanger's book will be entitled "The Pleasures of the Table," and will deal with the subject chiefly in a historical way. W. D. Ellwanger's volume will be entitled "A Summer Snowflake and Other Poems," which will have illustrations by Wenzell and others. A third brother, H. B. Ellwanger, was the author of an authoritative treatise on the rose.

HENRY HOLT & Co. are about to bring out a new edition of one of their nine volumes devoted to Goethe, being "Egmont," with introduction, notes and bibliography by Professor Robert Waller Deering, of the Western Reserve University, whose editing of "Wilhelm Tell" won such general and hearty approval. They will also issue selected narratives from Wiedemann's "Biblische Geschichten," which most happily combine simplicity with impressiveness. The book will be edited by Professor Lewis A. Rhoades, of the University of Illinois.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY, of Boston, have just brought out Julian Ralph's brilliant novel of fashionable New York life, entitled "The Millionaire." Mr. Ralph's wide experience with men and things, joined with his picturesque style and skill in narrative has gone to make this one of the notable novels of the early fall. The story gives vivid pictures both of country house and city life, and moves briskly along to a satisfactory end. Mr. Ralph has found a novel motive in depicting a young heiress surrounded by frivolity and fashion, and yet preserving her generous-hearted young womanhood for higher purposes of life.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS, to meet the very strong demand for a less expensive edition, have just brought out Edith Wharton's successful story, "The Valley of Decision," in one volume; "Aspects of Fiction and Other Ventures in Criticism," by Brander Matthews; a new edition of "Bob," by Sidney Lanier, with many illustrations in full color, by A. R. Dugmore; "Bob and His Gun," by William Alexander Linn; "The Mid-Eighteenth Century," by J. H. Miller; the concluding volumes of the pocket edition of George Meredith's novels; also, "The Historical Novels of Bulwer Lytton," in six volumes, all fully described by us last week.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish shortly "The King's Agent," a romance of the days of King William and Queen Mary, by Arthur Patterson. They have in preparation a new novel by J. A. Stewart, entitled "A Son of Gad." The nature of this story is indicated by the passage from the Bible—"a troop shall overcome him, but he shall overcome at last." The characters are British and American, and the development of the story illustrates the process of Americanizing England and Anglicizing America. They will add in the fall to their Artistic Crafts Series "Cabinet-making and Designing," by C. Spooner, and "Silverwork and Jewelry," by H. Wilson, both elaborately illustrated.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "Fame for a Woman, or, Splendid Mourning," the tale of a misguided young wife who leaves domestic happiness because she is persuaded by Cranston Metcalfe that she can "write;" "As Seen from the Ranks, a boy in the Civil War," by Charles E. Benton of the One Hundred and Fiftieth New York State Volunteers; "Italian Life in Town and Country," by Luigi Villari, son of Prof. Villari of Florence; "Industrial Conciliation," the report of the proceedings of the conference held under the auspices of the National Civic Federation, at the rooms of the Board of Trade and Transportation in New York, Dec. 16 and 17, 1901, in The Questions of the Day Series; also, "Typhoon," a story of marine life, by Joseph Conrad.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have just ready Dr. Theodore L. Cuyler's autobiography, entitled "Recollections of a Long Life," which is full of material of general interest, owing to the author's intimate acquaintance with many of the noted men of America and Europe. They will publish early in the fall "Reciprocity," by Professor J. Laurence Laughlin, head of the Department of Economics in Chicago University, and Professor H. Parker Willis, of Washington and Lee University; a "Life of Ulrich Zwingli," the Swiss patriot and reformer, by Samuel Simpson; "Help and Good Cheer," a gift book, by Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, D.D.; "Valid Objections to So-Called Christian Science," by Rev. Andrew F. Underhill; "The Rolfe Shakespeare," in limp leather; and "Over the Black Coffee," compiled by Arthur Gray.

ALBERT BRANDT, Trenton, N. J., announces for the autumn a work dealing with the philosophy of beauty in all forms. The work will be entitled "The Gate Beautiful," being principles and methods in vital art education, and will contain hundreds of charts and reproductions of famous pictures, besides two elaborate color charts. It represents the ripe fruition of a lifetime of trained study, travel and observation by the author, Professor John Ward Stimson, who was long director of art education at the Metropolitan Museum and of the Artist-Artisan Institute, of New York. The work will appear in two editions, one on thick paper, bound in cloth, the other will be printed on thinner paper and bound in paper covers, the purpose being to put it within the possible reach of the many thousands employed in the textile, tile, pottery, jewelry, smithing, and other creative American industries.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation "The Struggle for a Continent," in which Professor Pelham Edgar, of Victoria College, University of Toronto, with the aid of connecting notes gives in Francis Parkman's own language a continuous account of the struggle for the possession of the American continent, beginning with the colonization of Florida by the Huguenots in 1562, and culminating in the fall of Quebec in 1759. The volume includes five hundred pages, with maps, portraits of historical personages, and other illustrations. They will publish during the fall "The Shadow of the Czar," a story of adventure by a new English writer, John R. Carling; "With a Saucepan over the Sea," 600 quaint and delicious recipes used in the kitchens of foreign countries, compiled by Adelaide Keen; also, "Prayers, Ancient and Modern," by Mary W. Tileston, the compiler of "Daily Strength for Daily Needs."

TONNELÉ & Co., 30 East Twenty-first Street, New York, will publish early in October a volume of book-plate essays and pictures, entitled "Book-Plates of To-day," edited by Wilbur Macey Stone. The nucleus of the book will be the matter contained in the first number of the quarterly Artistic Book-Plates, the right to use which has been acquired by Messrs. Tonnelé. To this has been added an essay, "The Architect as a Book-plate Designer," by Willis Steell, special reference being made to the work of Mr. Thomas Tryon, of New York. This will be illustrated with ten examples of Mr. Tryon's designs, some of which will be printed in colors. The book will contain seven color plates in all. Lastly, the book will include lists, practically complete to date, of the work of over twenty prominent designers of book-plates. Among them will be found the work of Edwin D. French, Henry Osipov, Edmund H. New, D. Y. Cameron and Robert Anning Bell.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just published a novel of life in Nebraska, by a new writer, Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins, entitled "Out of the West," which takes into account the conditions that gave rise to the Populist movement, and gives a faithful picture of the life of the small town, stranded on the edge of civilization, of which there were so many in the West some years ago, during that calamitous period. They have also just ready "Out-doorland," a book for children by Robert W. Chambers, the author of "Cardigan," with illustrations by Reginald Birch, seven of which are in color. They will publish shortly "The Reign of Queen Anne," by Justin McCarthy, an introductory volume to the author's histories of England, beginning with his "History of the Four Georges," etc.; "Winslow Plain," by Sarah P. McLean, a new story of New England life, by the author of "Cape Cod Folks," etc.; also, "In the Morning Glow," by Roy Rolfe Gilson, author of "When Love is Young," with illustrations by Alice Barber Stephens.

JAMIESON-HIGGINS Co., Chicago, announce a volume of up-to-date nursery rhymes entitled "Yankee Mother Goose," by Benjamin Cobb and Miss Ella Brison, with a number of colored illustrations; a new issue of "Kids of Many Colors," which was so successful last year; "'2002,' Child Life One Hundred Years from Now," by Laura Dayton Fessenden and R. J. Campbell, fully illustrated; "A Round Robin," a collection of stories and poems for children by well-known authors, edited by Laura Dayton Fessenden, with 16 half-tone engravings; "Old Mother Hubbard," by Harry Kennedy and Charles Jerome Costello; also, "Moon Children," a delightful book for children by Laura Dayton Fessenden and R. J. Campbell. This firm is making an offer of $500 for the most original title, subject and general idea for a child's book. To the person offering the second best they will award $250, and to each of the next five they will award $50, making $1000 in all. The contest will close December 31 and the decision of the judges will be announced January 15, 1903.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish shortly a volume of "Historical Essays and Reviews," by Dr. Mandell Creighton, sometime Bishop of London, edited by Louise Creighton; "The Study of the Gospels," by the Rev. J. Armitage Robinson, Canon of Westminster; and "A Christian Apologetic," by the Very Rev. Wilford L. Robbins, Dean of Albany, N. Y., two new volumes of the series of Handbooks for the Clergy, edited by Canon Robinson; a new and cheaper edition of "The Hexateuch According to the Revised Version," edited by J. E. Carpenter and G. Harford-Battersby; "The Great Mountains and Forests of South America," by Paul Fountain; "The Portraits of Julius Cæsar," a monograph, by Frank J. Scott; "The Characters of Theophrastus," newly translated by Charles E. Bennett and William A. Hammond, professors in Cornell University; "Text-Book of Electro-Chemistry," by Svante Arrhenius, translated by John McCrae; "The Analysis of Steel Works Materials," by Harry Brearley and Fred Ibbotson; also, "A College Manual of Rhetoric," by Charles Sears Baldwin, of Yale. They will bring out this month "In King's By-ways," a collection of stories, by Stanley J. Weyman, and "By the Ramparts of Jezreel," a romance of Jehu, King of Israel, by Arnold Davenport. In October they will publish "The Lord Protector," a story of Cromwell's time, by S. Levett Yeats; Andrew Lang's Christmas book for 1902, entitled "The Book of Romance," with eight colored plates and forty-four other illustrations; also, a new Golliwogg book, in which the clever authors follow the adventures of the Golliwoggs in an air ship.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have in preparation the authoritative "Life of William Ewart Gladstone," by John Morley; a new volume by Lafcadio Hearn entitled "Some Japanese Curios, with Sundry Cobwebs;" "The Splendid Idle Forties," a collection of stories of old California, by Gertrude Atherton; "The Four Feathers," a story by A. E. W. Mason, the author of "Miranda of the Balcony;" "The Grey Wig," a collection of short stories, by Zangwill, dealing with the London Ghetto; "A Waif of the Plains," the story of a child kidnapped when very young by Indians, by Frederic Remington, who also illustrates the book; "The Henchman," a novel of love and politics, by Mark Lee Luther; "Bayard's Courier," by B. K. Benson, author of "Who Goes There;" also, "The Children of the Frost," by Jack London, a series of stories dealing with the primitive folk of Alaska, Eskimos and Indians. Among the illustrated books which they have in press are several whose subjects will at once attract attention, and which will be particularly suitable for holiday gifts. Mrs. Alice Morse Earle's "Sun Dials and Roses of Yesterday;" Sir Gilbert Parker's "Quebec: The Place and the People;" Clifton Johnson's "New England and its Neighbors;" each of which is very sumptuously illustrated and handsomely bound. "Ancient Athens" is another finely illustrated work by Ernest Arthur Gardner, formerly director of the British School at Athens; it will be issued in uniform size and style with Mau's handsome work on "Pompeii: Its Life and Art," of which a new and cheaper edition is to appear. Both Mrs. Earle's book and Sir Gilbert Parker's will be issued also in limited large-paper editions. "Furniture of Olden Times," by Miss Frances C. Morse, illustrated with many reproductions of quaint and valuable pieces, will appeal to many readers of taste. It will be published also in a large-paper edition limited to one hundred copies. They also announce "An Illustrated History of English Literature," by Richard Garnett and Edmund Gosse, a feature of which will be the many rare facsimiles and portraits which it will contain.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have just brought out one of the most important literary ventures of the season—the Virginia edition of the works of Edgar Allan Poe. The text has been carefully revised by James A. Harrison, professor in the University of Virginia, upon the versions which last came under the author's eye, and the variant readings have been scrupulously recorded. Through the careful searching of the files of periodicals to which Poe contributed, a considerable addition, particularly under the head of criticism, has been made to the collected works of Poe, while these additions are in the main not merely due to editorial instinct—a test which has failed lamentably in the case of Thackeray's anonymous papers—but are attested by letters of Poe or his identifying initials in his own copies. In much of this work of text construction the editor has had access to copies corrected by Poe himself, while he has for the first time collected or printed a complete volume of letters. The works are distributed among seventeen volumes gotten up in two styles—the handy volume style, pocket size, (4x6 inches,) in cloth, limp leather and half calf boxed, and in library style, (5½x8½ inches,) in cloth and half calf. The first volume contains a new life of Poe, by Professor Harrison, and Poe's autobiography; volumes 2 to 6 contain the tales in their proper chronological order, with an introduction—"Poe's Place in American Literature"—by Hamilton W. Mabie; volume 7 contains the poems, based upon Poe's personal copy of his poems, giving emendations and corrections in the poet's handwriting, with an introduction by Dr. Charles W. Kent and textual notes by R. A. Stewart; volumes 8 to 13 contain Literary Criticism, nearly half of the text being new matter that has not seen the light of print since their original appearance; volumes 14 to 16 contain essays and miscellanies, including Poe's manuscript corrections of "Eureka," and several hitherto unpublished papers; and the 17th volume contains a new collection of letters. The volumes are fully indexed, and accompanied with photogravure frontispieces, including portraits and views. Both editions are printed from new plates on good paper and are attractively bound.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish late in October or early in November "A Sea Turn, and Other Matters," a collection of new short stories, by Thomas Bailey Aldrich; "The Heart of the Doctor," a love story of the Boston Italian quarter, by Mabel G. Foster; "Uncle Charley," a charming story of a little girl and her whimsical, lovable uncle, by Zephine Humphrey; "The Heritage," a story of Indian fighting in Ohio during the Revolution, by Burton Egbert Stevenson, librarian of the Chillicothe Public Library; an estimate of Longfellow by Thomas Wentworth Higginson, in the American Men of Letters Series; "George Rogers Clark," by Frederick J. Turner, in the Riverside Biographical Series; a Cambridge edition of the complete poems of Pope, edited by Henry W. Boynton; a humorous paraphrase of familiar fairy tales in verse, by Guy Wetmore Carryl, entitled "Grimm Tales Made Gay;" "A Pocketful of Posies," simple verse of child-life, by Abbie Farwell Brown; "The Champion," a present-day Southern story for boys, by Charles Egbert Craddock; "Three Little Marys," stories of little girls of Scotland, England and Ireland, by Nora A. Smith; a holiday edition of Kate Douglas Wiggin's "Penelope's Irish Experiences," with illustrations by Charles E. Brock; a new holiday edition of Thoreau's "Walden," with introduction by Bradford Torrey and twenty photogravures of Concord scenes and persons; a "Handbook of the Birds of the Western United States," by Florence Merriam Bailey, with thirty-three full-page plates by Fuertes; "Aid to the Study of Dante," by Charles A. Dinsmore, which contains considerable quotations from the most important Dante commentators; "Moliere," an attractive literary study of the foremost of French dramatists, by Leon H. Vincent; "The Physiological Aspects of the Liquor Problem," the result of invaluable and painstaking scientific research by famous American specialists, edited by Dr. J. S. Billings; the first part of a work entitled "Trees and Shrubs," a description, by Charles Sprague Sargent, of new or little-known ligneous plants such as would flourish in the gardens of the United States and Europe, with illustrations from drawings by C. E. Faxon; also, "A Study of Prose Fiction," a discussion of the outlines of fiction, the outcome of a course of lectures at Princeton, by Bliss Perry, the editor of the Atlantic Monthly.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—The Southern Book Company has filed a petition for a charter in the Superior Court here. It is to be capitalized at $250,000. The company is said to be the outcome of the movement in the South to secure text-books that deal with the war of 1860-'64 from a Southern point of view.

BATH, N. Y.—Lang's Central Bookstore was sold at auction to Davidson & Harper, of Cooperstown, for $2500. Lang, as reported last week, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, and the stock was sold by Trustee McMaster. The stock and fixtures inventoried at about $3700. The new firm took possession at once.

BOSTON, MASS.—Rockwell & Churchill, the widely-known printing house, has made an assignment.

DENISON, IA.—F. J. Gable has been succeeded by H. A. Carpenter.

GREAT FALLS, MONT.—A. E. Caulfield has bought out the business of Flaherty & Joyce.

IRVINGTON, N. Y.—William H. Gledhill has gone into voluntary bankruptcy.

NEW YORK CITY.—M. A. Gropper has purchased the book business of Ludwig Kölner at 78 Fourth Avenue.

SHERMAN, TEX.—Hugh Perry has been succeeded by Richardson & Sanders.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

[C] In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

[C] Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," bookellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

BRET HARTE'S WORKS

Riverside Edition. With Portraits. 16 vols., 12mo, $24.00. (Sold only in sets.)

This edition is based on the collection of Bret Harte's works prepared in 1897, and enriched by introductions and a glossary prepared by Mr. Harte himself. It is much enlarged by the inclusion of later work, and is the only uniform edition.

LOCKHART'S SCOTT

Cambridge Edition. With 11 photogravure illustrations. 5 vols., 8vo, $10.00.

The edition of the classic now presented is made particularly valuable by the fact that it is based upon a large amount of important material concerning both Scott's life and Lockhart's which has appeared since the work was first published. It has been edited with the utmost skill and the most painstaking, scholarly care, and contains many extremely interesting notes of marked importance.

THE MASQUE OF JUDGMENT

By WILLIAM VAUGHN MOODY. 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. Moody's reputation as a poet is already so firm and so evidently widening that the reissue of this dramatic poem, which represents his longest flight, will be welcome to many critics and lovers of verse. An uncut edition of 150 copies, $1.50, net.

To be Published September 20th

THE RIGHT PRINCESS

By CLARA LOUISE BURNHAM

Author of "Miss Pritchard's Wedding Trip," "A West Point Wooing," etc. 12mo, $1.50.

Much attention is being shown by the press, as well as the public, in Mrs. Burnham's new book. The fact that it deals with Christian Science, and is written by an author of high distinction, should give it an important place among Fall books. The story is one with much episode and action, and will prove of charm and interest.

It is the one great American Encyclopædia, new text, new type, new illustrations. There is nothing in this country comparable with it. Its only peers are the great German Encyclopædias.

A LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE, ANCIENT and MODERN

Every topic of human knowledge or investigation from the world's beginning to the present day, is presented in clear, succinct, accurate, impartial, and popular statement. Art, science, history, biography, religion, discovery, government, and so on for a Hundred Departments, are treated by specialists who are recognized authorities. One alphabetical arrangement embraces the entire field of subjects, making them instantly accessible for the busy man, student or general reader. There are more than 1,000 full-page illustrations, colored plates, maps, and charts, besides hundreds of text illustrations.

SILAS H. BERRY, Librarian Y. M. C. A., New York: "I have not during the past ten years seen an Encyclopædia that I was willing to recommend to our association libraries until Vol. I. of the NEW INTERNATIONAL came to my attention. You have, I believe, made an entirely new Encyclopædia, supplying a real need in the book world."

MRS. CRAIGIE'S NEW NOVEL

LOVE AND THE SOUL HUNTERS

By JOHN OLIVER HOBBS

Author of "The Gods, Some Mortals, and Lord Wickenham," "The Herb Moon," "School for Saints," "Robert Orange," etc., etc.

IN this new novel Mrs. Craigie (John Oliver Hobbes) has made, according to her own statement, the great effort of her life. It is the most brilliant creation of an author whose talent and versatility have surprised readers and critics in both Europe and America for several years.

"There is much that is worth remembering in her writings."—Mail and Express, New York.

"More than any other woman who is now writing, Mrs. Craigie is, in the true manly sense, a woman of letters. She is not a woman with a few personal emotions to express; she is what a woman so rarely is—an artist."—The Star, London.

12mo, Cloth. Price, $1.50.

MRS. KINGSLEY'S NEW NOVEL

THE NEEDLE'S EYE

By FLORENCE MORSE KINGSLEY

Author of "Titus," "The Transfiguration of Miss Philura," "Prisoners of the Sea," "Stephen," etc.

THE Needle's Eye" is a remarkable story of modern American life—not of one phase, but of many phases, widely different and in startling contrast. The scenes alternate between country and city. The pure, free air of the hills, and the foul, stifling atmosphere of the slums; the sweet breath of the clover fields, and the stench of crowded tenements are equally familiar to the hero in this novel. The other characters are found in vine-covered cottages, in humble farmhouses, in city palaces, and in the poorest tenements of the slums. Many of the situations in the novel are exceedingly dramatic. Others sparkle with genuine humor. This is a story to make people laugh, and cry, and think.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY

NEW YORK

AKRON, OHIO

CHICAGO

HERE is a book, by a new author and published by a new house, that has achieved instantaneous success. It has been cordially received by critics and reading public alike.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, in a review of the book, said :

"Stillman Gott is a 'rural philosopher,' just as his prototypes were, full of dry, droll sayings, witty stories, and quaint expressions. Generous to a fault, lovable and kind beyond words, he is one of those characters we cannot have too much of either in fiction or in real life. It is a pleasure to know Stillman Gott, and the reader will welcome him into American fiction to take his place alongside of David Harum and Eben Holden."

Besides being a good story, the book is well and handsomely bound. The print is clear and the paper is especially fine. Both from the literary and the mechanical standpoint the book is calculated to "wear well."

The Ragged Edge By John T. McIntyre

A stirring story of ward politics and of the ward's social life. Such material is to be found in every newspaper, but Mr. McIntyre takes us into the heart of his world as no man has done before. The initial volume of the "First Novel Series."

Cloth, 12mo, $1.25

MISCELLANEOUS

Jeanne d'Arc Edited by T. Douglas Murray

A remarkable historical document, being the translations from the verbatim reports in Latin, of the ecclesiastical proceedings in the trial of Jeanne d'Arc which have recently come to light. Illustrated. Cloth, Octavo, net, $5.00

Indian Boyhood By Charles A. Eastman

This book, as a picture of Indian life by one who passed his own boyhood amid the scenes which he describes, is absolutely unique. It is the only instance of literature of aboriginal life in America, treated not from without, but from within. Illustrated by E. L. Blumenschein.

Cloth, Large 12mo, net, $1.60

McClure's Children's Annual

Edited by T. H. W. Carlsland

The amusing pictures and verses, the fascinating stories, the clear, bold type, all go to make up a delightful volume for children. Illustrated with 36 full-page plates in four colors.

Decorated cloth, 9 x 11½, $1.50

Assisted by Nearly 200 Eminent Editors and Contributors

It is the one great American Encyclopædia, new text, new type, new illustrations. There is nothing in this country comparable with it. Its only peers are the great German Encyclopædias.

A LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE, ANCIENT and MODERN

Every topic of human knowledge or investigation from the world's beginning to the present day, is presented in clear, succinct, accurate, impartial, and popular statement. Art, science, history, biography, religion, discovery, government, and so on for a Hundred Departments, are treated by specialists who are recognized authorities. One alphabetical arrangement embraces the entire field of subjects, making them instantly accessible for the busy man, student or general reader. There are more than 1,000 full-page illustrations, colored plates, maps, and charts, besides hundreds of text illustrations.

SILAS H. BERRY, Librarian Y. M. C. A., New York: "I have not during the past ten years seen an Encyclopædia that I was willing to recommend to our association libraries until Vol. I. of the New INTERNATIONAL came to my attention. You have, I believe, made an entirely new Encyclopædia, supplying a real need in the book world."

The Publishers' Trade List Annual For 1902

The Catalogues volume, now ready, contains the lists of 250 publishers, approximating 7000 pages, with Denison's Duplex Index. The price of this volume is now $2.

Index Volume Now Ready

The Index volume, now ready, contains upwards of 140,000 references to the books on the Catalogues of 247 of the leading publishers in the United States by author, title and subject catchword. It is practically a key to the books in print in 1902, the announcements of the publishers so far as they were made known up to August 1 having been included.

The edition is printed from type and is limited to 1750 copies.

To those sending in remittance now the price of the Catalogue and Index volumes is $5. The price of the two volumes will be shortly raised to $7.

Remittances should be made by Check, Money Order on New York, or Registered Letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

READ WHAT THE CRITICS SAY OF A SPECKLED BIRD

By AUGUSTA EVANS WILSON.

"Mrs. Wilson is not a novelist that writes hastily. It is sixteen years since she gave her last book, 'At the Mercy of Tiberius,' to the world, and now she comes 'to those kind readers, known and unknown, who have desired her to write again,' with a story as vigorous, as passionate and as compelling in its interest as any that has ever proceeded from her pen."—Charleston News and Courier.

"There is a tragic undercurrent in it all, like a Maeterlinck theme, a passionate note of sorrow, a story of intense dramatic interest that never loosens its hold upon the reader for a moment, while it ends happily."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"This new romance will possess for us a charm not unlike that which we would feel if Sir Walter Scott could in some way dictate another romance through some occult medium and give it to the world. 'A Speckled Bird' is an absorbing romance well worthy of this delightful Southern writer."—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

"The story is vital and thrilling. It deals with Southern life since the civil war, and portrays with consummate art the deep, impassionate feelings of intense people."—Atlanta News.

"Her style is easy and her imagination never falters. It cannot be denied that her school is an ethical force, for by it a great circle receives fiction which ever teaches the triumph of righteousness and the ruin of wrong."—Boston Daily Advertiser.

"There is not one perfunctory word in it. Mrs. Wilson's view of life and her attitude toward her characters are never blasé. She exhibits extreme solicitude about the destiny of her men and women, and by that unfeigned interest she succeeds in compelling interest on the part of her reader hardly second to her own."—Chicago Daily Tribune.

"It is a piece of work far better than many of the 'best selling novels' of recent seasons. Mrs. Wilson proves that she is a vigorous and able veteran of letters, and it will be welcomed by all the quondam admirers of 'St. Elmo.' They are legion." ELEANOR M. HOYT, in The Book Buyer.

"There is in the book all the peculiarities that have distinguished the former works of our author, but there is, too, a freshness and present interest that makes the book especially attractive to those who desire a place in their fiction for the latest happenings of the world about them."—Baltimore Sun.

"The glow of Mrs. Wilson's first stories is not lacking to this new one; she writes with sincerity, and with a certain passion—which, perhaps, had a good deal to do with those earlier successes."—Louisville Evening Post.

"How absolutely sweet and clean and wholesome is the atmosphere of the story! It could not be anything else and come from her pen."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Will be read with avidity by the multitude, because it lays bare the great emotions that appeal to universal human sympathy."—Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.

"We like the stately, old-fashioned way, with honest intensities, and we have read with pleasure and admiration 'A Speckled Bird,' by Augusta Evans Wilson. Augusta Evans—a strong and a known name, in sound and in memory significant of power."—N. Y. Sun.

BEAUTIFUL JOE'S PARADISE

Or, The Island of Brotherly Love

A Sequel to "Beautiful Joe"

By MARSHALL SAUNDERS

Illustrated by CHARLES LIVINGSTON BULL $1.20 net

A FEW REVIEWS FROM ADVANCE SHEETS

"... sure to be one of the most popular juvenile books of the fall and winter season... is strikingly illustrated by Charles Livingston Bull, the artist who drew the pictures for Prof. Roberts' 'The Kindred of the Wild.'... Miss Saunders has put life, humor, action and tenderness into her story."—Chicago Record Herald.

"Revives the spirit of 'Beautiful Joe' capitally. Will probably be more successful than its precursor. It is fairly riotous with fun, and, as a whole, about as unusual as anything in the animal book line that has seen the light. It is a book for juveniles—old and young."—Philadelphia Item.

"Remarkably bright and clever, and will certainly prove a big success with children."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE LAST WORD

By ALICE MacGOWAN

A story of the heart—of a woman's heart—yet it is such a piquant mixture of humor, practicality and sentiment that the latter never unwelcomely predominates. There is no woman who will read the book without finding in many places her own heart speaking to her from its pages. There are few who will read it without both laughter and tears. It is the greatest autobiography of a woman's love since "Jane Eyre," and it is modern in its essence.

THE TWO VANREVELS

A Novel of Indiana Life in the 40's

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

The Ball-Room Scene from "The Two Vanrevels."

To the reading public a new novel by Mr. Tarkington is an event. It is three years since "The Gentleman from Indiana" was published, and two years since "Monsieur Beaucaire" appeared, both of which have sold heavily and continuously. The time is now ripe for a new Tarkington book. "The Two Vanrevels" will fully justify the anticipations of Mr. Tarkington's admirers. It is the kind of story that will appeal alike to men and women with irresistible charm.

THE RIGHT PRINCESS

By CLARA LOUISE BURNHAM, author of "Miss Pritchard's Wedding Trip," "A West Point Wooing," etc. 12mo, $1.50.

Mrs. Burnham has long been a favorite author and her many readers will find in this new story the same power to charm and interest. It will also attract unusual attention in that it comes as a novelty in the field of fiction—being based on Christian Science. The story is one of much episode and action and it will not be surprising if it calls out a great deal of discussion.

JAPANESE GIRLS AND WOMEN

By ALICE M. BACON, author of "A Japanese Exterior," etc. With 12 colored illustrations and many sketches by the Japanese artist Keishu Takenouchi. 12mo, boxed, $4.00.

Miss Bacon has thoroughly revised her charming account of the girls and women of Japan and has added much of interest and importance. The illustrations exhibit an exquisiteness of color and delicacy of drawing characteristic of the best Japanese art. The book is bound in Japanese silk with a gold design and will make an exceptionally attractive gift.

A Downrenter's Son

By RUTH HALL, author of "The Black Gown," "The Golden Arrow," etc. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

A story dealing with the strange attempt to abolish rents in New York about sixty years ago. It is a novel with much adventure and incident and, like Miss Hall's other books, will be read with interest.

The Flag on the Hilltop

By MARY TRACY EARLE, author of "Through Old-Rose Glasses," etc. Illustrated. 12mo, 90 cents, net. Postage, 7 cents.

The story of a Southern boy who lived with a Northern uncle during the Civil War. The lad's loyalty to his uncle and his loyalty to the South provide a fine story which will be eagerly read by boys.

ETERNALISM:

A Theory of Infinite Justice

By ORLANDO J. SMITH. Crown 8vo, $1.25 net. Postage 13 cents.

This essay is a stimulating argument for the pre-existence of the soul. The temper of the book is admirable, and it will command the attention of thoughtful readers.

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE

By GEORGE E. WOODBERRY. In the American Men of Letters Series. With portraits. 16mo, $1.10 net. Postage, 10 cents.

This biography is exceptional and noteworthy. Professor Woodberry is well fitted both by temperament and by long training to interpret Hawthorne's personality. He has here produced a life of our greatest novelist, which, it may be predicted, will take a permanent place as biography and literature.

NovelRichard Harding Davis*CAPTAIN MACKLIN

With full-page illustrations by Walter Appleton Clark. $1.50

This novel, besides being a story of extraordinary narrative interest, creates, also, several characters of vividness and great charm, one at least of which, General Laguerre, is unique in literature, and impresses the reader powerfully with his fine and highly romantic personality. Captain Macklin's career carries him through a South American revolution and through various military adventures. He is one of the author's most fascinating heroes.

Wayfarers in Italy

By KATHARINE HOOKER. With 50 illustrations and many decorations. $3.00 net, postage 22 cents.

NOTES IN SEASON.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish on the 30th inst., three notable novels—"Barbara Ladd," a story of Colonial days, by Charles G. D. Roberts, author of "The Forge in the Forest," etc., illustrated in tints by Frank Verbeck; "Hope Loring," a story of a wilful, unconventional girl, by Lilian Bell, author of "The Love Affairs of an Old Maid," etc., with illustrations by Frank T. Merrill; also, "The Last Word," the "autobiography of a woman's love," by Alice MacGowan.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. publish to-day "The Holland Wolves," by J. Breckenridge Ellis, a historical novel of the Spanish invasion of the Netherlands, with illustrations by the Kinneys, who made the fine pictures for "The Thrall of Leif the Lucky," "In Argolis," a charming description of family life in Greece, by George Horton, with illustrations in tint; also, a holiday edition of Max Müller's story of German love entitled "Memories," with illustrations, embellishments and cover designs by Blanche Ostertag.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "The Wooing of Wistaria," a new novel of Japanese life, by Onoto Watanna, author of "A Japanese Nightingale," "The Ship of Dreams," by Louise Forsslund, author of "The Story of Sarah," a story of the early settlers of Long Island; "The Maid-at-Arms," a story of American life in 1778, by Robert W. Chambers, author of "Cardigan," also, a new volume of verse, by E. S. Martin, well-known to the readers of Harper's Weekly as the editor of the department "This Busy World."

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just ready "The Banner of Blue," S. R. Crockett's new story, described as a "new version of the parable of the prodigal son," in which, against the sombre background of the Disruption Period in Scotland, the author draws two brilliantly colored love stories; "Indian Boyhood," the boyish impressions and experiences up to the age of fifteen of the author, Dr. Charles A. Eastman (Ohiyesa), a full-blooded Sioux Indian, with illustrations by E. L. Blumenschein; also, "McClure's Children's Annual for 1903, a jolly big book of stories and verse edited by T. W. H. Crossland, with a number of colored full-page pictures and occasional black and white ones in the text.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish next week a new book by "J. P. M.," entitled "Tangled Up in Beulah Land," which is a sequel to the author's "A Journey to Nature," in so far as three of its chief characters are "Charlie," his father, and the inimitable "Doctor." They will publish at the same time an illustrated edition of "J. P. M.'s" delightful story "A Journey to Nature," with sixteen pictures by Henry Troth. Other books to be brought out next week are "The Wooing of Judith," a love story by Sarah Beaumont Kennedy, the author of "Joscelyn Cheshire," the scene of which is laid in Colonial Virginia; "Memoirs of a Contemporary," the memoirs of "Ida Saint-Elme," who went to the Napoleonic wars in men's clothes to follow Marshal Ney, translated from the French and edited by Lionel Strachey, with 48 illustrations from old prints; a limited edition of the text of W. S. Gilbert's famous opera "Patience," printed for the first time without the music, and with a characteristically happy introduction by the author; "Hand in Hand, Poems of Mother and Daughter," a volume of verses by Rudyard Kipling's mother and his sister Alice, that will appeal to all lovers of home life; also a cheaper edition of Frederick A. Cook's intensely interesting work "Through the First Antarctic Night," being a narrative of the voyage of the Belgica to the South Pole.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Beginning with the issue of July 5, 1902, the titles of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The titles of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. Net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin, in which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

The chief interest centres around Clementine Gloucester, the daughter of an American woman and an English father. She is desired by two men—Prince Paul of Urseville, Beylestein, a "sentimental libertine" who is "consumed by the desire for beauty—in nature, in art, in souls," and his secretary, Dr. Felshammer, who is "socialistic with a cynical affection for the aristocracy." The struggle ends in the triumph of the woman, who has something to say in the matter.

"The ruin of a pharaoh and the fall of his dynasty, with the rise of a self-chosen sovereign and a new line of rulers, are the double consummation in this novel. The book ends with that climax, but the fall of the new priestly rulers is a matter of history, as is the destruction wrought on Egypt by tyrants from Assyria and Persia. The native pharaohs lost power through the priesthood, whose real interest it was to support them; but fate found the priests later on, and pronounced on them also the doom of extinction."—Preface. †Kauffman, Reginald Wright. The things that are Cæsar's: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [S.] c. 6+336 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The problem presented in this novel is, whether a man who has broken the laws can, after paying the penalty in punishment, be reinstated in the eyes of the world, and again take his place in business and social life. John Haig had committed forgery in his youth and had served his sentence in prison. When he emerges into the world and begins the struggle to make a living he finds that his debt is not cancelled, that prison, not the crime, cannot be forgotten. By the author of "Jarvis of Harvard"

Kent, Eliz. The house opposite: a mystery. N. Y., Putnam, 1902. [Ag.] c. 5+276 p. D. cl., $1 net.

The story is told by a young doctor. Seeking a cool spot, one hot summer night, he ascends to the roof of his house, and thus sees by chance some remarkable occurrences in the house opposite, a fashionable apartment house on Madison Ave. A body of a man is afterwards found in this house, and every effort is made to discover the murderer. An exciting detective story is the result, different persons in turn being suspected, and closely followed up.

A continuation, in a measure, of the author's former volume of "Great pictures." It aims to represent several great painters who did not appear in the first volume, such as Crivelli, Luini, Giorgione, Moroni, Landseer, Mantegna and Perugino, who were left out of "Great pictures" for lack of space. The pictures in this series are not only paintings with great reputations, but each one is a painting of the very first rank. The text is from the pens of the most famous writers of all countries.

In this work, which is a compilation of views and impressions of the British metropolis, the compiler has in some measure followed the plan of her former work on Paris in selecting from a vast number of works descriptions of such external characteristics of the city as are recorded by travellers and famous native and foreign writers. The selections deal largely with general impressions of various sections of the great city—however there will be found descriptions of many of the chief monuments, the streets, the squares, the parks, the old churches and civic buildings with associations, besides much interesting historical matter.

The first edition of this work was prepared to meet a popular demand for information on the money question in the presidential campaign of 1896. The progress of events, of legislation, and of public opinion, however, during the past seven years, suggested revision and addition. While following the general historical plan of the first edition, and adopting its text in part, the author has practically rewritten the book, adding several new chapters, expunging controversial and other matter that has become obsolete, and bringing the whole down to date. It has been his aim to adapt it more particularly to the use of the class room. To this end he has added a brief recapitulation, and a list of authorities, to each chapter.

White, Percy. The new Christians. N. Y., Federal Book Co., 1902. c. 2-468 p. D. cl., 50 c.

A fashionable London religious sect, led by Eustace Fenner, is called the "New Christians." They believe in healing by faith. Fenner is in a large measure a charlatan, troubled by pecuniary difficulties. His troubles with his congregation, and two rich women, either of whom he would marry, have a disastrous conclusion.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

CLEANLINESS IN BOOKMAKING.

IN these days of quick, and chiefly machine, work in producing books, it frequently happens that in every batch of books sent out some individual copies do not pass muster—that often a whole batch is open to criticism. This may be inevitable; yet cleanliness is a most important element in the manufacture of books, and its principle should be insisted upon by the maker of books almost from the time that the raw material is worked into paper, until the complete book passes into the hands of its readers. Papermaking processes, properly conducted, should put into the hands of the printer a sheet in every way fit for his best efforts, and the printer, in turn, should hand over to the binder the printed sheets in perfect register, without smear or set-off or any disfigurement which may detract from the beauty of the finished product. The continuing processes should be conducted upon the same lines, and in all subsequent storing and handling the one idea of cleanliness should prevail.

This principle in many cases is lost sight of in details that are too often taken for granted by the one in charge of the manufacturing department. The papermaker is not held rigidly to the grade of product demanded; hence paper of uneven quality is run in and volumes are likely to appear printed on two if not more grades of paper. The printer, in his turn, is permitted to violate the canons of his art, and imperfect spacing, bad letters and other blemishes, not to mention careless proof reading, especially of the last revises, help to multiply the offenses which detract from the neatness of the book. In the press-work objectionable fea-
